Suspects Admit Being Part Of Murder Ring, French Police Say

WERE ARRESTED AS KALEMEN ASSOCIATES

Say Actual Slayer Named By Lot—Suspects Held Are Terrorists

(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

ANNEMASSE, France, Oct. 12.—Two Yugoslavian emigres held here as accomplices of Petrus Kalemen, assassin of King Alexander, have confessed participation in a murder ring sworn to slay the monarch, it was announced here today.

The announcement was made by M. Stefanovitch, aide to Kosta Fotitch, Yugoslavian delegate to the League of Nations, who flew here to interrogate the suspects after their arrest.

Carried Forged Passports.

The men, who carried forged passports, gave their names as Ladislas Benes and Jaroslav Novak. There was some doubt as to their nationality but it is believed both were born in sections of what is now Yugoslavia.

Kalemen was chosen by lot to journey to Marseilles to assassinate the king. Stefanovitch declared the men admitted, but if he had failed, other members of the ring would have attempted one after the other until success was attained.

Notorious Terrorist.

Stefanovitch informed International News Service that a Yugoslavian fingerprint expert has identified Novak as Svonimir Pospisil, a notorious terrorist who has already been condemned to death in Absentia in Yugoslavia for his terrorist activities.

Stefanovitch revealed the men confessed after a four-hour grilling.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

The recent assassinations at Marseilles of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and French Foreign Minister Barthou, will bring back memories of the late war to a number of World War veterans in New Castle. Marseilles was a favorite spot of leave for veterans and was visited by many. In addition, there were some from this city who were stationed there during the war.

I have been asked for some light on the wild asters that grows in our woods. The sharp leaved wood aster is a low growing plant with a whitish bloom. Police Plan To Halt Vandalism By Gangs

Police are planning to put a stop to destructive pre-Hallowe'en practices being followed by gangs of boys in this city, it was stated this morning at police station.

Gangs have been perpetrating depredations that are out of the realm of seasonal mischief, and police plan to break up the vandalism.

Yesterday police were told that tomatoes were thrown at a house on Euclid avenue. One tomato hit the upper sash of the window and broke it. It went through the window, spoiled the lace curtain, damaged a desk and spilled over a hardwood floor.

Police are told that some "gangs" travel from their own neighborhood to another section and cause damage and then flee. Chief of Police Haven, having found in some cases a fair warning has not been accepted, will use punitive methods, it is stated.

Annually at this time of year some boys become mischievous. No one objects to a playful prank which causes no damage but when property is ruined, it then becomes the duty of police to take the boys into custody, and the parents are liable for the damage.

Parents who wish to aid in efforts to stop property damage will warn their sons as to the consequences for acts which they themselves will not condone. If the damage continues the curfew law may be enforced.

Charles 'Pretty Boy' Floyd and George 'Baby Face' Nelson Escape In Gun Battle

AUTO PUNCTURED BY MANY BULLETS

America's Ace Desperadoes Are Being Tracked Down By Heavily Armed Posses

(International News Service)

McINTYRE, Ia., Oct. 12.—Federal officers and police of two states today pressed a grim man hunt for Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd and George "Baby Face" Nelson, foremost of the nation's desperadoes, who with a companion escaped in a running gun battle with officers near here.

Fleeing southward in a car bearing Iowa licenses the trio of outlaws were last reported at Princeton, Mo., with Floyd at the wheel. Witnesses said the back of the automobile was punctured with bullets.

Head For Oklahoma.

Missouri authorities promptly joined in the search. Floyd was believed to be heading for the Oklahoma bad lands where he made his name as a killer and bank robber extraordinary.

Sheriff William Owen and State Agent A. G. Haight, with whom the three desperadoes exchanged volleys of machine gun and pistol fire near here, said they were positive of Floyd's identity. They expressed belief that one of his companions was "Baby Face" Nelson, former machine gunner of the John Dillinger gang and America's public enemy No. 1.

Federal officers arrived here immediately after the shooting affray to take charge of the investigation and squads of armed deputy sheriffs and volunteers hunted highways, roads and farms for a trace of the gunmen, who had fled southward.

Federal agents disclosed two days ago that Floyd was one of the actual slayers in the machine gun massacre of five persons at the Kansas City union station June 17, 1933.

The rails between the bridge and Front street also will be removed.

Lewistown Is Given 1935 State Convention

(Special To The News)

INDIANA, Pa., Oct. 12.—When the delegates from the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association, who had come here for the annual State Sabbath School Association Convention, learned that Lewistown, had already raised the money for the entertainment of the convention next year, they withdrew their request in favor of Lewistown, which city, will be the scene of the convention in 1935. New Castle will entertain the convention in 1936.

Lewistown, it was pointed out, had not entertained the convention for 48 years, and was especially desirous of having the delegates meet there next year.

The Lawrence County delegates therefore graciously withdrew their request, and were promised the convention for the succeeding year.

Thursday, the Davis evangelistic party, which is conducting gospel services at the Harmony Baptist church, met with a serious automobile accident while enroute to Bridgeville, where they were to conduct a funeral service for an intimate friend of the family.

The accident occurred in the vicinity of Etna; a truck pulled out across the road and the Davis car collided with it, resulting in the car being completely demolished. Miss Edna Davis was injured about the head, but her brother escaped injury.

Evangelist Davis, accompanied by Carson Brothers, returned to the Harmony church in time to preach the evening sermon, but Miss Edna remained at home, but will be out this evening. The many friends they have made in this vicinity during their stay here regret to learn of their accident.

This evening at 7:30 the service in the Harmony Baptist church will be of unusual interest as the Davis party will dramatize "The Prodigal Son".

The Rev. and Mrs. John Metzer are visiting with Rev. and Mrs. R. Owrey. Bell avenue, enroute to Detroit, Mich. to visit with the former's parents.

Robinson Ends His Service Here

Emergency Relief Director Is Recalled From Lawrence County

After approximately six months service in Lawrence County as administrator of the Emergency Relief, E. H. Robinson has been recalled to Harrisburg for further placing. Roger Ormond, assistant director of the Lawrence-Butler area is acting as administrator at the present time.

Mr. Robinson's leaving was unexpected. He had recently completed the consolidation of the three counties into an area in relief work and had taken over the old New Castle Knitting Mill plant on South Mill street for headquarters.

It is assumed that he has been recalled for another piece of consolidation work in some part of the state.

Roger Ormond who is acting as administrator is a resident of Grove City and prior to the consolidation was administrator of Mercer County. He is a veteran of the World War and served in the 112th Infantry, 28th Division.

Italy Seeks To Maintain Peace

MUSSOLINI STRIVES TO AVOID CLASH

ROME, Oct. 12.—Italy was bending over backwards today in a determined effort to avoid a clash with Yugoslavia, which might well provoke a new European conflagration.

Provocation would have to be enormous before Premier Mussolini, now the involuntary custodian of European peace, would even admit it existed, his subordinates hinted.

Minimize Incidents

Rome practically closed its eyes to yesterday's anti-Italian activities in Croatia. Officials minimized the incidents, and they were not reported in the Italian press, under orders from the government.

"The report that a mob manhandled the Italian consul at Ljubljana is much exaggerated," a high Fascist official, who is important enough to act as the Duce's spokesman, but who cannot be named because of strict party rules, told International News Service.

"A mob did surround and threaten a consulate clerk in the street, but the police performed their duty with great efficiency and saved him before he had been harmed.

"Any other anti-Italian manifestations there may have been we are convinced were also promptly handled by the police.

"Nothing has happened of any political or international significance, and we are confident that nothing will. The Italian government is taking no action in regard to yesterday's incidents, because no steps are called for."

Attitude Of Italy

This expressed the attitude of Mussolini, who is intensely desirous of maintaining peace, and, if hu-

Kidnapers Still Hold Mrs. Stoll; Ransom Ready

Wealthy Husband Pleads With Kidnapers To Get Money And Free Her

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12.—All ransom requirements have been met, a statement released today by Berry V. Stoll, husband of the kidnaped Alice Speed Stoll, said this afternoon.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12.—Persistent reports this morning were that the kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll has notified her family a contact will be made today.

Actual meeting of emissaries of the woman's husband, Berry V. Stoll, and of the abductors will take place in downtown Louisville, it was believed.

A prominent attorney has the $50,000 ransom cash and is the Stoll family's representative in the negotiations, it was reliably learned today.

Alarm Increases

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12.—Only grim silence with deepening mystery today rewarded unceasing vigil for some contact with the kidnaper of attractive Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

Alarm increased when at 4:20 o'clock this morning the thirty-sixth hour passed since the 26-year-old society matron was forced at pistol point from her home—bleeding from a blow on the head and ill with a cold.

Two Suspects Admit Being In Murder Ring Assassinations

Suspects Admit Being Part Of Murder Ring, French Police Say

(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

ANNEMASSE, France, Oct. 12.—Two Yugoslavian emigres held here as accomplices of Petrus Kalemen, assassin of King Alexander, have confessed participation in a murder ring sworn to slay the monarch, it was announced here today.

The announcement was made by M. Stefanovitch, aide to Kosta Fotitch, Yugoslavian delegate to the League of Nations, who flew here to interrogate the suspects after their arrest.

Carried Forged Passports.

The men, who carried forged passports, gave their names as Ladislas Benes and Jaroslav Novak. There was some doubt as to their nationality but it is believed both were born in sections of what is now Yugoslavia.

Kalemen was chosen by lot to journey to Marseilles to assassinate the king, Stefanovitch declared the men admitted, but if he had failed, other members of the ring would have attempted one after the other until success was attained.

Notorious Terrorist.

Stefanovitch informed International News Service that a Yugoslavian fingerprint expert has identified Novak as Svonimir Pospisil, a notorious terrorist who has already been condemned to death in Absentia in Yugoslavia for his terrorist activities.

Stefanovitch revealed the men confessed after a four-hour grilling.

The recent assassinations at Marseilles of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and French Foreign Minister Barthou, will bring back memories of the late war to a number of World War veterans in New Castle. Marseilles was a favorite spot of leave for veterans and was visited by many. In addition, there were some from this city who were stationed there during the war.

I have been asked for some light on the wild asters that grows in our woods. The sharp leaved wood aster is a low growing plant with a whitish bloom. The heart leafed aster of a whitish lilac color, is very common and the blooming time is September to the last of October. One of the most beautiful of wild asters, is the New England aster. Police Plan To Halt Vandalism By Gangs

Police are planning to put a stop to destructive pre-Hallowe'en practices being followed by gangs of boys in this city, it was stated this morning at police station.

Gangs have been perpetrating depredations that are out of the realm of seasonal mischief, and police plan to break up the vandalism.

Yesterday police were told that tomatoes were thrown at a house on Euclid avenue. One tomato hit the upper sash of the window and broke it. It went through the window, spoiled the lace curtain, damaged a desk and spilled over a hardwood floor.

Police are told that some "gangs" travel from their own neighborhood to another section and cause damage and then flee. Chief of Police Haven, having found in some cases a fair warning has not been accepted, will use punitive methods, it is stated.

Annually at this time of year some boys become mischievous. No one objects to a playful prank which causes no damage but when property is ruined, it then becomes the duty of police to take the boys into custody, and the parents are liable for the damage.

Parents who wish to aid in efforts to stop property damage will warn their sons as to the consequences for acts which they themselves will not condone. If the damage continues the curfew law may be enforced.

Noted Gangsters Are Being Sought In Mid-West Area

Charles 'Pretty Boy' Floyd and George 'Baby Face' Nelson Escape In Gun Battle

AUTO PUNCTURED BY MANY BULLETS

America's Ace Desperadoes Are Being Tracked Down By Heavily Armed Posses

(International News Service)

McINTYRE, Ia., Oct. 12.—Federal officers and police of two states today pressed a grim man hunt for Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd and George "Baby Face' Nelson, foremost of the nation's desperadoes, who with a companion escaped in a running gun battle with officers near here.

Fleeing southward in a car bearing Iowa licenses the trio of outlaws were last reported at Princeton, Mo., with Floyd at the wheel. Witnesses said the back of the automobile was punctured with bullets.

Head For Oklahoma.

Missouri authorities promptly joined in the search. Floyd was believed to be heading for the Oklahoma bad lands where he made his name as a killer and bank robber extraordinary.

Sheriff William Owen and State Agent A. G. Haight, with whom the three desperadoes exchanged volleys of machine gun and pistol fire near here, said they were positive of Floyd's identity. They expressed belief that one of his companions was "Baby Face" Nelson, former machine gunner of the John Dillinger gang and America's public enemy No. 1.

Federal officers arrived here immediately after the shooting affray to take charge of the investigation and squads of armed deputy sheriffs and volunteers hunted highways, roads and farms for a trace of the gunmen, who had fled southward.

Federal agents disclosed two days ago that Floyd was one of the actual slayers in the machine gun massacre of five persons at the Kansas City union station June 17, 1933.

Lewistown Is Given 1935 State Convention

(Special To The News)

INDIANA, Pa., Oct. 12.—When the delegates from the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association, who had come here for the annual State Sabbath School Association Convention, learned that Lewistown, had already raised the money for the entertainment of the convention next year, they withdrew their request in favor of Lewistown, which city, will be the scene of the convention in 1935. New Castle will entertain the convention in 1936.

Lewistown, it was pointed out, had not entertained the convention for 48 years, and was especially desirous of having the delegates meet there next year.

Evangelists In Auto Crash

Davis Party, Enroute To Funeral, Struck By Truck, On Road Near Pittsburgh

Thursday, the Davis evangelistic party, which is conducting gospel services at the Harmony Baptist church, met with a serious automobile accident while enroute to Bridgeville, where they were to conduct a funeral service for an intimate friend of the family.

The accident occurred in the vicinity of Etna; a truck pulled out across the road and the Davis car collided with it, resulting in the car being completely demolished. Miss Edna Davis was injured about the head, but her brother escaped injury.

Evangelist Davis, accompanied by Carson Brothers, returned to the Harmony church in time to preach the evening sermon, but Miss Edna remained at home, but will be out this evening. The many friends they have made in this vicinity during their stay here regret to learn of their accident.

This evening at 7:30 the service in the Harmony Baptist church will be of unusual interest as the Davis party will dramatize "The Prodigal Son".

The Rev. and Mrs. John Metzer are visiting with Rev. and Mrs. R. Owrey, Bell avenue, enroute to Detroit, Mich. to visit with the former's parents.

Robinson Ends His Service Here

ORMOND IS NOW IN CHARGE HERE

After approximately six months service in Lawrence County as administrator of the Emergency Relief, E. H. Robinson has been recalled to Harrisburg for further placing. Roger Ormond, assistant director of the Lawrence-Butler area is acting as administrator at the present time.

Mr. Robinson's leaving was unexpected. He had recently completed the consolidation of the three counties into an area in relief work and had taken over the old New Castle Knitting Mill plant on South Mill street for headquarters.

He came to New Castle from Philadelphia where he resides, but in the past year had been used in various parts of the state in consolidating various relief boards and improving the administrative structures of the relief organizations. It is assumed that he has been recalled for another piece of consolidation work in some part of the state.

Roger Ormond who is acting as administrator is a resident of Grove City and prior to the consolidation was administrator of Mercer County. He is a veteran of the World War and served in the 112th Infantry, 28th Division.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 12.—Say, the Republicans have turned the coming election into a real "youths' movement." Just signed up for the coming society hop is those ex-White House co-eds, Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Mrs. William Howard Taft, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Herbert Hoover. And nothing is any more gratifying to America than to welcome back into the fold all those gracious and sturdy American women.

Funny thing about that White House, it wears down the most hardy of our men-folks, but the women seem to thrive on it.

By the way, this is Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt's birthday. I wish I knew where she was today; I would send her a message of good wishes as I am very fond of her. So here is a kind of blanket good wish to all of 'em, and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

Sure you should all keep up your political affiliations and public interests. Don't retire; we want you to keep on living.

MUSSOLINI STRIVES TO AVOID CLASH

HAUPTMANN BATTLES EXTRADITION MOVE

Court To Hear His Plea Monday

Defense Will Offer Alibi In Attempt To Foil Extradition

PLAN ATTACK ON SOME OF WITNESSES

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—With only three days remaining until Monday when a hearing will be held on Bruno Richard Hauptmann's plea to escape extradition to New Jersey to stand trial for the murder of the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh his counsel, James A. Fawcett, was busy today marshalling every scrap of evidence favorable to the cause of the Bronx carpenter.

Fawcett has already announced that Hauptmann's defense will be an alibi and from one source today comes the report he will contend that on the night the Lindbergh infant was stolen from its crib in Hopewell, N. J., the somber-faced alien was in the Bronx—playing pinochle.

Fawcett has a large detail of private detectives working to bolster his defense and indications were that every so-called telling point in the prosecution's case against Hauptmann would be vigorously contested.

In New Jersey, for example, it is understood Fawcett is preparing to blast the props from under the state's star witness—the man on whose testimony it is believed the prosecution is depending to prove that Hauptmann was in Hopewell in or about the time of the kidnaping.

This witness, it is said, is Millard Whited, Sourland mountain logger, who told police that on two occasions during the month before the crime he saw a man resembling Hauptmann in the woods near the Lindbergh estate.

To Attack Credibility

An affidavit in which Whited's credibility as a witness is assailed is now in the hands of the defense attorney, it was reported.

The man who signed the affidavit, it is stated, is Theodore Arnold, a Hopewell truckman, who declares he has known the mountaineer for more than 20 years.

Meanwhile a new figure entered the case in the person of Frank Rossiter of Maplewood, N. J., a theatrical booking agent with offices on Fifth avenue, New York. He may appear with other state witnesses in the Bronx on Monday at the habeas corpus hearing.

Rossiter, it was learned, is prepared to testify that he talked with Hauptmann for approximately ten minutes in a well-lighted place near Sourland mountain. Rossiter revealed that he had not known Hauptmann by name, but had identified him positively from pictures.

Admission that Rossiter would be one of the most important witnesses for the prosecution came from Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey State Police, who said:

"Rossiter is one of the most reliable of all those we have interviewed. He is alert, intelligent and has an excellent background."

Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who is handling Jersey's effort to extradite Hauptmann, declared himself unworried by Fawcett's effort to impugn Whited's credibility as a witness, and defied the defense to prove that the carpenter was not in New Jersey on and about the time of the kidnaping.

TWO CONFESS BEING IN PLOT TO SHOOT KING

They first went to Lausanne on Hungarian passports, the Yugoslavian official said, and there met a man named Staucher who gave them forged Czechoslovakian papers.

Both will be sent to Marseilles tomorrow for trial as accomplices in the assassinations, and if convicted face the guillotine.

Guard Italian Consulate.

Zagreb, Oct. 12.—Heavy guards were thrown about the Italian consulate here and in other Yugoslavian cities today as part of the government's intensive drive to prevent serious complications with Italy.

With the wave of anti-Italian feeling which followed the assassination of King Alexander gravely threatening peace, newspapers were rigorously censored, and all anti-Italian articles were strictly prohibited.

Meanwhile, reports circulated here that Petrus Kalemen, assassin of King Alexander, was actually an Albanian Moslem, and member of a secret Albanian revolutionary organization known as Kosovo.

This organization has its headquarters in Vienna, and is alleged to have Italian affiliations. Its aim is said to be union of Serbia and Dalmatia with Albania.

Arouse New Fears

ANNEMASSE, France, Oct. 12—Arousing new fears of grave international complications arising from the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, two accomplices in the slaying of the monarch admitted here today they were members of the most notorious terrorist organization in Europe.

Police announced they had confessed membership in the Oustacht a terrorist society composed of Croat refugees from Yugoslavia which Italy and Hungary have frequently been accused of supporting and financing.

They admitted they were close associates of Petrus Kalemen, the Croat who fired the shots which killed Alexander and French foreign minister Louis Barthou, and revealed they were each ready to try if he had failed in his attempt.

The two men came to France under assumed names and carrying forged Czechoslovakian passports, One of them, who gave his name as Jaroslav Novak was identified by a Yugoslavian fingerprint expert as Svonimir Pospisil, a notorious terrorist long ago condemned to death in Yugoslavia.

The other, who posed as Ladislas Benes, was believed to be Ivan Rajtch, also a known terrorist, born in Yugoslavia in 1903.

Confronted with the evidence of the fingerprint expert, Pospisil admitted his identity and confirmed that he had been sentenced to death at Zagreb two years ago for slaying a newspaper owner named Swegal.

"I fled to the Hungarian emigre farm, at Jankapustka, where I joined the Oustachi," Pospisil was quoted by the police inspector here as saying.

KIDNAPERS STILL HOLD MRS. STOLL; RANSOM READY

night by the woman captive's wealthy husband, Berry V. Stoll, to come and get the $50,000 ransom that was demanded by note, went unheeded.

His estate was completely isolated at his own urgent request, federal agents and police having withdrawn so as to give the abductor's envoys unhindered access to the place.

Scores of rumors that suspicious looking motorists had been seen were tracked down in all sections of the state.

Death Penalty

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12.—The kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll will face death in the electric chair or imprisonment for life if captured and convicted.

The extreme penalties are provided by a Kentucky statute enacted in 1928.

Stoll In Pursuit

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12.—Berry V. Stoll, whose wife was kidnaped Wednesday, drove his own roadster roaring along country roads near here today in pursuit of an automobile reported to contain Mrs. Stoll and her captor.

A federal department of justice agent rode at Stoll's side. After several miles Stoll outdistanced newspapermen who followed him when he spurted out of the driveway of his home shortly before 10 o'clock.

Twice the wealthy oil man stopped to inquire which route had been taken by the small sedan he was chasing as presumably was acting on a tip privately given him.

Question Man

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 12.—Local police today took Walter Childress, 29, to headquarters for questioning about the kidnaping of Mrs. Berry Stoll, Louisville, Ky., society woman. No charge has been placed against him.

He was picked up for questioning following the discovery of a car in a local wrecking establishment which Patrolman Tom Mitchell said contained several blond hairs and cloths, which he said might conceivably be used as bandages.

Keep Planes Down

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12—Every airport in Kentucky today agreed to hold flying to a minimum until Mrs. Berry V. Stoll is released by her kidnaped, William S. Kammerer, spokesman for the Stoll family, announced.

Fear had been expressed that the abductor might be frightened by fear of surveillance from the air. Today's action, it was hoped, would remove that bar to the kidnaper treating with the Stoll family.

Militiamen Aid

HARRODSBURG, Ky., Oct. 12.—Militiamen joined the wide-spread hunt for kidnaped Mrs. Berry V. Stoll of Louisville today, 50 of them launching a thorough search along the shores of Herrington Lake for trace of her.

Twenty-five Kentucky National Guardsmen under Brig.-Gen. Elerbe W. Carter of Louisville and 25 members of the active state militia under Capt. Storey Herron of Danville, made the search. They arrived quietly late yesterday.

Husband Leads Chase

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 12.—At the wheel of his own speedy roadster Berry V. Stoll, wealthy oil executive, led a daring chase over a maze of country roads near his home today after an automobile he believed carried his captive wife and her kidnaper.

A secret tip presumably sent him off on his desperate dash, accompanied by a lone federal agent. He soon outdistanced newspapermen and after stopping twice to inquire if the car he sought had been sighted, lost himself to followers on the mesh of roads.

Signs increased meanwhile that a contact with the kidnaper was expected today, at which the $50,000 ransom cash would be paid over to a Nashville, Tenn., man acting as the abductor's emissary. Stoll has placed the money, in currency of varying denominations, in the hands of a prominent Louisville attorney and the meeting reportedly was to be arranged somewhere in downtown Louisville.

Widespread Hunt

Hope for a quick release of Mrs. Stoll following this anticipated contact failed to check the widespread hunt for the pretty brunette society matron. Federal agents rushed to southern Kentucky following reports suspicious looking parties had been seen there last night; and fifty militiamen launched a thorough combing of the Herrington lake country, near Harrodsburg.

Twenty-five national guardsmen and twenty-five of the active state militia composed the searching force.

Even the air was cleared of all possible traffic, to show the abductor he is not being spied upon from above. Every airport in the state agreed to hold flying to a minimum.

Authorities refused to comment on the arrest of a suspect at Charleston, W. Va.

Anxiety For Captive

Anxiety that Mrs. Stoll might not have strength to endure the ordeal of kidnaping grew among her friends as the forty-third hour of her captivity passed at 11:30 o'clock this morning. She was ill with a cold and fevered when she was dragged from home late Wednesday afternoon, and her abductor further imperiled her with two blows on her head, one of which cut a gash in her forehead which bled profusely.

Stoll kept constant vigil at his telephone last night, and when a newspaperman got on the line this morning, said: "We are holding this wire open." To clear the way for him to treat with the kidnaper, police and newspapermen remained away from the Stoll estate.

decided to study medicine but illness interfered with his plans. When he returned to college he had changed his plans and entered the seminary in Allegheny after graduating from W. & J., with the class of 1858.

Upon his graduation from the seminary he was sent to India as a missionary where for forty years he labored in the Punjab. Primitive conditions prevailed, living conditions among the low castes were dreadful, money was scarce and Dr. Barr had little to work with except a burning ambition to further the cause of Christ. His efforts met with success and at the conclusion of his forty years of service in Indian he returned to the United States with a record of brilliant achievement back of him.

After his return to the United States 30 years ago he busied himself in Christian work for many years preaching in many states. Some years ago he retired to the home of his son Dr. H. E. Barr in New Wilmington. Dr. H. E. Barr passed away, a few years ago.

Studied Medicine

Some years ago Dr. Barr returned to the ambition of his youth, the study of medicine, not for the purpose of practising but for the purpose of acquainting himself with the knowledge of the profession. Almost until his death he was an omnivorous reader and his keen mentality was an amazement to those who knew him.

He is survived by two sons and a daughter, John L. Barr of Denver, Colorado, Rev. William M. Barr of Delancey, N. Y., and a daughter Miss Frances Barr of New Wilmington. He is also survived by six grandchildren and one great grandchild. Funeral services will be announced later.

Mussolini has given ample evidence that he realizes the explosive possibilities of the situation growing out of the Marseilles assassinations, and he has likewise shown that he is going to do everything possible to prevent that explosion.

When Chancellor Dollfuss of Austria was assassinated, the Duce proved that he was not afraid to take drastic action of a war-like nature if he believed that the situation demanded it.

At present, however, he is so convinced that the moment is most inopportune for sabre-rattling that he is even ready to humble his pride and ignore the anti-Italian demonstrations as long as it is possible for Italy to do that and still retain her national self-respect.

HAUPTMANN BATTLES EXTRADITION MOVE

Court To Hear His Plea Monday

PLAN ATTACK ON SOME OF WITNESSES

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—With only three days remaining until Monday when a hearing will be held on Bruno Richard Hauptmann's plea to escape extradition to New Jersey to stand trial for the murder of the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh his counsel, James A. Fawcett, was busy today marshalling every scrap of evidence favorable to the cause of the Bronx carpenter.

Fawcett has already announced that Hauptmann's defense will be an alibi and from one source today comes the report he will contend that on the night the Lindbergh infant was stolen from its crib in Hopewell, N. J., the somber-faced alien was in the Bronx—playing pinochle.

Fawcett has a large detail of private detectives working to bolster his defense and indications were that every so-called telling point in the prosecution's case against Hauptmann would be vigorously contested.

In New Jersey, for example, it is understood Fawcett is preparing to blast the props from under the state's star witness—the man on whose testimony it is believed the prosecution is depending to prove that Hauptmann was in Hopewell in or about the time of the kidnaping.

This witness, it is said, is Millard Whited, Sourland mountain logger, who told police that on two occasions during the month before the crime he saw a man resembling Hauptmann in the woods near the Lindbergh estate.

To Attack Credibility

An affidavit in which Whited's credibility as a witness is assailed is now in the hands of the defense attorney, it was reported.

The man who signed the affidavit, it is stated, is Theodore Arnold, a Hopewell truckman, who declares he has known the mountaineer for more than 20 years.

Meanwhile a new figure entered the case in the person of Frank Rossiter of Maplewood, N. J., a theatrical booking agent with offices on Fifth avenue, New York. He may appear with other state witnesses in the Bronx on Monday at the habeas corpus hearing.

Rossiter, it was learned, is prepared to testify that he talked with Hauptmann for approximately ten minutes in a well-lighted place near Sourland mountain. Rossiter revealed that he had not known Hauptmann by name, but had identified him positively from pictures.

Admission that Rossiter would be one of the most important witnesses for the prosecution came from Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey State Police, who said:

"Rossiter is one of the most reliable of all those we have interviewed. He is alert, intelligent and has an excellent background."

Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who is handling Jersey's effort to extradite Hauptmann, declared himself unworried by Fawcett's effort to impugn Whited's credibility as a witness, and defied the defense to prove that the carpenter was not in New Jersey on and about the time of the kidnaping.

TWO CONFESS BEING IN PLOT TO SHOOT KING

They first went to Lausanne on Hungarian passports, the Yugoslavian official said, and there met a man named Staucher who gave them forged Czechoslovakian papers.

Both will be sent to Marseilles tomorrow for trial as accomplices in the assassinations, and if convicted face the guillotine.

Guard Italian Consulate.

Zagreb, Oct. 12.—Heavy guards were thrown about the Italian consulate here and in other Yugoslavian cities today as part of the government's intensive drive to prevent serious complications with Italy.

With the wave of anti-Italian feeling which followed the assassination of King Alexander gravely threatening peace, newspapers were rigorously censored, and all anti-Italian articles were strictly prohibited.

Meanwhile, reports circulated here that Petrus Kalemen, assassin of King Alexander, was actually an Albanian Moslem, and member of a secret Albanian revolutionary organization known as Kosovo.

This organization has its headquarters in Vienna, and is alleged to have Italian affiliations. Its aim is said to be union of Serbia and Dalmatia with Albania.

Arouse New Fears

ANNEMASSE, France, Oct. 12—Arousing new fears of grave international complications arising from the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, two accomplices in the slaying of the monarch admitted here today they were members of the most notorious terrorist organization in Europe.

Police announced they had confessed membership in the Oustacht a terroist society composed of Croat refugees from Yugoslavia which Italy and Hungary have frequently been accused of supporting and financing.

They admitted they were close associates of Petrus Kalemen, the Croat who fired the shots which killed Alexander and French foreign minister Louis Barthou, and revealed they were each ready to try if he had failed in his attempt.

The two men came to France under assumed names and carrying forged Czechoslovakian passports, One of them, who gave his name as Jaroslav Novak was identified by a Yugoslavian fingerprint expert as Svonimir Pospisil, a notorious terrorist long ago condemned to death in Yugoslavia.

The other, who posed as Ladislas Benes, was believed to be Ivan Rajtch, also a known terrorist, born in Yugoslavia in 1903.

Confronted with the evidence of the fingerprint expert, Pospisil admitted his identity and confirmed that he had been sentenced to death at Zagreb two years ago for slaying a newspaper owner named Swegal.

"I fled to the Hungarian emigre farm, at Jankapustka, where I joined the Oustachi," Pospišil was quoted by the police inspector here as saying.

KIDNAPERS STILL HOLD MRS. STOLL; RANSOM READY

night by the woman captive's wealthy husband, Berry V. Stoll, to come and get the $50,000 ransom that was demanded by note, went unheeded.

His estate was completely isolated at his own urgent request, federal agents and police having withdrawn so as to give the abductor's envoys unhindered access to the place.

Scores of rumors that suspicious looking motorists had been seen were tracked down in all sections of the state.

Death Penalty

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12.—The kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll will face death in the electric chair or imprisonment for life if captured and convicted.

The extreme penalties are provided by a Kentucky statute enacted in 1928.

Stoll In Pursuit

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12.—Berry V. Stoll, whose wife was kidnaped Wednesday, drove his own roadster roaring along country roads near here today in pursuit of an automobile reported to contain Mrs. Stoll and her captor.

A federal department of justice agent rode at Stoll's side. After several miles Stoll outdistanced newspapermen who followed him when he spurted out of the driveway of his home shortly before 10 o'clock.

Twice the wealthy oil man stopped to inquire which route had been taken by the small sedan he was chasing as presumably was acting on a tip privately given him.

Question Man

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 12.—Local police today took Walter Childress, 29, to headquarters for questioning about the kidnaping of Mrs. Berry Stoll, Louisville, Ky., society woman. No charge has been placed against him.

He was picked up for questioning following the discovery of a car in a local wrecking establishment which Patrolman Tom Mitchell said contained several blond hairs and cloths, which he said might conceivably be used as bandages.

Keep Planes Down

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12—Every airport in Kentucky today agreed to hold flying to a minimum until Mrs. Berry V. Stoll is released by her kidnaped, William S. Kammerer, spokesman for the Stoll family, announced.

Fear had been expressed that the abductor might be frightened by fear of surveillance from the air. Today's action, it was hoped, would remove that bar to the kidnaper treating with the Stoll family.

Militiamen Aid

HARRODSBURG, Ky., Oct. 12.—Militiamen joined the wide-spread hunt for kidnaped Mrs. Berry V. Stoll of Louisville today, 50 of them launching a thorough search along the shores of Herrington Lake for trace of her.

Twenty-five Kentucky National Guardsmen under Brig.-Gen. Elerbe W. Carter of Louisville and 25 members of the active state militia under Capt. Storey Herron of Danville, made the search. They arrived quietly late yesterday.

Husband Leads Chase

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 12.—At the wheel of his own speedy roadster Berry V. Stoll, wealthy oil executive, led a daring chase over a maze of country roads near his home today after an automobile he believed carried his captive wife and her kidnaper.

decided to study medicine but illness interfered with his plans. When he returned to college he had changed his plans and entered the seminary in Allegheny after graduating from W. & J., with the class of 1858.

Upon his graduation from the seminary he was sent to India as a missionary where for forty years he labored in the Punjab. Primitive conditions prevailed, living conditions among the low castes were dreadful, money was scarce and Dr. Barr had little to work with except a burning ambition to further the cause of Christ. His efforts met with success and at the conclusion of his forty years of service in Indian he returned to the United States with a record of brilliant achievement back of him.

After his return to the United States 30 years ago he busied himself in Christian work for many years preaching in many states. Some years ago he retired to the home of his son Dr. H. E. Barr in New Wilmington. Dr. H. E. Barr passed away, a few years ago.

Studied Medicine

Some years ago Dr. Barr returned to the ambition of his youth, the study of medicine, not for the purpose of practising but for the purpose of acquainting himself with the knowledge of the profession. Almost until his death he was an omniverous reader and his keen mentality was an amazement to those who knew him.

He is survived by two sons and a daughter, John L. Barr of Denver, Colorado, Rev. William M. Barr of Delancey, N. Y., and a daughter Miss Frances Barr of New Wilmington. He is also survived by six grandchildren and one great grandchild. Funeral services will be announced later.

HAUPTMANN BATTLES EXTRADITION MOVE

Court To Hear His Plea Monday

Defense Will Offer Alibi In Attempt To Foil Extradition

PLAN ATTACK ON SOME OF WITNESSES

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—With only three days remaining until Monday when a hearing will be held on Bruno Richard Hautpmann's plea to escape extradition to New Jersey to stand trial for the murder of the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh his counsel, James A. Fawcett, was busy today marshalling every scrap of evidence favorable to the cause of the Bronx carpenter.

Fawcett has already announced that Hauptmann's defense will be an alibi and from one source today comes the report he will contend that on the night the Lindbergh infant was stolen from its crib in Hopewell, N. J., the somber-faced alien was in the Bronx—playing pinochle.

Fawcett has a large detail of private detectives working to bolster his defense and indications were that every so-called telling point in the prosecution's case against Hauptmann would be vigorously contested.

In New Jersey, for example, it is understood Fawcett is preparing to blast the props from under the state's star witness—the man on whose testimony it is believed the prosecution is depending to prove that Hauptmann was in Hopewell in or about the time of the kidnaping.

This witness, it is said, is Millard Whited, Sourland mountain logger, who told police that on two occasions during the month before the crime he saw a man resembling Hauptmann in the woods near the Lindbergh estate.

To Attack Credibility

An affidavit in which Whited's credibility as a witness is assailed is now in the hands of the defense attorney, it was reported.

The man who signed the affidavit, it is stated, is Theodore Arnold, a Hopewell truckman, who declares he has known the mountaineer for more than 20 years.

Meanwhile a new figure entered the case in the person of Frank Rossiter of Maplewood, N. J., a theatrical booking agent with offices on Fifth avenue, New York. He may appear with other state witnesses in the Bronx on Monday at the habeas corpus hearing.

Rossiter, it was learned, is prepared to testify that he talked with Hauptmann for approximately ten minutes in a well-lighted place near Sourland mountain. Rossiter revealed that he had not known Hauptmann by name, but had identified him positively from pictures.

Admission that Rossiter would be one of the most important witnesses for the prosecution came from Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey State Police, who said:

"Rossiter is one of the most reliable of all those we have interviewed. He is alert, intelligent and has an excellent background."

Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who is handling Jersey's effort to extradite Hauptmann, declared himself unworried by Fawcett's effort to impugn Whited's credibility as a witness, and defied the defense to prove that the carpenter was not in New Jersey on and about the time of the kidnaping.

TWO CONFESS BEING IN PLOT TO SHOOT KING

They first went to Lausanne on Hungarian passports, the Yugoslavian official said, and there met a man named Staucher who gave them forged Czechoslovakian papers.

Both will be sent to Marseilles tomorrow for trial as accomplices in the assassinations, and if convicted face the guillotine.

Guard Italian Consulate.

Zagreb, Oct. 12.—Heavy guards were thrown about the Italian consulate here and in other Yugoslavian cities today as part of the government's intensive drive to prevent serious complications with Italy.

With the wave of anti-Italian feeling which followed the assassination of King Alexander gravely threatening peace, newspapers were rigorously censored, and all anti-Italian articles were strictly prohibited.

Meanwhile, reports circulated here that Petrus Kalemen, assassin of King Alexander, was actually an Albanian Moslem, and member of a secret Albanian revolutionary organization known as Kosovo.

This organization has its headquarters in Vienna, and is alleged to have Italian affiliations. Its aim is said to be union of Serbia and Dalmatia with Albania.

Arouse New Fears

ANNEMASSE, France, Oct. 12—Arousing new fears of grave international complications arising from the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, two accomplices in the slaying of the monarch admitted here today they were members of the most notorious terrorist organization in Europe.

Police announced they had confessed membership in the Oustacht a terroist society composed of Croat refugees from Yugoslavia which Italy and Hungary have frequently been accused of supporting and financing.

They admitted they were close associates of Petrus Kalemen, the Croat who fired the shots which killed Alexander and French foreign minister Louis Barthou, and revealed they were each ready to try if he had failed in his attempt.

The two men came to France under assumed names and carrying forged Czechoslovakian passports, One of them, who gave his name as Jaroslav Novak was identified by a Yugoslavian fingerprint expert as Svonimir Pospisil, a notorious terrorist long ago condemned to death in Yugoslavia.

The other, who posed as Ladislas Benes, was believed to be Ivan Rajtch, also a known terrorist, born in Yugoslavia in 1903.

Confronted with the evidence of the fingerprint expert, Pospisil admitted his identity and confirmed that he had been sentenced to death at Zagreb two years ago for slaying a newspaper owner named Swegal.

"I fled to the Hungarian emigre farm, at Jankapustka, where I joined the Oustachi," Pospišil was quoted by the police inspector here as saying.

KIDNAPERS STILL HOLD MRS. STOLL; RANSOM READY

night by the woman captive's wealthy husband, Berry V. Stoll, to come and get the $50,000 ransom that was demanded by note, went unheeded.

His estate was completely isolated at his own urgent request, federal agents and police having withdrawn so as to give the abductor's envoys unhindered access to the place.

Scores of rumors that suspicious looking motorists had been seen were tracked down in all sections of the state.

Death Penalty

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12.—The kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll will face death in the electric chair or imprisonment for life if captured and convicted.

The extreme penalties are provided by a Kentucky statute enacted in 1928.

Stoll In Pursuit

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12.—Berry V. Stoll, whose wife was kidnaped Wednesday, drove his own roadster roaring along country roads near here today in pursuit of an automobile reported to contain Mrs. Stoll and her captor.

A federal department of justice agent rode at Stoll's side. After several miles Stoll outdistanced newspapermen who followed him when he spurted out of the driveway of his home shortly before 10 o'clock.

Twice the wealthy oil man stopped to inquire which route had been taken by the small sedan he was chasing as presumably was acting on a tip privately given him.

Question Man

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 12.—Local police today took Walter Childress, 29, to headquarters for questioning about the kidnaping of Mrs. Berry Stoll, Louisville, Ky., society woman. No charge has been placed against him.

He was picked up for questioning following the discovery of a car in a local wrecking establishment which Patrolman Tom Mitchell said contained several blond hairs and cloths, which he said might conceivably be used as bandages.

Keep Planes Down

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12—Every airport in Kentucky today agreed to hold flying to a minimum until Mrs. Berry V. Stoll is released by her kidnaped, William S. Kammerer, spokesman for the Stoll family, announced.

Fear had been expressed that the abductor might be frightened by fear of surveillance from the air. Today's action, it was hoped, would remove that bar to the kidnaper treating with the Stoll family.

Militiamen Aid

HARRODSBURG, Ky., Oct. 12.—Militiamen joined the wide-spread hunt for kidnaped Mrs. Berry V. Stoll of Louisville today, 50 of them launching a thorough search along the shores of Herrington Lake for trace of her.

Twenty-five Kentucky National Guardsmen under Brig.-Gen. Elerbe W. Carter of Louisville and 25 members of the active state militia under Capt. Storey Herron of Danville, made the search. They arrived quietly late yesterday.

Husband Leads Chase

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 12.—At the wheel of his own speedy roadster Berry V. Stoll, wealthy oil executive, led a daring chase over a maze of country roads near his home today after an automobile he believed carried his captive wife and her kidnaper.

A secret tip presumably sent him off on his desperate dash, accompanied by a lone federal agent. He soon outdistanced newspapermen and after stopping twice to inquire if the car he sought had been sighted, lost himself to followers on the mesh of roads.

Signs increased meanwhile that a contact with the kidnaper was expected today, at which the $50,000 ransom cash would be paid over to a Nashville, Tenn., man acting as the abductor's emissary. Stoll has placed the money, in currency of varying denominations, in the hands of a prominent Louisville attorney and the meeting reportedly was to be arranged somewhere in downtown Louisville.

Widespread Hunt

Hope for a quick release of Mrs. Stoll following this anticipated contact failed to check the widespread hunt for the pretty brunette society matron. Federal agents rushed to southern Kentucky following reports suspicious looking parties had been seen there last night; and fifty militiamen launched a thorough combing of the Herrington lake country, near Harrodsburg.

Twenty-five national guardsmen and twenty-five of the active state militia composed the searching force.

Even the air was cleared of all possible traffic, to show the abductor he is not being spied upon from above. Every airport in the state agreed to hold flying to a minimum.

Authorities refused to comment on the arrest of a suspect at Charleston, W. Va.

Anxiety For Captive

Anxiety that Mrs. Stoll might not have strength to endure the ordeal of kidnaping grew among her friends as the forty-third hour of her captivity passed at 11:30 o'clock this morning. She was ill with a cold and fevered when she was dragged from home late Wednesday afternoon, and her abductor further imperiled her with two blows on her head, one of which cut a gash in her forehead which bled profusely.

Stoll kept constant vigil at his telephone last night, and when a newspaperman got on the line this morning, said: "We are holding this wire open." To clear the way for him to treat with the kidnaper, police and newspapermen remained away from the Stoll estate.

There were four tables, the prizes being captured by Mrs. Jack Simons, Mrs. Edward Pritchard, C. C. Andrews and Edward Pritchard.

For an appetizing midnight lunch, three of the men acquitted themselves beautifully as aides, these including Sheriff Pritchard, Harvey Cooper and the host.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Belknap will have the next gathering at their home on Albert street October 25, the affair to be in the nature of a Hallowe'en celebration.

Coming For Week End

Mr. and Mrs. Sol Davies and family of Garfield avenue, will have for their guests over the week end, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Eastman, Mr. and Mrs. John Williams of Cleveland, and Miss Gayle Jones of Homestead, Pa., the latter arriving today, while the others will come tomorrow.

LEGION AUXILIARY PLANS INSTALLATION

New officers of the ladies auxiliary of the Perry S. Gaston post, American Legion, will be formally installed on Monday evening, when many visitors from surrounding posts are expected to attend.

The installing officer will be Mrs. Cecile Phillips of Franklin. Mrs. C. V. Homer of Greenville, the newly elected department vice president, will also be present during the evening and will address the auxiliary.

The installation service will follow immediately after a tureen dinner, which will be served at 6 o'clock.

Fort-Nighters Club

Cordial hospitality was extended the Fort-Nighters Club Thursday in the home of Irene Connors, 602 Chestnut street. The early part of the evening was devoted to business, election of officers for the coming year taking place with the following results: president, Betty Johnston: treasurer, Eleanor Bollinger: secretary, Dorothy Weygant.

Bridge ensued, and at conclusion of play, lovely prizes were awarded to Misses "Bernie" Semler and Mary Lou Thomas, the latter of Youngstown. The hostess, assisted by Miss Weygant, served a very delicious repast at tables decorated in suggestions of the Hallowe'en season. Places marked for all associates and two guests, Ann Lucille Barnes and Helen Maher.

Plans were completed for their next meeting in two weeks to take the form of a theatre party. Local members will motor to Youngstown, where they will be met by Miss Thomas who resides there, and after attending a show, the girls will go to the Thomas residence located at Oak Hill and St. Louis avenue where the balance of the evening will be spent informally.

Hallowe'en Party

Members of the W. C. B. Bible class are anticipating a Hallowe'en party which will be held in the basement of Wesley M. E. church on the evening of October 19.

An interesting discussion of what to do and what to serve at the affair was held last evening when the class met in the home of Mrs. John Mottinger on Kerr street. There was a good attendance, the meeting opening with devotionals led by Mrs. Ecker Bacon. Mrs. R. G. Leslie, president, was in charge of the business period, following which delicious home-made candy was served by the hostess during the social hour. Fall flowers were pretty in decorations through the home.

The next regular meeting will be on November 8, with Mrs. Nicholas Raymond of Kerr street.

NATIONAL ORGANIZER AT P. E. O. MEETING

P. E. O. Sisterhood will meet Tuesday evening of next week for a 6:30 buffet dinner, in the home of Mrs. S. E. Irvine, 1401 Highland avenue.

Mrs. Kelly Stevens Wright, of Denver, Colo., national organizer, will be visiting guest, a delightful program being planned in her honor for the evening.

Bogjevitch-Maslyk.

A pretty wedding of last Saturday morning took place in the St. Philip and James church when Miss Nellie Maslyk became the bride of Joseph Bogjevitch.

A reception was conducted later in the bride's home on South Jefferson street.

ECONOMIC PLANNING IN OPERATION

IN Relief Administrator Hopkin's enthusiastic disclosure of the Government's purchase of a million acres of submarginal lands there are two revealing statements.

One is that "it looks like two-thirds of the families who sell their farms to the Government have plans of their own about resettlement. They don't want a thing from us—they simply get up and go."

Granted that the land being purchased with Federal funds is impoverished, so long as the Government stands ready to buy up unwanted acreage there will be people eager to unload, whether or not they really seek an opportunity for a new start in life.

Restless souls whom nothing satisfies and drifters forever allured by far horizons perhaps are fortunate in having a Government which takes their living problems upon its own strong Treasury and enables them to be foot-free once more.

But Mr. Hopkins also said, "Of course, the real hope of this thing is the decentralization of industry." Here, again, is the dream of an economy so planned that industrial centres, built up over a long period of years by transportation facilities and national resources, should be torn down and scattered according to the plans of theoretical simplifiers.

Would the decentralization of industry put more men to work? It is difficult to see how it would. On the contrary, the combination of back-to-the-farm and industrial activity which the change connotes might react to the actual detriment of farm workers, entirely apart from the hardships it would impose upon workers in established industrial areas.

Like some other social metamorphoses proposed by the Administration, the purchase of submarginal lands and the decentralization of industry are attended by practical disadvantages that may far outweigh their theoretical merits.

THE GREATEST DISCOVERER

October 12, date of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus, is generally celebrated now. We can look back at him as a kind of father of everything that started on the American continent. Where would we be today if he had not performed his immortal work of exploration? Would the American continent have been discovered? Would this superb land of ours, with its teeming cities and smiling villages and magnificent scientific achievement, be still possessed by the savages?

No one can tell. At the time Columbus performed his great deed, few if any people of the old world had dreamed that any such continent existed. The narrow confines of Europe, with the portions of Africa and Asia then known, constituted the entire world to them. They conceived of our globe as a flat surface, and they never asked what was beyond those mysterious horizons into which they never dared venture. Centuries might have passed without the discovery of American, if Columbus had not lived, or if he had not dreamed his mighty dream.

What would the world be today, if America had not been discovered, or if its discovery had been postponed for many years or centuries? Certainly modern democracy and the rule of the people would not exist. Those ideas were the direct result of the free life that developed on our continent.

Without the impulse which America gave, the world would have continued to live under antiquated and outworn forms of government, in which little attention was paid to human welfare. About all the blessings of modern life, its freedom and its scientific opportunity, can be attributed to the American spirit, the beginning of which occurred when Columbus first set his foot on the unknown land of our soil.

MOST PREVALENT AILMENT

There is no greater service medical science can do mankind than by discovering the germ or whatever it is that causes that most common of human ailments, the cold, yet doctors know less about the common cold than about most any other of man's ills with the possible exception of cancer.

Almost everybody has at least one cold a year with consequent discomfiture and loss of work. The economic loss from colds is enormous for it is estimated that more than half of all the time lost through sickness by employes is due to bad colds.

Greater impatience with the progress of science has not been shown than that to which the cold-sufferer gives vent between blows and sneezes. The victim of the cold germ cannot understand why science has failed to exterminate this pestilence or to give man an effective weapon against it.

A survey by the public health service at Washington has disclosed that colds are apparently contagious, that they are most prevalent in all parts of the country during the same periods of the year and that they are most epidemic in October and January and the least prevalent in June.

If this government bureau aids medical science in discovering an infallible preventive or cure for colds it will be at least one bureau that will have justified its existence and the expenditure of public funds in its maintenance.

GOOD CONVENTION YEARS

The convention business seems to be thriving as never before. New York City will entertain 71 such gatherings in the month of October. In the same month a year ago the number was 45. The Merchants Association of the city says fraternal activity this fall will show an increase of more than 60 per cent over 1933.

This good fortune is not confined to New York. Chicago, during its two Century of Progress Exposition years, has enjoyed great popularity among convention-holders. Other cities bidding for conventions have met with unusual response.

Some people go to conventions for travel and good times. Others go for the exchange of ideas and the contact with leaders in their special fields of interest. The convention can be an educating and stimulating experience to its delegates. It is a fine piece of business for the host community, too.

The average convention lasts four days, and its delegates spent from $50,000 to $80,000 in the stores, hotels, theatres, and so on of the city they are visiting. Money spent in this way, like the money spent by tourists in their travels, is quickly distributed among many types of business and circulates most wholesomely through an entire community.

From the number of lawyers engaged in the Insull trial, somebody must have some money.

WE MAKE OUR OWN IMMUNITY

If you have a cold and come into my office and cough and sneeze and spread your germs around, I shall not make a great fuss and open the windows and shoo you out of the place in trembling and fear that I might catch your cold.

And I'll tell you why.

Because I know I'll not catch your cold. I never do. I walk through those cold germs as if they were harmless butterflies. They live in me, for all I know, without afflicting me....I sit in drafts. I get my feet wet. I eat what I shouldn't....But I don't catch colds!

I'm immune. Somehow this body of mine has built up a resistance. Perhaps my blood has developed a serum. I may have phagocytes inside of me, that leap triumphantly on any germ that invades me, and tears it to pieces.

I have nothing to do with my immunity. I'm not responsible. I cannot take credit for what happens....My blood does this, despite of me. All I can do is to be greatful for my good fortune for my resistance to those annoying, persisent germs. And hope it will last.

Neither, I think, can a man fairly take all credit for his immunity to many other dangers. But if a man is honest, decent, fair-minded, abstaining from theft and violence and treachery of all kinds, the chances are great that he has in his own way built up his own immunity against those enemies of his happiness and security. He has refused time and again to yield to them and has created in his spirit a mysterious serum that protects him from disaster....He has abstained and conquered in little skirmishes with his more violent self and has gained strength to win greater victories with apparent ease. Men say of such men, "They are not tempted. They lack the stronger impulses and appetities against which we fight in vain"....And sometimes that may be true but often I believe a man wins today because of what he did yesterday.

I repel a cold with effortless ease and hardly know I have won the victory....But I do not win those victories without scars and bruises and the knowledge that I have been in a battle.

Have As Much Consideration for Your Body As You Would For Your Car

You are past middle age and possibly are doing too much physical exercise because you still have pep and seem to be strong enough.

Most likely you are not making enough allowance for the fact that your arteries and heart are not as fresh and free from accumulations as when you were younger.

The muscles are clogged by much which should have been eliminated and they cannot help as they should to keep up the circulation.

Knowing that age is bound to harbor within the body certain things that make for decay, why put added strain in an endeavor to keep as strenuous a program as you did in youth.

Of course you feel well—until you break down.

Then it may be such a bad break that it cannot be repaired.

Why not exercise, with common sense, and slow down on the physical work, making your head save your heels.

If you have an old car, you don't put it through the tests that you would a new one, do you?

You ought to have as much consideration for your own well being.

To be in a state of sheer exhaustion after your accustomed sport tells a tale you would do well to heed before it is too late.

JACK FROST

A killer! kinder word to choose
For him I cannot find.
He slaughters beauty to amuse
His strangely fashioned kind.

Though some there are who kill for meat
And some an end to make
To bitter love they fancied sweet,
He kills for killing's sake.

Last night my garden plot he found
With blossoms, pink and red,
And ere he left he strewed the ground
With lovely dahlias dead.

He did not steal my flowers away
Nor seek a wrong to right,
But for amusement and for play
At murder spent the night.

Now horrid are the sights I see,
For murder has been done,
I think how vile Jack Frost must be
Who kills the flowers for fun!

REAL WORTH

When you think of a man you seldom think
Of the knowledge he has of books;
You seldom think of the clothes he wears,
His habits, or faults, or looks.
You seldom think of the car he drives,
Nor the bonds his gold has brought;
When you think of a man you mostly think
Of some kindness he has wrought.
You judge him not by the blocks of stocks,
Nor his power of name or pen;
You judge a man by the place he's made
In the hearts of his fellow men.
You judge him more by the fight he's made,
By the way he has faced the strife,
And not the amount of his bank account
He's managed to get in life.
You think of the friend he's been to man,
The good that he has done,
And you judge the sort of a man he is
By friends that he has won.

KISS TO MARRIED BLISS

The "Husband's Gratitude Club" of Oklahoma City, Okla., formed by members of the Industrial church of that city, has started something which, if made national in scope, would do much to check and even greatly reduce our ever increasing divorce record. On the belief that what America needed was more conjugal kissing the club was formed with 30 charter members. These men all pledged themselves as follows: "I solemnly pledge myself daily to embrace my wife, kiss her and tell her I love her. I promise to compliment her at least once each day on some particular part of the menu she prepares. I promise to perform at least one kind and unexpected deed for her daily." After a two weeks' trial members of the club and their wives gathered for reports on the benefits, if any. The wives naturally thought the idea great and said: "We want the club continued." So the members of the Husband's Gratitude Club voted unanimously to continue their efforts to kiss to married bliss.

Views Of Interior America On Dictator-King's Death On Stalin's Views Of Roosevelt

Central Press
Cleveland Bureau
1435 East 12th street

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12.—Views of the interior of the United States are important—for the views of the interior govern congress.

Immediate reaction to the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia indicated a view that dictators soon or late fall by violence, or breed violence.

Yugoslavia was another product of the Versailles treaty. In a nation of 13,000,000 persons there are 5,000,000 disfranchised Croatians, who evidently object to a Serbian dictator and who desire a republic of their own. The assassin was a Croat.

* * *

AGAINST STALIN'S VIEWS

Views of Josef Stalin, Soviet dictator, as gained by H. G. Wells, British writer, interest.

Stalin said he admired President Roosevelt's courage, but that he believed the president's aims could be realized only by the overflow of capitalism. He added that, for example, if the president tried to eliminate unemployment completely that the capitalists would prevent his re-election, as they existed through a supply of cheap labor.

There is a reaction to that here—and evidently elsewhere in America—that would perplex Stalin, keen observer that he is.

That reaction is based on an American fundamental discussed in this column yesterday. Each American is a minor capitalist (and that is not written disparagingly). Each American aims at a standard of living set very high. Each American aims at a home.

And yet each American strives to attain an economic freedom and a degree of liberty beyond any yet achieved anywhere in the world.

People questioned as to how that economic freedom (which is the highest form of liberty) is to be attained, respond in words to this effect:

"We still trust Roosevelt."

Now, if that be the feeling, and if the people as a mass continue to exercise the free use of the ballot (a feature unknown to much of Europe), there is every indication that the evolution will continue in the United States.

Stalin may remark that such an evolution cannot continue to an end in a "capitalistic" state. It is apparent that President Roosevelt and a majority of the American people differ on this. The progress toward economic freedom in the United States is as strong as the progress toward economic freedom in the Union of Socialist Soviet republics. The processes may be different, the governments may assume a different form—but H. G. Wells probably was correct in sensing a trend in the same direction.

Americans questioned by this writer appear to be in no temper for a cessation of that progress—and the average business man seems as much inclined to it as anybody else.

Belief is strong, too, that the Republicans will put up a progressive against Roosevelt and cause the issues to be defined even more clearly.

Of course, there are those who see danger in the whole proceeding. There are men who are earnestly opposed to many measures as unsafe. Many thoughtful men, for example, see the monetary policy as enslaving rather than freeing.

Then there are other men and groups who are opposed to present processes in order to preserve their old status. They are bitter and vindictive in their opposition.

The strength of the United States lies in its free expression of opinion, the opportunity to debate, as well as its right to vote and to strike and to have a settlement judicially.

MISTAKES

"What about some evident mistakes by the administration?' the writer has just asked a man.

"Oh, the people believe the president is trying. They are willing to go along with him."

"But what if the administration jumps from one thing to another, apparently with no plan?"

"The people believe the president is making every possible experiment in their behalf."

"What if that hampers business?"

"Oh, you mean that Wall Street and the bankers are trying to stop the president. Do you believe the people will let them get away with that?"

* * *

VIEWING AMERICA

Bernard Kilgore of the Wall Street Journal, touring the United States, evidently has had some of the experiences.

He writes from "somewhere in northern Illinois":

"Recent attacks on the New Deal in the name of 'liberty,' 'property rights', 'profits' and 'private initiative' seem to have attracted a considerable following among what might be roughly classified as the upper economic brackets. Among these same groups President Roosevelt's along with the various phases of his national program. His picture, for instance, has disappeared in a considerable number of private offices where it hung only a few months ago.

"But there are not, as yet, any definite indications of an important shift in public opinion. It is very much the same old story: 'The president isn't as popular as he was, say, just after the banking holiday ended. Still, if there were to be a presidential election tomorrow he would poll more votes against Herbert Hoover or any other prominent Republican than he polled in November, 1932.'...

"Perhaps the real key to current Democratic strength lies...in the fact that the average voter still considers national politics as largely a question of New Deal versus Old Deal."...

* * *

YOUTH

Wherever one turns in the United States a fact looms that older men apparently do not consider:

Youth, jobless and otherwise, seems to be uniting to push older men and "older ideas" from the scene.

That uniting process may take several years yet. But those youth are likely to rewrite a portion of the constitution. what their course will be, whether their own thought will be forward or backward, remains to be seen.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

A young couple, who had suddenly acquired wealth, purchased a fine car and decided to tour the South.

Down in Georgia they were puzzled by the gray moss which draped the trees.

"I wonder what it is?" the young woman inquired.

"I don't know, honey, some kind of grass, I guess," was the reply from the husband.

Then she had an inspiration and exclaimed:

"My, dear, I bet its the Mardi Gras we've been reading about."

TODAY Is The Day

By CLARK KINNAIRD Copyright 1934 Central Press

FRIDAY, OCT 12

The World War Day-By-Day—Oct. 12, 1914—The Belgian field army which had escaped from Antwerp by way of Ghent and Bruges, established itself on Yser between Dixmude and the sea, and effected a junction with the British II Corps. The French III Corps marched on their left toward the line running from Armentieres to Ypres, to occupy the heights of Messines. Between Messines and Vimy all three armies enforced by others, began to dig in on a front carefully selected for a last-ditch defense against the German drive to the sea. It was to become the axis of the war in the west and to remain so for three bitter years.

Between the promontory of Messines and the cliff formed by the heights of Notre Dame de Lorette and of Vimy, above the plain of Lens, stretched a sector with a front of nearly 50 kilometers which included only isolated strong points, sometimes in a position favorable to the Allies, sometimes to the enemy. The whole was of immense military importance in the defense of all Flanders.

There hundreds of thousands of men crouched close to each other, divided sometimes by a No Man's Land a few hundred yards in width, and sometimes only a few yards away. Towns, villages, churches, schools, farmsteads were wiped off the map. All vegetation was blasted and burned off the earth. Seige guns, brought up from conquered Antwerp, hurled enormous shells where masses of men were in the trenches or in billets behind the lines. Every road was under fire and transport was shelled 20 miles and more away back. The courage, the physical strength, the vitality of young men selected for fitness was poured upon the ground in a bloody stream.

The Kaiser came nearest to being wounded or killed in the war while he was watching the assault on Ypres from Thielt in Belgium. A British airplane dropped a bomb near his position, killing several members of his staff. But there was no knowledge of his presnece there on the part of the aviator.

The Kaiser waited "in shining armour" to take part in several triumphal entries which failed to come off. However, for all his pretentious uniforms in which he liked to be photographed, he never attempted to lead an army in person.

ECONOMIC PLANNING IN OPERATION

IN Relief Administrator Hopkin's enthusiastic disclosure of the Government's purchase of a million acres of submarginal lands there are two revealing statements.

One is that "it looks like two-thirds of the families who sell their farms to the Government have plans of their own about resettlement. They don't want a thing from us—they simply get up and go."

Granted that the land being purchased with Federal funds is impoverished, so long as the Government stands ready to buy up unwanted acreage there will be people eager to unload, whether or not they really seek an opportunity for a new start in life.

Restless souls whom nothing satisfies and drifters forever allured by far horizons perhaps are fortunate in having a Government which takes their living problems upon its own strong Treasury and enables them to be foot-free once more.

But Mr. Hopkins also said, "Of course, the real hope of this thing is the decentralization of industry." Here, again, is the dream of an economy so planned that industrial centres, built up over a long period of years by transportation facilities and national resources, should be torn down and scattered according to the plans of theoretical simplifiers.

Would the decentralization of industry put more men to work? It is difficult to see how it would. On the contrary, the combination of back-to-the-farm and industrial activity which the change connotes might react to the actual detriment of farm workers, entirely apart from the hardships it would impose upon workers in established industrial areas.

Like some other social metamorphoses proposed by the Administration, the purchase of submarginal lands and the decentralization of industry are attended by practical disadvantages that may far outweigh their theoretical merits.

THE GREATEST DISCOVERER

October 12, date of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus, is generally celebrated now. We can look back at him as a kind of father of everything that started on the American continent. Where would we be today if he had not performed his immortal work of exploration? Would the American continent have been discovered? Would this superb land of ours, with its teeming cities and smiling villages and magnificent scientific achievement, be still possessed by the savages?

No one can tell. At the time Columbus performed his great deed, few if any people of the old world had dreamed that any such continent existed. The narrow confines of Europe, with the portions of Africa and Asia then known, constituted the entire world to them. They conceived of our globe as a flat surface, and they never asked what was beyond those mysterious horizons into which they never dared venture. Centuries might have passed without the discovery of American, if Columbus had not lived, or if he had not dreamed his mighty dream.

What would the world be today, if America had not been discovered, or if its discovery had been postponed for many years or centuries? Certainly modern democracy and the rule of the people would not exist. Those ideas were the direct result of the free life that developed on our continent.

Without the impulse which America gave, the world would have continued to live under antiquated and outworn forms of government, in which little attention was paid to human welfare. About all the blessings of modern life, its freedom and its scientific opportunity, can be attributed to the American spirit, the beginning of which occurred when Columbus first set his foot on the unknown land of our soil.

MOST PREVALENT AILMENT

There is no greater service medical science can do mankind than by discovering the germ or whatever it is that causes that most common of human ailments, the cold, yet doctors know less about the common cold than about most any other of man's ills with the possible exception of cancer.

Almost everybody has at least one cold a year with consequent discomfiture and loss of work. The economic loss from colds is enormous for it is estimated that more than half of all the time lost through sickness by employes is due to bad colds.

Greater impatience with the progress of science has not been shown than that to which the cold-sufferer gives vent between blows and sneezes. The victim of the cold germ cannot understand why science has failed to exterminate this pestilence or to give man an effective weapon against it.

A survey by the public health service at Washington has disclosed that colds are apparently contagious, that they are most prevalent in all parts of the country during the same periods of the year and that they are most epidemic in October and January and the least prevalent in June.

If this government bureau aids medical science in discovering an infallible preventive or cure for colds it will be at least one bureau that will have justified its existence and the expenditure of public funds in its maintenance.

GOOD CONVENTION YEARS

The convention business seems to be thriving as never before. New York City will entertain 71 such gatherings in the month of October. In the same month a year ago the number was 45. The Merchants Association of the city says fraternal activity this fall will show an increase of more than 60 per cent over 1933.

This good fortune is not confined to New York. Chicago, during its two Century of Progress Exposition years, has enjoyed great popularity among convention-holders. Other cities bidding for conventions have met with unusual response.

Some people go to conventions for travel and good times. Others go for the exchange of ideas and the contact with leaders in their special fields of interest. The convention can be an educating and stimulating experience to its delegates. It is a fine piece of business for the host community, too.

The average convention lasts four days, and its delegates spent from $50,000 to $80,000 in the stores, hotels, theatres, and so on of the city they are visiting. Money spent in this way, like the money spent by tourists in their travels, is quickly distributed among many types of business and circulates most wholesomely through an entire community.

From the number of lawyers engaged in the Insull trial, somebody must have some money.

WE MAKE OUR OWN IMMUNITY

If you have a cold and come into my office and cough and sneeze and spread your germs around, I shall not make a great fuss and open the windows and shoo you out of the place in trembling and fear that I might catch your cold.

And Ill tell you why.

Because I know I'll not catch your cold. I never do. I walk through those cold germs as if they were harmless butterflies. They live in me, for all I know, without afflicting me....I sit in drafts. I get my feet wet. I eat what I shouldn't....But I don't catch colds!

I'm immune. Somehow this body of mine has built up a resistance. Perhaps my blood has developed a serum. I may have phagocytes inside of me, that leap triumphantly on any germ that invades me, and tears it to pieces.

I have nothing to do with my immunity. I'm not responsible. I cannot take credit for what happens.. ..My blood does this, despite of me. All I can do is to be greatful for my good fortune for my resistance to those annoying, persisent germs. And hope it will last.

Neither, I think, can a man fairly take all credit for his immunity to many other dangers. But if a man is honest, decent, fair-minded, abstaining from theft and violence and treachery of all kinds, the chances are great that he has in his own way built up his own immunity against those enemies of his happiness and security. He has refused time and again to yield to them and has created in his spirit a mysterious serum that protects him from disaster....He has abstained and conquered in little skirmishes with his more violent self and has gained strength to win greater victories with apparent ease. Men say of such men, "They are not tempted. They lack the stronger impulses and appetities against which we fight in vain"....And sometimes that may be true but often I believe a man wins today because of what he did yesterday.

I repel a cold with effortless ease and hardly know I have won the victory....But I do not win those victories without scars and bruises and the knowledge that I have been in a battle.

Have As Much Consideration for Your Body As You Would For Your Car

You are past middle age and possibly are doing too much physical exercise because you still have pep and seem to be strong enough.

Most likely you are not making enough allowance for the fact that your arteries and heart are not as fresh and free from accumulations as when you were younger.

The muscles are clogged by much which should have been eliminated and they cannot help as they should to keep up the circulation.

Knowing that age is bound to harbor within the body certain things that make for decay, why put added strain in an endeavor to keep as strenuous a program as you did in youth.

Of course you feel well—until you break down.

Then it may be such a bad break that it cannot be repaired.

Why not exercise, with common sense, and slow down on the physical work, making your head save your heels.

If you have an old car, you dont' put it through the tests that you would a new one, do you?

You ought to have as much consideration for your own well being.

To be in a state of sheer exhaustion after your accustomed sport tells a tale you would do well to heed before it is too late.

JACK FROST

A killer! kinder word to choose
For him I cannot find.
He slaughters beauty to amuse
His strangely fashioned kind.

Though some there are who kill for meat
And some an end to make
To bitter love they fancied sweet,
He kills for killing's sake.

Last night my garden plot he found
With blossoms, pink and red,
And ere he left he strewed the ground
With lovely dahlias dead.

He did not steal my flowers away
Nor seek a wrong to right,
But for amusement and for play
At murder spent the night.

Now horrid are the sights I see,
For murder has been done,
I think how vile Jack Frost must be
Who kills the flowers for fun!

REAL WORTH

When you think of a man you seldom think
Of the knowledge he has of books;
You seldom think of the clothes he wears,
His habits, or faults, or looks.
You seldom think of the car he drives,

When you think of a man you mostly think
Of some kindness he has wrought.
You judge him not by the blocks of stocks,
Nor his power of name or pen;
You judge a man by the place he's made

You think of the friend he's been to man,
The good that he has done,
And you judge the sort of a man he is

Views Of Interior America
On Dictator-King's Death
On Stalin's Views Of Roosevelt

Central Press
Cleveland Bureau
1435 East 12th street

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12.—Views of the interior of the United States are important—for the views of the interior govern congress.

Immediate reaction to the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia indicated a view that dictators soon or late fall by violence, or breed violence.

Yugoslavia was another product of the Versailles treaty. In a nation of 13,000,000 persons there are 5,000,000 disfranchised Croatians, who evidently object to a Serbian dictator and who desire a republic of their own. The assassin was a Croat.

AGAINST STALIN'S VIEWS

Views of Josef Stalin, Soviet dictator, as gained by H. G. Wells, British writer, interest.

Stalin said he admired President Roosevelt's courage, but that he believed the president's aims could be realized only by the overflow of capitalism. He added that, for example, if the president tried to eliminate unemployment completely that the capitalists would prevent his re-election, as they existed through a supply of cheap labor.

There is a reaction to that here—and evidently elsewhere in America—that would perplex Stalin, keen observer that he is.

That reaction is based on an American fundamental discussed in this column yesterday. Each American is a minor capitalist (and that is not written disparagingly). Each American aims at a standard of living set very high. Each American aims at a home.

And yet each American strives to attain an economic freedom and a degree of liberty beyond any yet achieved anywhere in the world.

People questioned as to how that economic freedom (which is the highest form of liberty) is to be attained, respond in words to this effect:

"We still trust Roosevelt."

Now, if that be the feeling, and if the people as a mass continue to exercise the free use of the ballot (a feature unknown to much of Europe), there is every indication that the evolution will continue in the United States.

Stalin may remark that such an evolution cannot continue to an end in a "capitalistic" state. It is apparent that President Roosevelt and a majority of the American people differ on this. The progress toward economic freedom in the United States is as strong as the progress toward economic freedom in the Union of Socialist Soviet republics. The processes may be different, the governments may assume a different form—but H. G. Wells probably was correct in sensing a trend in the same direction.

Americans questioned by this writer appear to be in no temper for a cessation of that progress—and the average business man seems as much inclined to it as anybody else.

Belief is strong, too, that the Republicans will put up a progressive against Roosevelt and cause the issues to be defined even more clearly.

Of course, there are those who see danger in the whole proceeding. There are men who are earnestly opposed to many measures as unsafe. Many thoughtful men, for example, see the monetary policy as enslaving rather than freeing.

Then there are other men and groups who are opposed to present processes in order to preserve their old status. They are bitter and vindictive in their opposition.

The strength of the United States lies in its free expression of opinion, the opportunity to debate, as well as its right to vote and to strike and to have a settlement judicially.

MISTAKES

"What about some evident mistakes by the administration?' the writer has just asked a man.

"Oh, the people believe the president is trying. They are willing to go along with him."

"But what if the administration jumps from one thing to another, apparently with no plan?"

"The people believe the president is making every possible experiment in their behalf."

"What if that hampers business?"

"Oh, you mean that Wall Street and the bankers are trying to stop the president. Do you believe the people will let them get away with that?"

* * *

VIEWING AMERICA

Bernard Kilgore of the Wall Street Journal, touring the United States, evidently has had some of the experiences.

He writes from "somewhere in northern Illinois":

"Recent attacks on the New Deal in the name of 'liberty,' 'property rights', 'profits' and 'private initiative' seem to have attracted a considerable following among what might be roughly classified as the upper economic brackets. Among these same groups President Roosevelt's along with the various phases of his national program. His picture, for instance, has disappeared in a considerable number of private offices where it hung only a few months ago.

"But there are not, as yet, any definite indications of an important shift in public opinion. It is very much the same old story: 'The president isn't as popular as he was, say, just after the banking holiday ended. Still, if there were to be a presidential election tomorrow he would poll more votes against Herbert Hoover or any other prominent Republican than he polled in Novemeber, 1932.'...

"Perhaps the real key to current Democratic strength lies...in the fact that the average voter still considers national politics as largely a question of New Deal versus Old Deal."...

YOUTH

Wherever one turns in the United States a fact looms that older men apparently do not consider:

Youth, jobless and otherwise, seems to be uniting to push older men and "older ideas" from the scene.

That uniting process may take several years yet. But those youth are likely to rewrite a portion of the constitution. What their course will be, whether their own thought will be forward or backward, remains to be seen.

ECONOMIC PLANNING IN OPERATION

IN Relief Administrator Hopkin's enthusiastic disclosure of the Government's purchase of a million acres of submarginal lands there are two revealing statements.

One is that "it looks like two-thirds of the families who sell their farms to the Government have plans of their own about resettlement. They don't want a thing from us—they simply get up and go."

Granted that the land being purchased with Federal funds is impoverished, so long as the Government stands ready to buy up unwanted acreage there will be people eager to unload, whether or not they really seek an opportunity for a new start in life.

Restless souls whom nothing satisfies and drifters forever allured by far horizons perhaps are fortunate in having a Government which takes their living problems upon its own strong Treasury and enables them to be foot-free once more.

But Mr. Hopkins also said, "Of course, the real hope of this thing is the decentralization of industry." Here, again, is the dream of an economy so planned that industrial centres, built up over a long period of years by transportation facilities and national resources, should be torn down and scattered according to the plans of theoretical simplifiers.

Would the decentralization of industry put more men to work? It is difficult to see how it would. On the contrary, the combination of back-to-the-farm and industrial activity which the change connotes might react to the actual detriment of farm workers, entirely apart from the hardships it would impose upon workers in established industrial areas.

Like some other social metamorphoses proposed by the Administration, the purchase of submarginal lands and the decentralization of industry are attended by practical disadvantages that may far outweigh their theoretical merits.

THE GREATEST DISCOVERER

October 12, date of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus, is generally celebrated now. We can look back at him as a kind of father of everything that started on the American continent. Where would we be today if he had not performed his immortal work of exploration? Would the American continent have been discovered? Would this superb land of ours, with its teeming cities and smiling villages and magnificent scientific achievement, be still possessed by the savages?

No one can tell. At the time Columbus performed his great deed, few if any people of the old world had dreamed that any such continent existed. The narrow confines of Europe, with the portions of Africa and Asia then known, constituted the entire world to them. They conceived of our globe as a flat surface, and they never asked what was beyond those mysterious horizons into which they never dared venture. Centuries might have passed without the discovery of American, if Columbus had not lived, or if he had not dreamed his mighty dream.

What would the world be today, if America had not been discovered, or if its discovery had been postponed for many years or centuries? Certainly modern democracy and the rule of the people would not exist. Those ideas were the direct result of the free life that developed on our continent.

Without the impulse which America gave, the world would have continued to live under antiquated and outworn forms of government, in which little attention was paid to human welfare. About all the blessings of modern life, its freedom and its scientific opportunity, can be attributed to the American spirit, the beginning of which occurred when Columbus first set his foot on the unknown land of our soil.

MOST PREVALENT AILMENT

There is no greater service medical science can do mankind than by discovering the germ or whatever it is that causes that most common of human ailments, the cold, yet doctors know less about the common cold than about most any other of man's ills with the possible exception of cancer.

Almost everybody has at least one cold a year with consequent discomfiture and loss of work. The economic loss from colds is enormous for it is estimated that more than half of all the time lost through sickness by employes is due to bad colds.

Greater impatience with the progress of science has not been shown than that to which the cold-sufferer gives vent between blows and sneezes. The victim of the cold germ cannot understand why science has failed to exterminate this pestilence or to give man an effective weapon against it.

A survey by the public health service at Washington has disclosed that colds are apparently contagious, that they are most prevalent in all parts of the country during the same periods of the year and that they are most epidemic in October and January and the least prevalent in June.

If this government bureau aids medical science in discovering an infallible preventive or cure for colds it will be at least one bureau that will have justified its existence and the expenditure of public funds in its maintenance.

GOOD CONVENTION YEARS

The convention business seems to be thriving as never before. New York City will entertain 71 such gatherings in the month of October. In the same month a year ago the number was 45. The Merchants Association of the city says fraternal activity this fall will show an increase of more than 60 per cent over 1933.

This good fortune is not confined to New York. Chicago, during its two Century of Progress Exposition years, has enjoyed great popularity among convention-holders. Other cities bidding for conventions have met with unusual response.

Some people go to conventions for travel and good times. Others go for the exchange of ideas and the contact with leaders in their special fields of interest. The convention can be an educating and stimulating experience to its delegates. It is a fine piece of business for the host community, too.

The average convention lasts four days, and its delegates spent from $50,000 to $80,000 in the stores, hotels, theatres, and so on of the city they are visiting. Money spent in this way, like the money spent by tourists in their travels, is quickly distributed among many types of business and circulates most wholesomely through an entire community.

From the number of lawyers engaged in the Insull trial, somebody must have some money.

WE MAKE OUR OWN IMMUNITY

If you have a cold and come into my office and cough and sneeze and spread your germs around, I shall not make a great fuss and open the windows and shoo you out of the place in trembling and fear that I might catch your cold.

And I'll tell you why.

Because I know I'll not catch your cold. I never do. I walk through those cold germs as if they were harmless butterflies. They live in me, for all I know, without afflicting me....I sit in drafts. I get my feet wet, I eat what I shouldn't....But I don't catch colds!

I'm immune. Somehow this body of mine has built up a resistance. Perhaps my blood has developed a serum. I may have phagocytes inside of me, that leap triumphantly on any germ that invades me, and tears it to pieces.

I have nothing to do with my immunity. I'm not responsible. I cannot take credit for what happens...My blood does this, despite of me. All I can do is to be greatful for my good fortune for my resistance to those annoying, persisent germs. And hope it will last.

Neither, I think, can a man fairly take all credit for his immunity to many other dangers. But if a man is honest, decent, fair-minded, abstaining from theft and violence and treachery of all kinds, the chances are great that he has in his own way built up his own immunity against those enemies of his happiness and security. He has refused time and again to yield to them and has created in his spirit a mysterious serum that protects him from disaster....He has abstained and conquered in little skirmishes with his more violent self and has gained strength to win greater victories with apparent ease. Men say of such men, "They are not tempted. They lack the stronger impulses and appetities against which we fight in vain"....And sometimes that may be true but often I believe a man wins today because of what he did yesterday.

I repel a cold with effortless ease and hardly know I have won the victory....But I do not win those victories without scars and bruises and the knowledge that I have been in a battle.

Have As Much Consideration for Your Body As You Would For Your Car

You are past middle age and possibly are doing too much physical exercise because you still have pep and seem to be strong enough.

Most likely you are not making enough allowance for the fact that your arteries and heart are not as fresh and free from accumulations as when you were younger.

The muscles are clogged by much which should have been eliminated and they cannot help as they should to keep up the circulation.

Knowing that age is bound to harbor within the body certain things that make for decay, why put added strain in an endeavor to keep as strenuous a program as you did in youth.

Of course you feel well—until you break down.

Then it may be such a bad break that it cannot be repaired.

Why not exercise, with common sense, and slow down on the physical work, making your head save your heels.

If you have an old car, you dont' put it through the tests that you would a new one, do you?

You ought to have as much consideration for your own well being.

To be in a state of sheer exhaustion after your accustomed sport tells a tale you would do well to heed before it is too late.

JACK FROST

A killer! kinder word to choose
For him I cannot find.
He slaughters beauty to amuse
His strangely fashioned kind.

Though some there are who kill for meat
And some an end to make
To bitter love they fancied sweet,
He kills for killing's sake.

Last night my garden plot he found
With blossoms, pink and red,
And ere he left he strewed the ground
With lovely dahlias dead.

He did not steal my flowers away
Nor seek a wrong to right,
But for amusement and for play
At murder spent the night.

Now horrid are the sights I see,
For murder has been done,
I think how vile Jack Frost must be
Who kills the flowers for fun!

KISS TO MARRIED BLISS

The "Husband's Gratitude Club" of Oklahoma City, Okla., formed by members of the Industrial church of that city, has started something which, if made national in scope, would do much to check and even greatly reduce our ever increasing divorce record. On the belief that what America needed was more conjugal kissing the club was formed with 30 charter members. These men all pledged themselves as follows: "I solemnly pledge myself daily to embrace my wife, kiss her and tell her I love her. I promise to compliment her at least once each day on some particular part of the menu she prepares. I promise to perform at least one kind and unexpected deed for her daily." After a two weeks' trial members of the club and their wives gathered for reports on the benefits, if any. The wives naturally thought the idea great and said: "We want the club continued." So the members of the Husband's Gratitude Club voted unanimously to continue their efforts to kiss to married bliss.

REAL WORTH

When you think of a man you seldom think
Of the knowledge he has of books;
You seldom think of the clothes he wears,
His habits, or faults, or looks.
You seldom think of the car he drives,
Nor the bonds his gold has brought;
When you think of a man you mostly think
Of some kindness he has wrought.
You judge him not by the blocks of stocks,
Nor his power of name or pen;
You judge a man by the place he's made
In the hearts of his fellow men.
You judge him more by the fight he's made,
By the way he has faced the strife,
And not the amount of his bank account
He's managed to get in life.
You think of the friend he's been to man,
The good that he has done,
And you judge the sort of a man he is
By friends that he has won.

The World At A Glance

Views Of Interior America
On Dictator-King's Death
On Stalin's Views Of Roosevelt

Central Press
Cleveland Bureau

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12.—Views of the interior of the United States are important—for the views of the interior govern congress.

Immediate reaction to the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia indicated a view that dictators soon or late fall by violence, or breed violence.

Yugoslavia was another product of the Versailles treaty. In a nation of 13,000,000 persons there are 5,000,000 disfranchised Croatians, who evidently object to a Serbian dictator and who desire a republic of their own. The assassin was a Croat.

AGAINST STALIN'S VIEWS

Views of Josef Stalin, Soviet dictator, as gained by H. G. Wells, British writer, interest.

Stalin said he admired President Roosevelt's courage, but that he believed the president's aims could be realized only by the overflow of capitalism. He added that, for example, if the president tried to eliminate unemployment completely that the capitalists would prevent his re-election, as they existed through a supply of cheap labor.

There is a reaction to that here—and evidently elsewhere in America—that would perplex Stalin, keen observer that he is.

That reaction is based on an American fundamental discussed in this column yesterday. Each American is a minor capitalist (and that is not written disparagingly). Each American aims at a standard of living set very high. Each American aims at a home.

And yet each American strives to attain an economic freedom and a degree of liberty beyond any yet achieved anywhere in the world.

People questioned as to how that economic freedom (which is the highest form of liberty) is to be attained, respond in words to this effect:

"We still trust Roosevelt."

Now, if that be the feeling, and if the people as a mass continue to exercise the free use of the ballot (a feature unknown tt much of Europe), there is every indication that the evolution will continue in the United States.

Stalin may remark that such an evolution cannot continue to an end in a "capitalistic" state. It is apparent that President Roosevelt and a majority of the American people differ on this. The progress toward economic freedom in the United States is as strong as the progress toward economic freedom in the Union of Socialist Soviet republics. The processes may be different, the governments may assume a different form—but H. G. Wells probably was correct in sensing a trend in the same direction.

Americans questioned by this writer appear to be in no temper for a cessation of that progress—and the average business man seems as much inclined to it as anybody else.

Belief is strong, too, that the Republicans will put up a progressive against Roosevelt and cause the issues to be defined even more clearly.

Of course, there are those who see danger in the whole proceeding. There are men who are earnestly opposed to many measures as unsafe. Many thoughtful men, for example, see the monetary policy as enslaving rather than freeing.

Then there are other men and groups who are opposed to present processes in order to preserve their old status. They are bitter and vindictive in their opposition.

The strength of the United States lies in its free expression of opinion, the opportunity to debate, as well as its right to vote and to strike and to have a settlement judicially.

MISTAKES

"What about some evident mistakes by the administration?" the writer has just asked a man.

"Oh, the people believe the president is trying. They are willing to go along with him."

"But what if the administration jumps from one thing to another, apparently with no plan?"

"The people believe the president is making every possible experiment in their behalf."

"What if that hampers business?"

"Oh, you mean that Wall Street and the bankers are trying to stop the president. Do you believe the people will let them get away with that?"

* * *

VIEWING AMERICA

Bernard Kilgore of the Wall Street Journal, touring the United States, evidently has had some of the experiences.

He writes from "somewhere in northern Illinois":

"Recent attacks on the New Deal in the name of 'liberty,' 'property rights', 'profits' and 'private initiative' seem to have attracted a considerable following among what might be roughly classified as the upper economic brackets. Among these same groups President Roosevelt's along with the various phases of his national program. His picture, for instance, has disappeared in a considerable number of private offices where it hung only a few months ago.

"But there are not, as yet, any definite indications of an important shift in public opinion. It is very much the same old story: 'The president isn't as popular as he was, say, just after the banking holiday ended. Still, if there were to be a presidential election tomorrow he would poll more votes against Herbert Hoover or any other prominent Republican than he polled in November, 1932.'...

"Perhaps the real key to current Democratic strength lies...in the fact that the average voter still considers national politics as largely a question of New Deal versus Old Deal."...

YOUTH

Wherever one turns in the United States a fact looms that older men apparently do not consider:

Youth, jobless and otherwise, seems to be uniting to push older men and "older ideas" from the scene.

That uniting process may take several years yet. But those youth are likely to rewrite a portion of the constitution. What their course will be, whether their own thought will be forward or backward, remains to be seen.

"I wonder what it is?" the young woman inquired.

"I don't know, honey, some kind of grass, I guess," was the reply from the husband.

Then she had an inspiration and exclaimed:

"My, dear, I bet its the Mardi Gras we've been reading about."

TODAY Is The Day

By CLARK KINNAIRD Copyright 1934 Central Press

FRIDAY, OCT 12

The World War Day-By-Day—Oct. 12, 1914—The Belgian field army which had escaped from Antwerp by way of Ghent and Bruges, established itself on Yser between Dixmude and the sea, and effected a function with the British II Corps. The French III Corps marched on their left toward the line running from Armentieres to Ypres, to occupy the heights of Messines. Between Messines and Vimy all three armies enforced by others, began to dig in on a front carefully selected for a last-ditch defense against the German drive to the sea. It was to become the axis of the war in the west and to remain so for three bitter years.

Between the promontory of Messines and the cliff formed by the heights of Notre Dame de Lorette and of Vimy, above the plain of Lens, stretched a sector with a front of nearly 50 kilometers which included only isolated strong points, sometimes in a position favorable to the Allies, sometimes to the enemy. The whole was of immense military importance in the defense of all Flanders.

There hundreds of thousands of men crouched close to each other, divided sometimes by a No Man's Land a few hundred yards in width, and sometimes only a few yards away. Towns, villages, churches, schools, farmsteads were wiped off the map. All vegetation was blasted and burned off the earth. Siege guns, brought up from conquered Antwerp, hurled enormous shells where masses of men were in the trenches or in billets behind the lines. Every road was under fire and transport was shelled 20 miles and more away back. The courage, the physical strength, the vitality of young men selected for fitness was poured upon the ground in a bloody stream.

The Kaiser came nearest to being wounded or killed in the war while he was watching the assault on Ypres from Thielt in Belgium. A British airplane dropped a bomb near his position, killing several members of his staff. But there was no knowledge of his presnece there on the part of the aviator.

The Kaiser waited "in shining armour" to take part in several triumphal entries which failed to come off. However, for all his pretentious uniforms in which he liked to be photographed, he never attempted to lead an army in person.

CULTURAL GROUP HAS FIRST MEETING

The cultural group of Junior Hadassah held the first meeting last evening, in Anne Schifman's home on Wallace avenue.

Plans were outlined for the year's activities which will tend toward the completion of work for the Fellowship Key which will be given as a reward for accomplishments at the national convention in 1935.

Next Wednesday evening there will be a meeting at the home of Rose Safier on Winter avenue. Any local young women interested in the organization, who desire to become members, are asked to communicate with Esther Fishkin, chairman.

Gramoda Dinner

The members of the Gramoda Kensington are not the least bit superstitious about sitting down with 13 at the table for Thursday evening they enjoyed a most delicious dinner at an inn with places arranged for that many.

A gorgeous centerpiece of fall flowers added an air of festivity to the event, which was planned for the husbands, with Mrs. Mayo Porter, Mrs. W. B. McIver and Mrs. George Thomas as the committee.

Bingo formed the after dinner diversion with prizes awarded to Mrs. W. M. Snyder, Mrs. George Thomas and T. A. McCurdy.

The next event will be in the form of a tureen luncheon at the home of Mrs. George Thomas, St. Louis avenue, Youngstown, O., on October 25.

Club Masquerade

The members of the W. L. C. club were hardly recognizable Thursday evening when they appeared at the home of Mrs. Pansy Reiber, Dewey avenue, for a masquerade party, for they were dressed in motley disguise and much merriment ensued as the women tried to guess the identities.

Games and contests kept the group amused until a late hour, when prizes were awarded Mrs. Catherine Eckles, Mrs. Mary Wilson, Mrs. Dorothy Gaston and Mrs. Hilda Wilson.

Refreshments were in keeping with the season and were served by Mrs. Jessie McCann and Mrs. Margaret Boak and the hostess.

Plans were made for the anniversary meeting in November when Mrs. Bonnie Forney, Mrs. Elizabeth Allshouse and Mrs. Jack Flynn will be hostesses.

This evening the district meeting of the Junior B. P. W. will be held in Butler, and members from the local organization who will attend include the Misses Lucille Emery, president; Mae Cromie, Mary Whalen, Alice Mae Huffman and Lois Gibson.

At 5 o'clock, a panel discussion will be conducted in the district headquarters rooms with Miss Louise Barton of Ellwood City as leader.

At 6:30 o'clock dinner will be served with a program following. The guest speaker will be Miss Suzan Rhodes of Columbia, Pa., state president.

Class Elects.

Members of the Ever Friendly class of the Croton Avenue M. E. Sunday school were entertained in the home of Miss Marjorie Truxall on Lorain avenue last evening, when new officers were elected to serve during the coming year.

The new officers are: President, Toots Brady; vice president, Wanda Winder; secretary, Marjory Truxall, and treasurer, Florence Cox. Plans were made for a Hallowe'en party in the near future.

The hours following the business session were spent in games and music. The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Catherine Grove.

Club Organized

A group of girls who met at the home of Mrs. Olive Smith, East Grant street Thursday evening, organized into a club that will be known as the "Octova Club" and will meet every two weeks.

After a business period, they participated in a cards contest, bridge being featured. Mrs. Harold Pyle was awarded the prize for high honors at the close of play.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Perry Rodgers at the close of the evening.

Mrs. Robert Adams, on Fairmont avenue will entertain at their next regular meeting.

We-Fu Club Meets.

A beautifully appointed 1 o'clock luncheon featured the meeting of the We-Fu Bridge club members held Thursday afternoon at a local inn on the Youngstown road with Mrs. Alfred Williams, Euclid avenue, hostess. After partaking of a delicious menu, the guests turned their attention to cards contests. Mrs. Robert Allshouse and Mrs. Louis Southern were winners of the honor score prizes.

Their next regular meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Harry Carlson, Laurel avenue.

Amerita Club

Mrs. Joseph Leta welcomed the Amerita Club to her home on Williams street last evening.

A Hallowe'en party was planned at the business session, after which cards were enjoyed with Mrs. Nichalas Altobelli and Mrs. A. Villani, winning prizes.

Mrs. A. Canfora and Miss Margaret Bordonaro were guests. A delightful Hallowe'en menu was served in the dining room at a late hour.

At Chicago Fair

Mrs. Jessie E. Edgar, of Sheridan avenue, and Mrs. James M. Ferguson of Bellevue, are seeing the World's Fair this week, having left Tuesday evening for Chicago.

SINGLES AND DOUBLES HAVE BRIDGE ASSEMBLY

The home of Mrs. Fred Lee on Northview avenue, appropriately decorated with Hallowe'en tones combined with pretty flowers, was the scene for the meeting of the Singles and Doubles last evening.

Miss Florence Wright won the most attractive bridge favor for high score, and Mrs. Joseph R. McFate was given the guest award. Mrs. S. Glenn McCracken helped with a dainty Hallowe'en luncheon.

On Wednesday, October 24, Mrs. McCracken will entertain at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McMillin, on Sumner avenue.

Birthday Honored

One of the happy events of Thursday afternoon was given by Mrs. W. A. Kaufman when she entertained some little friends in her home on Moody avenue in honor of her little son, James William.

The hours were spent with games and music and later lunch was served in the dining room which was beautifully adorned with fall colors. The table was centered with a birthday cake topped with miniature lighted candles. Special guests were Mrs. Emma Morrison, Ralph Lutz and Harold Sexton.

The honored guest received lovely gifts.

Lotus Kensington

Members of the Lotus Kensington met in regular session Thursday evening with Mrs. Robert Clark, on Butler avenue. Cards, chat and informal diversions whiled away the hours in a pleasant manner. At a suitable time, the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Peggy Clark served a tempting lunch.

PUMPKINS AND SQUASH NEED PROPER STORAGE

Pumpkins and squash can be kept easily all winter if a few simple rules are followed.

Harvest the crop before heavy frosts occur. Fully matured fruits keep best. Handle the crop carefully so that the fruits are not bruised, and leave the stems attached to the fruits.

Place the fruits one layer deep on shelves or on the floor in a dry cellar or room. A dry and fairly warm temperature of about 40 to 50 degrees Fahrenheit is best.

Sweet potatoes should be dug before frosts kill the vines. The roots should be matured and very carefully handled so that no bruising occurs. Bruised potatoes will usually rot unless they are immediately cured with artificial heat.

When sweet potatoes are dug they contain too much loisture for storing. Commercial growers place the potatoes carefully into ventilated crates or baskets and subject them to artificial heat for 10 days; 75 to 85 degrees F. is not too high. After this curing period, in which the surplus moisture is removed, the roots are stored in a dry place at about 50 to 60 degrees.

MANAGE BEES RIGHT TO PREVENT ROBBING

Idle bees become racketeers. After the honey flow is over and the bees have no work to do in the fields they spend their time trying to steal honey from each other.

If the beekeeper works with the bees at such times he must exercise great care to prevent robbing. When the combs are exposed for a just a few minutes robber bees will fly to them and steal the honey, or if honey is spilled on the ground robbery will start immediately and the apiary will soon be in a state of confusion.

After the honey flow is past, work with the bees just as little as possible and preferably in the late afternoon. Also, be careful that no honey is spilled. If combs must be taken out of the hives they should be placed in an empty super and kept covered until they are replaced in the hive. If robbing becomes serious the size of entrance to small colonies can be reduced and a bunch of weeds or grass placed in front of each entrance.

HOW TO PROTECT ROSES DURING WINTER

Roses require, in general, a certain amount of protection throughout the winter months.

Leaves of hardwood trees, such as oak, should be gathered during the fall and stored in a dry place. Other material, such as salt hay (a commercial preparation) or coarse, strawy manure may be used.

Soil should be hilled around the individual bushes at the approach of frost, then a small screen of chicken wire can be placed around each bush and the mounded bush or bushes covered with leaves. Tar paper may be used to keep out water or peach baskets may be inverted over the plants. If an extensive planting of roses is to be protected the soil should be mounded up around each of the plants, and after the soil is frozen dry leaves may be scattered among the plants and this in turn covered with salt hay or strawy manure to prevent the leaves from blowing away.

Hardy climbing roses seldom need protection except in severe climates. Drying winds, however, cause many plants to die back, and in order to protect the plants the tender climbers should be taken down from the trellis about the first to the fifteenth of December and tied in a compact bundle. A small mound of earth should be made on which to rest the canes. The base of each plant should be covered with earth or leaf mold as far up as the bottom of the lower branches. Burlap, boards, or tar paper may be used to keep out the water.

The most important factors to be considered in the protection of roses throughout the winter are: 1, use dry covering material; 2, eliminate sun and water; 3, permit ends of roses which have tied in a bundle to remain open; 4, eliminate possibility of rodent injury through the introduction of proper control measures.

After danger of frost has passed the winter covering may be removed, depending upon climatic conditions, from March 20 to April 20. Leaves may be carried away and made into a compost pile. If manure is used the strawy residue can be removed and the remaining material forked into the ground surrounding the plants. The loam which is hilled up around the plants should be restored within an inch of its original level. When the ground has been thoroughly cleaned up, a heavy sprinkling of bonemeal can be added and raked in around the plants.

Roses require spring pruning about the time they are uncovered. The Hybrid Teas and Hybrid Perpetuals may be pruned severely but other varieties require light pruning. All dead wood should be cut out. The live wood should be shortened to about 8 or 12 inches above the ground. A sharp knife or shears should be used in the pruning operation.

HEAVY TEAM SETS NEW STATE PULLING MARK

A new pulling record for teams exceeding 3,000 pound in weight was set at the Sullivan County Fair, in Forksville, reports C. A. Burge, horse extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State College.

Glen C. King, drove his team to the new mark in a pouring rain. The team weighed 3,400 pounds and moved the extension service dynamometer set at 3,350 pounds tractive pull for the required distance of 27½ feet. Burge explains that this is equivalent to starting a load of 21.1 tons on pavement 10 to 15 consecutive times.

The old mark for heavyweight teams was 3,100 pounds. It was held jointly by Roy Grimes and Lloyd Lee of McKean County. This record was made six years ago. At the Forksville Fair it was broken, not once but four times.

Three other teams besides the King team pulled the dynamometer set at 3,150 pounds. These teams were entered by Ed Lee, Forksville; George Griffith, Powell; and Bill Yeagle, Forksville. The King, Lee, and Griffith teams also pulled 3,250 while the Yeagle team moved the dynamometer only 20 feet 3 inches at that weight. At 3,350 pounds the Lee team stopped at 18 feet 7 inches and the Griffith team at 9 feet 9 inches.

Rotarians Of Grove City Honor Thos. Allen, 40 Years In Business

(Special to The News)

GROVE CITY, Oct. 12.—Thomas M. Allen, dean of local grocers, who has just completed 40 years in business here, was the guest of honor at, weekly Rotary club luncheon when C. F. Fithian outlined Mr. Allen's long and honorable business career, during which he carried many a local family through periods of emergency.

Grove City's business district, when Mr. Allen started his store in 1894, was described by Mr. Fithian. He told how "Tom" Allen's customers, recruited largely from the mining districts around Grove City, flocked to his store to patronize a fellow workman. On pay-days, the customers left their orders and money; between pay-days, freqently only the orders, but the miners always received their food supplies.

G. G. Forquer, club president, extended congratulations, and presented Mr. Allen with a huge bouquet of chrysanthemums.

Offer Cradle Of Gold And Silver For Royal Heir

(International News Service)

NAPLES—The citizens of Naples have offered, by public subscription, a regal cradle for the expected child of the crown princess. This presentation is a tradition with the city. The same was done when the present king (former Prince of Naples) was born here.

When the idea of such a gift was broached to Crown Prince Umberto he gladly accepted but stipulated that he should be privileged to draw the design for the cradle. The crown prince is an exquisite conoisseur of art and he personally supervised the redecorations of the royal palaces in which he has lived.

For the cradle he chose an empire design. The whole thing is of tortoise shell and silver and gold. On a solid base of elongated exagonal shape rises in the center, harp-like, a double horned support for the cradle which is suspended and swinging.

Naples has also chosen to commemorate the birth in a very charming way, by offering to all children born on the same day as the crown prince's offspring, not a cradle, but a small iron bed, complete with mattress, blankets, sheets and pillows.

Drowning Of Boy Remains Mystery

Investigation Fails To Show How Grove City Lad Got Into River

(Special to The News)

GROVE CITY, Oct. 12.—Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock today for Ronny Miron, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Miron, who was drowned below the Main street dam, Tuesday evening.

A coroner's investigation failed to throw any light on the mysterious accident, although it is believed to have occurred in daylight, and within view of scores of possible witnesses. The child was missed at 6 p. m. Tuesday, and after an all-night search, the body was recovered at noon Wednesday. The tragedy recalls to older residents a similar accident which occurred about 60 years ago, when the small son of John Cunningham, pioneer settled, fell into the dam at this point.

Plaintiffs in automobile damage appear to find it increasingly hard to secure verdicts. In several cases at the present term of court verdicts have been returned for defendants. One case which was to have come up this week has been settled without a trial. Most people who are called as jurors are drivers of cars, and are therefore able to weigh circumstances and evidence pretty accurately.

Louis L. Miller, executor of the late Mary Miller, has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against Andrew J. Miller, executor of the late John Miller, in which the plaintiffs claims $1,038.75 from the estate of the defendant. Mary Miller was the wife of John Miller. Her executor claims she furnished money out of her own personal estate to pay funeral bills and other bills, incurred by her husband, and believes her estate should be recompensed out of her husband's estate.

Idle bees become racketeers. After the honey flow is over and the bees have no work to do in the fields they spend their time trying to steal honey from each other.

If the beekeeper works with the bees at such times he must exercise great care to prevent robbing. When the combs are exposed for a just a few minutes robber bees will fly to them and steal the honey, or if honey is spilled on the ground robbery will start immediately and the apiary will soon be in a state of confusion.

After the honey flow is past, work with the bees just as little as possible and preferably in the late afternoon. Also, be careful that no honey is spilled. If combs must be taken out of the hives they should be placed in an empty super and kept covered until they are replaced in the hive. If robbing becomes serious the size of entrance to small colonies can be reduced and a bunch of weeds or grass placed in front of each entrance.

HOW TO PROTECT ROSES DURING WINTER

Roses require, in general, a certain amount of protection throughout the winter months.

Leaves of hardwood trees, such as oak, should be gathered during the fall and stored in a dry place. Other material, such as salt hay (a commercial preparation) or coarse, strawy manure may be used.

Soil should be hilled around the individual bushes at the approach of frost, then a small screen of chicken wire can be placed around each bush and the mounded bush or bushes covered with leaves. Tar paper may be used to keep out water or peach baskets may be inverted over the plants. If an extensive planting of roses is to be protected the soil should be mounded up around each of the plants, and after the soil is frozen dry leaves may be scattered among the plants and this in turn covered with salt hay or strawy manure to prevent the leaves from blowing away.

Hardy climbing roses seldom need protection except in severe climates. Drying winds, however, cause many plants to die back, and in order to protect the plants the tender climbers should be taken down from the trellis about the first to the fifteenth of December and tied in a compact bundle. A small mound of earth should be made on which to rest the canes. The base of each plant should be covered with earth or leaf mold as far up as the bottom of the lower branches. Burlap, boards, or tar paper may be used to keep out the water.

The most important factors to be considered in the protection of roses throughout the winter are: 1, use dry covering material; 2, eliminate sun and water; 3, permit ends of roses which have tied in a bundle to remain open; 4, eliminate possibility of rodent injury through the introduction of proper control measures.

After danger of frost has passed the winter covering may be removed, depending upon climatic conditions, from March 20 to April 20. Leaves may be carried away and made into a compost pile. If manure is used the strawy residue can be removed and the remaining material forked into the ground surrounding the plants. The loam which is hilled up around the plants should be restored within an inch of its original level. When the ground has been thoroughly cleaned up, a heavy sprinkling of bonemeal can be added and raked in around the plants.

Roses require spring pruning about the time they are uncovered. The Hybrid Teas and Hybrid Perpetuals may be pruned severely but other varieties require light pruning. All dead wood should be cut out. The live wood should be shortened to about 8 or 12 inches above the ground. A sharp knife or shears should be used in the pruning operation.

HEAVY TEAM SETS NEW STATE PULLING MARK

A new pulling record for teams exceeding 3,000 pound in weight was set at the Sullivan County Fair, in Forksville, reports C. A. Burge, horse extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State College.

Glen C. King, drove his team to the new mark in a pouring rain. The team weighed 3,400 pounds and moved the extension service dynamometer set at 3,350 pounds tractive pull for the required distance of 27½ feet. Burge explains that this is equivalent to starting a load of 21.1 tons on pavement 10 to 15 consecutive times.

The old mark for heavyweight teams was 3,100 pounds. It was held jointly by Roy Grimes and Lloyd Lee of McKean County. This record was made six years ago. At the Forksville Fair it was broken, not once but four times.

Three other teams besides the King team pulled the dynamometer set at 3,150 pounds. These teams were entered by Ed Lee, Forksville; George Griffith, Powell; and Bill Yeagle, Forksville. The King, Lee, and Griffith teams also pulled 3,250 while the Yeagle team moved the dynamometer only 20 feet 3 inches at that weight. At 3,350 pounds the Lee team stopped at 18 feet 7 inches and the Griffith team at 9 feet 9 inches.

Rotarians Of Grove City Honor Thos. Allen, 40 Years In Business

(Special to The News)

GROVE CITY, Oct. 12.—Thomas M. Allen, dean of local grocers, who has just completed 40 years in business here, was the guest of honor at, weekly Rotary club luncheon when C. F. Fithian outlined Mr. Allen's long and honorable business career, during which he carried many a local family through periods of emergency.

Grove City's business district, when Mr. Allen started his store in 1894, was described by Mr. Fithian. He told how "Tom" Allen's customers, recruited largely from the mining districts around Grove City, flocked to his store to patronize a fellow workman. On pay-days, the customers left their orders and money; between pay-days, freqently only the orders, but the miners always received their food supplies.

G. G. Forquer, club president, extended congratulations, and presented Mr. Allen with a huge bouquet of chrysanthemums.

Offer Cradle Of Gold And Silver For Royal Heir

(International News Service)

NAPLES—The citizens of Naples have offered, by public subscription, a regal cradle for the expected child of the crown princess. This presentation is a tradition with the city. The same was done when the present king (former Prince of Naples) was born here.

When the idea of such a gift was broached to Crown Prince Umberto he gladly accepted but stipulated that he should be privileged to draw the design for the cradle. The crown prince is an exquisite conoisseur of art and he personally supervised the redecorations of the royal palaces in which he has lived.

For the cradle he chose an empire design. The whole thing is of tortoise shell and silver and gold. On a solid base of elongated exagonal shape rises in the center, harp-like, a double horned support for the cradle which is suspended and swinging.

Naples has also chosen to commemorate the birth in a very charming way, by offering to all children born on the same day as the crown prince's offspring, not a cradle, but a small iron bed, complete with mattress, blankets, sheets and pillows.

GROVE CITY, Oct. 12.—Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock today for Ronny Miron, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Miron, who was drowned below the Main street dam, Tuesday evening.

A coroner's investigation failed to throw any light on the mysterious accident, although it is believed to have occurred in daylight, and within view of scores of possible witnesses. The child was missed at 6 p. m. Tuesday, and after an all-night search, the body was recovered at noon Wednesday. The tragedy recalls to older residents a similar accident which occurred about 60 years ago, when the small son of John Cunningham, pioneer settled, fell into the dam at this point.

W. D. Porter of Ellwood City has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against Joseph W. Humphrey, executor of Biaggio Strazze, to collect a balance on a funeral bill amounting to $460.

The Cartwright Hardware company has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against Andrew J. Miller, executor in the estate of the late John Miller, for $59.29. Similar suits have been filed by George W. Blank Supply company for $81.89; Socony Vacuum company for $134.54, and Randall B. Luke and M. J. Kraus for $350.

One of the ground floor windows in the building used by the county for welfare purposes, across from the jail on Court street, was broken last night. It is believed that it was done by boys, as there is nothing in the rooms that would have attracted thieves.

Some of the county officials enjoyed a chicken supper at Slippery Rock church near Ellwood last night, a special invitation having been issued to them by Former County Treasurer, Adda M. Smiley.

Plaintiffs in automobile damage appear to find it increasingly hard to secure verdicts. In several cases at the present term of court verdicts have been returned for defendants. One case which was to have come up this week has been settled without a trial. Most people who are called as jurors are drivers of cars, and are therefore able to weigh circumstances and evidence pretty accurately.

Louis L. Miller, executor of the late Mary Miller, has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against Andrew J. Miller, executor of the late John Miller, in which the plaintiffs claims $1,038.75 from the estate of the defendant. Mary Miller was the wife of John Miller. Her executor claims she furnished money out of her own personal estate to pay funeral bills and other bills, incurred by her husband, and believes her estate should be recompensed out of her husband's estate.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

PUMPKINS AND SQUASH NEED PROPER STORAGE

Pumpkins and squash can be kept easily all winter if a few simple rules are followed.

Harvest the crop before heavy frosts occur. Fully matured fruits keep best. Handle the crop carefully so that the fruits are not bruised, and leave the stems attached to the fruits.

Place the fruits one layer deep on shelves or on the floor in a dry cellar or room. A dry and fairly warm temperature of about 40 to 50 degrees Fahrenheit is best.

Sweet potatoes should be dug before frosts kill the vines. The roots should be matured and very carefully handled so that no bruising occurs. Bruised potatoes will usually rot unless they are immediately cured with artificial heat.

When sweet potatoes are dug they contain too much loisture for storing. Commercial growers place the potatoes carefully into ventilated crates or baskets and subject them to artificial heat for 10 days; 75 to 85 degrees F. is not too high. After this curing period, in which the surplus moisture is removed, the roots are stored in a dry place at about 50 to 60 degrees.

MANAGE BEES RIGHT TO PREVENT ROBBING

Idle bees become racketeers. After the honey flow is over and the bees have no work to do in the fields they spend their time trying to steal honey from each other.

If the beekeeper works with the bees at such times he must exercise great care to prevent robbing. When the combs are exposed for a just a few minutes robber bees will fly to them and steal the honey, or if honey is spilled on the ground robbery will start immediately and the apiary will soon be in a state of confusion.

After the honey flow is past, work with the bees just as little as possible and preferably in the late afternoon. Also, be careful that no honey is spilled. If combs must be taken out of the hives they should be placed in an empty super and kept covered until they are replaced in the hive. If robbing becomes serious the size of entrance to small colonies can be reduced and a bunch of weeds or grass placed in front of each entrance.

Plaintiffs in automobile damage appear to find it increasingly hard to secure verdicts. In several cases at the present term of court verdicts have been returned for defendants. One case which was to have come up this week has been settled without a trial. Most people who are called as jurors are drivers of cars, and are therefore able to weigh circumstances and evidence pretty accurately.

Louis L. Miller, executor of the late Mary Miller, has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against Andrew J. Miller, executor of the late John Miller, in which the plaintiffs claims $1,038.75 from the estate of the defendant. Mary Miller was the wife of John Miller. Her executor claims she furnished money out of her own personal estate to pay funeral bills and other bills, incurred by her husband, and believes her estate should be recompensed out of her husband's estate.

Refrigerator Blast Fatal

FREEPORT, Pa., Oct. 12.—Death of William Tipinski, 29, Arnold electric repairman, and injuries to his helper were ascribed today to the explosion of an electric refrigerator which they had been repairing in a Laneville home.

SEEK MIDGET BURGLAR

(International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash.—Seattle police are now looking for a midget burglar. Someone entered a grocery store here through a broken door panel less than two feet square and stole a truck load of merchandise, taking it all through the same small aperture.

Unified Police Force Proposed

Would Embody All Policemen In Pennsylvania Into One Big Body

EFFECTIVE WAY TO FIGHT CRIME

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—Maj. Lynn Adams, head of the Pennsylvania police, was on record today in favor of embodying all police officers of Pennsylvania into one body.

Adams offered this as an ideal system at a meeting of the police commission here.

Under Adams' plan, a commission of five judges would have the power to hire and fire the superintendent who would be completely responsible for the actions of the force.

Adams blamed crime in this country on having one policeman where there should be four and called attention to London's model police force. There, he asserted, each policeman has a beat he can walk in 15 minutes, and added:

"In most American cities, the patrolman has a beat he couldn't cover if he ran all night."

Johnstown Had Pleasant Visit

Mayor Receives Letter Of Appreciation For City's Courtesy On Visit

J. Ernest Wagner, principal of the high school at Johnstown, Pa., has written Mayor Charles B. Mayne of this city thanking him for the courtesy shown the Johnstown high school band and football team during their stay here one week ago tomorrow.

"You certainly know how to plan a reception and carry out the details for a visiting football delegation. The treatment accorded by your city was most excellent and I have heard nothing but worthy commendation on the return to Johnstown," the letter said.

"I was most pleased to meet you and to discuss football for a few minutes during the game. Next year, we trust we may meet you in Johnstown for a return game," Wagner's letter concluded.

In discussing the letter this morning Mayor Mayne said he was happy to have had the pleasure of meeting the officials of the city and high school, football players, bandsmen and the fans and also said he hoped that the friendship between the two cities would be further cemented by future meetings.

Powers Speaks To Young Men

Club Of Youths At Y Hears Address By Former District Attorney

The perplexing problems of today's youth, former District Attorney John Powers told the Y's Men's club of the Y. M. C. A. when he spoke to it on "The Future of Young Men" last night, are to be classified as political, economic and social.

Powers said the question of whether the future holds promise or an outlook of despair rates in the mind of many a young man today, for, as he quoted a prominent comedian, "a young man steps out of college today with his A. B., but finds it a harder task to get his J. O. B." He said the future of youth is a "serious one."

And while a serious one, he declares that the future challenges the best within the young and he pleaded with young men today to "face it courageously."

He described at length the political, economic and social problems which now exist.

Unified Police Force Proposed

EFFECTIVE WAY TO FIGHT CRIME

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—Maj. Lynn Adams, head of the Pennsylvania police, was on record today in favor of embodying all police officers of Pennsylvania into one body.

Adams offered this as an ideal system at a meeting of the police commission here.

Under Adams' plan, a commission of five judges would have the power to hire and fire the superintendent who would be completely responsible for the actions of the force.

Adams blamed crime in this country on having one policeman where there should be four and called attention to London's model police force. There, he asserted, each policeman has a beat he can walk in 15 minutes, and added:

"In most American cities, the patrolman has a beat he couldn't cover if he ran all night."

Drugs, One Billion Tons.
It's Growing Smaller.
The King's Body Goes Home.
Flying Baby Elephant.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THIS IS Pharmacy Week in the United States, or to most of us "Drug Store Week," devoted to thousands of useful merchants who primarily dispense drugs, helping doctors to fight disease. The public safety depends on the druggist's accuracy.

The "AMERICAN DRUGGIST," business magazine of drug store keeper, celebrates the occasion with a special edition that costs $1 a copy, and is worth it, if only for its account of earth's greatest drug deposits, in California's "Death Valley."

Accustomed to buying drugs in tiny packages, by the grain, you read with amazement that Death Valley, its hot surface, several hundred feet below sea level, 200 miles long, 30 to 40 miles wide, one of the most barren spots on earth, is one of the richest, most valuable to the human race.

THAT VALLEY contains not ounces or pounds, but a billion tons of chemicals. Borax, one of the most important of chemicals, occurs in huge deposits, thousands of tons of it are shipped yearly from the port of Los Angeles all over the world.

Death Valley, that supplies 91 per cent of the world's borax and boric acid, contains deposits of nitrates ten miles long, a mile wide and very deep.

In the center of the valley deposits of various chemicals run to a depth of six or seven feet. What a drug store!

The surface of pure white Death Valley is composed chiefly of compact crystals, largely sodium chloride, on which airplanes find a safe landing field.

A wonderful gift nature made to California and the world when that Death Valley was created, with death for all lost on its burning surface, and health and wealth in its billion tons of chemicals.

THIS "SMALL WORLD" grows constantly smaller. Late on Tuesday afternoon King Alexander, of Jugo-Slavia, was riddled with bullets as he sat in the automobile sent to meet his ship at Marseills.

Next morning newspapers across the ocean published actual photographs of the King leaning back in his car, after the bullets had killed him.

The photographs came across the ocean via RCA radio.

THE BODY of King Alexander is returning to the King's country on a Jugo-Slav warship. Where the King went we shall know on Judgment Day.

The King's 11-year-old son is proclaimed King, as Peter the Second, of Jugo-Slavia. He is a grandson of Queen Marie, of Rumania, whom Americans had the pleasure of entertaining in this country not long ago.

THE DEAD KING was bitterly hated by his Croatian subjects, one of whom shot him down with a German sub-machine gun.

He was accused of exploiting Croatia, accused, in fact, of exploiting his entire kingdom, of taking one million dollars a year out of royal monopolies on forests, tobacco, etc., conspiring with foreign capitalists to impoverish his country.

Such bitter hatred of a king on the part of some of his subjects is not unusual in Europe. The British King for centuries was bitterly hated by a majority of his Irish subjects.

Catalonia for generations has rebelled against Spanish rule and hated the Spanish ruler.

THE DEAD KING, accused of organizing a pretended attempt to assassinate himself and then executing four enemies that he wanted out of the way, is said to have lived in constant fear of assassination.

One friend quotes the king as saying that "a training school for assassins" had been organized in Milan, Italy, with the object of assassinating him.

"Guard Jugo-Slavia.

"Dying words" are usually made up after the death, and probably King Alexander did not say "Guard Jugo-Slavia" or say anything distinctly, with a number of machine gun bullets in his lungs and heart.

In any case, Jugo-Slavia is one of the countries artificially made, put together in a patch-work by winners of the big war.

Real nationalities grow slowly through centuries. It is easy to manufacture them artificially, but hard to keep them going, if you do manufacture them.

TURNING BACK to our own dear country, we find a baby elephant named "Toto Tembo," sold by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson in New York to the St. Louis Zoological Garden, flying from New York to St. Louis through the air.

The elephant flew, because he was "too valuable to risk in a freight car." Mr. and Mrs. Johnson flew with him.

Evolutionists can tell you how long it took strange primeval creatures that crawled up out of the sea on to the land in early days gradually to change fins into wings and became flying serpents, ancestors of all the birds.

In the flight of that baby elephant those evolutionists would see one thousand million years of evolution eliminated by the scientific genius of man, specifically the Wright brothers.

(International News Service)

BOSUT, Jugoslavia.—Jovan Ristic wanted to commit suicide and he was in earnest about it. So he did.

Angered at being unable to secure what he thought was a fair price for his pigs he returned home with the swine, killed them and devised a unique way to slay himself.

How he did it is a mystery, but he drove three spikes into his head and succumbed the following morning in a hospital.

Several times previously he had taken gas and poison in a series of attempted suicides, but each time medical science had saved his life.

This time he made sure that medical science could not help him.

ONE CASE WHERE TONSILS WERE USEFUL

International News Service)

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Tonsils—which doctors have been declaring for years could not serve any useful purpose—may come in handy in an emergency.

Joan Green, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Green of Salt Lake City, swallowed a bent pin. She was rushed to a hospital. Examination revealed that it had been halted in its downward passage by an enlarged tonsil.

Drugs, One Billion Tons.
It's Growing Smaller.
The King's Body Goes Home.
Flying Baby Elephant.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THIS IS Pharmacy Week in the United States, or to most of us "Drug Store Week," devoted to thousands of useful merchants who primarily dispense drugs, helping doctors to fight disease. The public safety depends on the druggist's accuracy.

The "AMERICAN DRUGGIST," business magazine of drug store keeper, celebrates the occasion with a special edition that costs $1 a copy, and is worth it, if only for its account of earth's greatest drug deposits, in California's "Death Valley."

Accustomed to buying drugs in tiny packages, by the grain, you read with amazement that Death Valley, its hot surface, several hundred feet below sea level, 200 miles long, 30 to 40 miles wide, one of the most barren spots on earth, is one of the richest, most valuable to the human race.

THAT VALLEY contains not ounces or pounds, but a billion tons of chemicals. Borax, one of the most important of chemicals, occurs in huge deposits, thousands of tons of it are shipped yearly from the port of Los Angeles all over the world.

Death Valley, that supplies 91 per cent of the world's borax and boric acid, contains deposits of nitrates ten miles long, a mile wide and very deep.

In the center of the valley deposits of various chemicals run to a depth of six or seven feet. What a drug store!

The surface of pure white Death Valley is composed chiefly of compact crystals, largely sodium chloride, on which airplanes find a safe landing field.

A wonderful gift nature made to California and the world when that Death Valley was created, with death for all lost on its burning surface, and health and wealth in its billion tons of chemicals.

THIS "SMALL WORLD" grows constantly smaller. Late on Tuesday afternoon King Alexander, of Jugo-Slavia, was riddled with bullets as he sat in the automobile sent to meet his ship at Marseills.

Next morning newspapers across the ocean published actual photographs of the King leaning back in his car, after the bullets had killed him.

The photographs came across the ocean via RCA radio.

THE BODY of King Alexander is returning to the King's country on a Jugo-Slav warship. Where the King went we shall know on Judgment Day.

The King's 11-year-old son is proclaimed King, as Peter the Second, of Jugo-Slavia. He is a grandson of Queen Marie, of Rumania, whom Americans had the pleasure of entertaining in this country not long ago.

THE DEAD KING was bitterly hated by his Croatian subjects, one of whom shot him down with a German sub-machine gun.

He was accused of exploiting Croatia, accused, in fact, of exploiting his entire kingdom, of taking one million dollars a year out of royal monopolies on forests, tobacco, etc., conspiring with foreign capitalists to impoverish his country.

Such bitter hatred of a king on the part of some of his subjects is not unusual in Europe. The British King for centuries was bitterly hated by a majority of his Irish subjects.

Catalonia for generations has rebelled against Spanish rule and hated the Spanish ruler.

THE DEAD KING, accused of organizing a pretended attempt to assassinate himself and then executing four enemies that he wanted out of the way, is said to have lived in constant fear of assassination.

China Complains That American Silver Program Was Causing Chaos

NO MODIFICATIONS ARE TO BE MADE

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.— The United States had decided to notify China it is not in a position to modify its silver price-raising program nor to define explicitly how that program will work from time to time.

Secretary of State Hull prepared today to reply to the Chinese note complaining that the American silver program was threatening to cause economic chaos in China.

The state department was left with the unpleasant task of telling China this government has no intention of changing its silver policy. The experts are finding it difficult to do this diplomatically. Efforts are being made to find some method of placating China without giving assurances of a departure from the price-raising program.

Drafting Reply

Secretary Hull hopes the reply will be ready by tomorrow but those striving to compose the "honey" words are not so optimistic.

The Chinese government, in its note, intimated if this government does not change its policy, it should at least advise China on how the policy is to be carried out.

Treasury department experts feel this country should maintain complete freedom of action in carrying out the silver program and that its purpose would be defeated if advance information were given as to when and how often this government intends to purchase silver in the world market.

Can Adjust Situation

The belief prevails among some of the experts that China can adjust its internal economic situation to the drain on silver and that in the end, the American price-raising program will benefit that Oriental nation.

The Chinese contend, on the other hand, that the American policy of increasing the price of silver is having a deflationary effect on the internal economic situation within China and making it more costly for China to sell its goods in the world markets.

King Carol May Be Reconciled

Alexander's Assassination May Have Effect In Rumania

By ALEXANDER LUNCAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

BUCHAREST, Oct. 12.—King Alexander's ghost today was expected to accomplish what Rumania's astute queen Mother Marie, shrewdest politicians, and all weighty outside influences have been unable to achieve throughout the years—that is finally and definitely to tear King Carol away from his red-haired charmer, Mme. Lupescu.

The shadow of his murdered brother-in-law, it was confidently predicted here, will rapidly reconcile Carol and Princess Helen, and breathe fresh, new life into the Rumanian court.

The shock of Alexander's assasination, a reported growing mutual willingness of Carol and Helen to come together again, and practical retirement of Mme. Lupescu from court life are the potent factors that will bring about the reconciliation, those close to the royal palace believed.

It was well known in court circles that Alexander repeatedly warned Carol to iron out his family quarrel.

In addition to his weighty political plans for his Paris visit, it was learned today, Alexander had decided that the time was ripe for him to take a hand in effecting, once and for all, the reconciliation of Carol and Helen.

His scheme for strengthening the power of Balkan governments and remodelling the Rumanian King's martial state was to have been thoroughly canvassed in a conference in Paris with his wife, Princess Helen, and Carol's mother.

Work Direction Is Centralized

Three County Program Is Being Directed From New Castle

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Oct. 12.—The removal of the division offices in Mercer county of the civil works new program which is under the alphabetical term of LWD, will mean that the close contacts in work done last year will be lost.

The federal government has established a tri-county office at New Castle where the programs of Mercer, Lawrence and Beaver counties are handled.

The offices at Grove City where the eastern division of Mercer county was handled and that at Greenville, where the division for that territory had its head have both been eliminated.

The office at Sharon is still retained. This office was the county headquarters under the other setup.

It is stated that while the office is retained the business for the county will be carried on at New Castle where one force will handle the book work for the three counties.

As a result of this new arrangement R. E. English of Grove City is no longer the county administrator for eastern Mercer county.

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—Stanley Grabowski, 35, stood indicted for murder today as a result of the death of his eight-year-old son, Raymond.

The indictment accused Grabowski of feeding the boy rat poison in a pie. Another son recovered from the effects of the pie.

Work Direction Is Centralized

Three County Program Is Being Directed From New Castle

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Oct. 12.—The removal of the division offices in Mercer county of the civil works new program which is under the alphabetical term of LWD, will mean that the close contacts in work done last year will be lost.

The federal government has established a tri-county office at New Castle where the programs of Mercer, Lawrence and Beaver counties are handled.

The offices at Grove City where the eastern division of Mercer county was handled and that at Greenville, where the division for that territory had its head have both been eliminated.

The office at Sharon is still retained. This office was the county headquarters under the other setup.

It is stated that while the office is retained the business for the county will be carried on at New Castle where one force will handle the book work for the three counties.

As a result of this new arrangement R. E. English of Grove City is no longer the county administrator for eastern Mercer county.

COURSE FOR ADULTS

Emergency Relief Employees Must Keep Out Of Politics

Employes of the Emergency Relief or the RWD must not use their positions to coerce other employes to vote in any particular manner on election day, according to a bulletin received today from Eric H. Biddle, Executive Director. The bulletin which is self-explanatory, follows:

Commonwealth Of Pennsylvania
State Emergency Relief Board
Harrisburg
October 6. 1934.

Inasmuch as we are approaching the fall elections, it is important to re-emphasize the fact that the Relief Administration, in granting relief to applicants, is not concerned with the political affiliations of any person applying for relief. Relief is granted solely on the basis of the economic need of the individual without reference to politics, religion, race or membership in any organization with which a relief application may be identified.

Employment on the administrative staff of the relief administration must be on the basis of qualification for the job solely.

Employees of the Relief Administration shall in no way use their official positions in attempts to control political movements and shall not engage in political activities that in any way interfere with the effectiveness and integrity of relief operations.

No employees shall take part in the solicitation of funds to further the candidacy of any person or party. While employees are as free as any other citizens to contribute to any political party or candidate, the State Relief Administration will not directly or indirectly in any way be a part to the solicitation of political contributions from employees of State and Local Relief Administration or from relief recipients.

The State Relief Administration has no interest in the manner in which employees vote. Employees will, of course, vote as they deem best. They shall refrain from any discussion with relief recipients to vote for any candidate or party.

Any relief employees who may run for political office whether national, state, or local, must resign.

These rules shall apply to foremen, supervisors, time-keepers, and other supervisory personnel on Work Division projects as well as to all other administrative personnel.

Employees are hereby notified that a rigid adherence to these regulations, both in spirit and practice, is insisted upon, and any infraction thereof will subject the employee to summary dismissal.

Pittsburgh Jury Finds Two Men Guilty Of Slaying During Street Brawl

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—Tried on murder charges in the fatal shooting of Daniel Forlastio, 39, during a street melee here last April, Canio Rosella, 50, and Donato Ferriere, 30, both of Pittsburgh, were found guilty of voluntary manslaughter by a jury in criminal court today.

Sentence was deferred pending trial of the two defendants on felonious assault and battery.

Larger School Unit Stressed

Theme Of Meeting At Harrisburg This Week Was Larger Unit, Syling States

Need for a larger school unit as a means of cutting down school costs was the theme of the meeting of school superintendents at Harrisburg, this week, County Superintendent of Schools, John C. Syling stated, following his return from the meeting Thursday evening. Mr. Syling was accompanied by Assistant Superintendent George Barker.

Several able speakers discussed the subject and pointed out examples of where the larger unit is already an established fact. The state of Oregon was cited by one speaker as an outstanding example. Not only school districts, but counties are adopting the larger unit plan there, it was shown, one county in Oregon being 200 miles in length and is governed by the one set of county officers in a very satisfactory manner.

Grief Stricken Dog Refuses All Food

(International News Service)

MORGAN HILL, Cal.—Canine grief of the sort read about but seldom seen is being displayed by a young hound here, the property of T. E. Ryser, who fears his dog may starve to death as it mourns on the grave of a friend.

Last week the Airdale died and was buried in the Ryser garden. The hound at first attempted to dig up the body of his friend, then refused to move off the grave or to eat food offered him.

Horace Clayton, of Cardiff was sent to prison for offering to sell his wife to a neighbor for $50.

Hull Drafting Reply To China

China Complains That American Silver Program Was Causing Chaos

NO MODIFICATIONS ARE TO BE MADE

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.— The United States had decided to notify China it is not in a position to modify its silver price-raising program nor to define explicitly how that program will work from time to time.

Secretary of State Hull prepared today to reply to the Chinese note complaining that the American silver program was threatening to cause economic chaos in China.

The state department was left with the unpleasant task of telling China this government has no intention of changing its silver policy. The experts are finding it difficult to do this diplomatically. Efforts are being made to find some method of placating China without giving assurances of a departure from the price-raising program.

Drafting Reply

Secretary Hull hopes the reply will be ready by tomorrow but those striving to compose the "honey" words are not so optimistic.

The Chinese government, in its note, intimated if this government does not change its policy, it should at least advise China on how the policy is to be carried out.

Treasury department experts feel this country should maintain complete freedom of action in carrying out the silver program and that its purpose would be defeated if advance information were given as to when and how often this government intends to purchase silver in the world market.

Can Adjust Situation

The belief prevails among some of the experts that China can adjust its internal economic situation to the drain on silver and that in the end, the American price-raising program will benefit that Oriental nation.

The Chinese contend, on the other hand, that the American policy of increasing the price of silver is having a deflationary effect on the internal economic situation within China and making it more costly for China to sell its goods in the world markets.

King Carol May Be Reconciled

Alexander's Assassination May Have Effect In Rumania

By ALEXANDER LUNCAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

BUCHAREST, Oct. 12.—King Alexander's ghost today was expected to accomplish what Rumania's astute queen Mother Marie, shrewdest politicians, and all weighty outside influences have been unable to achieve throughout the years—that is finally and definitely to tear King Carol away from his red-haired charmer, Mme. Lupescu.

The shadow of his murdered brother-in-law, it was confidently predicted here, will rapidly reconcile Carol and Princess Helen, and breathe fresh, new life into the Rumanian court.

The shock of Alexander's assasination, a reported growing mutual willingness of Carol and Helen to come together again, and practical retirement of Mme. Lupescu from court life are the potent factors that will bring about the reconciliation, those close to the royal palace believed.

It was well known in court circles that Alexander repeatedly warned Carol to iron out his family quarrel.

In addition to his weighty political plans for his Paris visit, it was learned today, Alexander had decided that the time was ripe for him to take a hand in effecting, once and for all, the reconciliation of Carol and Helen.

His scheme for strengthening the power of Balkan governments and remodelling the Rumanian King's martial state was to have been thoroughly canvassed in a conference in Paris with his wife, Princess Helen, and Carol's mother.

Erie Political Leaders Declares Erie County Will Replace Democratic Congressman

Erie county will go Republican by not less than 4,500 votes majority this year, according to Isador Sobel, Erie attorney who is well known in New Castle. Mr. Sobel was in New Castle on Thursday and was asked what shape Erie county was in.

"We are going to elect a Republican congressman this year," said Mr. Sobel. "For two years we have had a Democratic congressman, but that will be changed in November. As for the balance of the ticket it will go through with at least 4,500 majority and perhaps more.

Mr. Sobel has been a practising attorney in Erie for many years. He served one term as postmaster of Erie and has always been prominent in civic matters and in the work of the Republican party. He is boosting the campaign of Attorney General William A. Schnader for governor with enthusiasm, and sees victory for the Republican nominee.

Work Direction Is Centralized

Three County Program Is Being Directed From New Castle

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Oct. 12.—The removal of the division offices in Mercer county of the civil works new program which is under the alphabetical term of LWD, will mean that the close contacts in work done last year will be lost.

The federal government has established a tri-county office at New Castle where the programs of Mercer, Lawrence and Beaver counties are handled.

The offices at Grove City where the eastern division of Mercer county was handled and that at Greenville, where the division for that territory had its head have both been eliminated.

The office at Sharon is still retained. This office was the county headquarters under the other setup.

It is stated that while the office is retained the business for the county will be carried on at New Castle where one force will handle the book work for the three counties.

As a result of this new arrangement R. E. English of Grove City is no longer the county administrator for eastern Mercer county.

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

Psalm 119:97—"Oh, how love I thy law! It is my meditation all the day."

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Oct. 14 is Acts 8:26-39, the Golden Text being Psalm 119:97, "Oh, how love I thy law! It is my meditation all the day.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

IF IT IS TRUE that the Bible is "the Book of Books", "the one incomparable book", the book most generally quoted in the great orations and debates of all times, the book which has saturated the best literature with its quotations or allusions, we ought to know our Bibles for purely literary reasons if for no higher. With its quotations in 37 of Shakespeare's plays, with Tennyson's poems quoting the Bible nearly 300 times, Longfellow's 330 times, John Ruskin 5,000 times and others of the makers of our literary classics in similar proportion, how can one be said to be well educated who is ignorant of God's divine library of 66 books?

How Understand The Bible

The Ethiopian to whom Philip was sent in the desert of Gaza was reading from the prophecy of Isaiah when Philip confronted him with the question, "Understandest thou what thou readest?" His reply, "How can I, except someone shall guide me?" is a reply with which most folk will find much sympathy. We often hear that the Bible is difficult if not impossible to understand. The Ethiopian, reading that great foreshadowing of the cross of Calvary found in Isaiah's fifty-third chapter confessed his ignorance as to "whether the prophet was speaking this of himself or of some other". But he understood it clearly when Philip, "beginning from this scripture, preached unto him Jesus". Understanding came when the Holy Spirit who guided Philip to the place in the desert also guided him in the interpretation of the scripture. If the authors of these scriptures "spoke from God, being moved by the Holy Spirit", so that they may say of themselves that they are "inspired of God", it is the first essential of their study that we seek the guidance of the same Spirit who in the beginning inspired them. The spirit of prayer and devotion, of eagerness to hear and willingness to obey the voice of God in his Word will bring understanding of the Bible.

A Pattern For Bible Students

Philip is a pattern for Bible teachers in that "he opened his mouth and beginning from this scripture preached unto him Jesus". Christ is the unifying and clarifying personality of every page of scripture from Genesis to Revelation. The Old Testament is the story of his preparation, the gospels of his manifestation, the Acts of his propagation the epistles of his interpretation and Revelation of his consummation. Cut the scriptures anywhere and they bleed with the blood of the Lamb of God of whom Philip preached to the Ethiopian. Philip knew "the man of sorrows" was not the nation but Christ, so when "Ethiopia stretched out her hands unto God" he presented Christ to those outstretched hands, thus giving us a perpetual pattern for all our teaching and preaching.

Devotion, Diligent, Dutiful

Our Bible study is to be not only devotional as we pray for the Spirit's guidance, but it is to be diligent. God has given no magical charm to the Bible to save us from work in mastering it. We must "study to show ourselves workmen unashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth". We must study it dutifully seeking in it the will of God for our lives and willing to be "doers of the word and not hearers only". Finding God's will and way of salvation we must accept as the Ethiopian did when he confessed Christ in his baptism in the desert and "went on his way rejoicing". So joy is ever the "fruit of the Spirit" given through his Word. "The opening of thy words giveth light."

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. Oct. 11: 34 arrests on charges as follows: Speeding 10, violations of other auto laws 20, keeper of disorderly house 1: visitor to disorderly house 1, and suspicion 2.

It is apparent that the department of police is a money making bureau for the city. Last month receipts totalled more than $1,400 and to date this month the receipts total more than $1,200. Of the latter amount approximately $1,000 has been paid by motorists for motor vehicle law violations.

After council and Union Township supervisors confer today it may be known whether or not the township will agree to pay the city the rate per year asked for permission to connect with the city's sewer system. The supervisors will propose that the RWD build the sewer providing the rate is agreed upon.

During September, Dr. W. L. Steen, health officer, made 30 examinations of drinking water here. Twenty four tests of city water were made and six of them were of samples taken from wells and springs In addition he examined 37 samples of milk offered for sale here.

Each of the cruiser cars now being used in a war on autoists who break the motor laws travel, about 60 miles each day it is said. They are not in operation continuously. They can be seen at different times parked against the curb waiting for some speeder to flit by.

There are 34 firms which sell milk in the city of New Castle. Some sell certified, others raw, and additional firms sell pasteurized milk. Each month they have the city bacteriologist examine the milk sold. Last month two persons were fined $25.00 each for selling milk without a license.

As soon as the RWD begins operations here it is anticipated that street signs and fire hydrants will be painted. Some of the traffic signs are in bad shape and it is expected that additional traffic signs will be placed at proper places.

She had awakened and came to call on Mrs. Stanley and daughter, being very much amazed to find out how much progress the organization had made. Another special feature, was the hymn, "Have Thine Own Way," which was sung by Mrs. Coates and daughters, Mrs. Park and Mrs. Jones. At the business meeting in charge of the president, it was decided to observe "A Time of Remembrance" on Sunday evening, October 21, at 5 o'clock in the church, and to have a Hallowe'en social. IT'S Grape Jelly WEEK!

IT'S EASY TO MAKE RIPE GRAPE JAM, TOO, WITH CERTO. AND YOU SAVE TIME AND MONEY AS WELL

Grapes are cheap in price and perfect in flavor . . . So now's the time to get your Certo and stock your cupboard to overflowing!

YOU can't put up too much of this delicious jelly. And right now, with 1934's marvelous grapes at such low prices, is the time to start.

Why not go to your grocer's today—and get your grapes, sugar and Certo? And use the prize-winning Certo recipe given here for making the finest grape jelly you ever tasted!

More than 4,000,000 women—including most State Fair Champions—use Certo in all their jam and jelly making.

These women know that with Certo you can expect to get half again as many glasses from the same amount of fruit . . . that you can make your jam and jelly in one-third the usual time.

And they know, too, that Certo gives you a marvelously delicious flavor—the full, rich flavor of the fresh ripe fruit itself.

When you use Certo, you boil your jams and jellies only a few minutes, instead of the usual half hour or so. The fruit juice does not boil away. And thus you never get that "boiled-down" taste that comes from long, tedious boiling.

Certo—the pure fruit pectin—is sold by all grocers. A product of General Foods.

HOW TO MAKE THE BEST CONCORD GRAPE JELLY

4 cups (2 lbs.) juice
7½ cups (3¼ lbs.) sugar
½ bottle Certo

To prepare juice, stem about 3 pounds fully ripe grapes and crush thoroughly. Add ½ cup water, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice.

Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add Certo, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 11 glasses.

FRUIT BARGAINS—AT YOUR GROCER'S NOW

Certo lets you use fruits at their ripest and best—and when most economical. Attached to every Certo bottle is a booklet of 89 prize-winning recipes for making these matchless jams and jellies.

The Ethiopian, reading that great foreshadowing of the cross of Calvary found in Isaiah's fifty-third chapter confessed his ignorance as to "whether the prophet was speaking this of himself or of some other". But he understood it clearly when Philip, "beginning from this scripture, preached unto him Jesus". Understanding came when the Holy Spirit who guided Philip to the place in the desert also guided him in the interpretation of the scripture. If the authors of these scriptures "spoke from God, being moved by the Holy Spirit", so that they may say of themselves that they are "inspired of God", it is the first essential of theiir study that we seek the guidance of the same Spirit who in the beginning inspired them. The spirit of prayer and devotion, of eagerness to hear and willingness to obey the voice of God in his Word will bring understanding of the Bible.

A Pattern For Bible Students

Philip is a pattern for Bible teachers in that "he opened his mouth and beginning from this scripture preached unto him Jesus'. Christ is the unifying and clarifying personality of every page of scripture from Genesis to Revelation. The Old Testament is the story of his preparation, the gospels of his manifestation, the Acts of his propagation the epistles of his interpretation and Revelation of his consummation. Cut the scriptures anywhere and they bleed with the blood of the Lamb of God of whom Philip preached to the Ethiopian. Philip knew "the man of sorrows" was not the nation but Christ, so when "Ethiopia stretched out her hands unto God" he presented Christ to those outstretched hands, thus giving us a perpetual pattern for all our teaching and preaching.

Devotion, Diligent, Dutiful

Our Bible study is to be not only devotional as we pray for the Spirit's guidance, but it is to be diligent. God has given no magical charm to the Bible to save us from work in mastering it. We must "study to show ourselves workmen unashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth". We must study it dutifully seeking in it the will of God for our lives and willing to be "doers of the word and not hearers only". Finding God's will and way of salvation we must accept as the Ethiopian did when he confessed Christ in his baptism in the desert and "went on his way rejoicing". So joy is ever the "fruit of the Spirit" given through his Word. "The opening of thy words giveth light."

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. Oct. 11: 34 arrests on charges as follows: Speeding 10, violations of other auto laws 20, keeper of disorderly house 1: visitor to disorderly house 1, and suspicion 2.

It is apparent that the department of police is a money making bureau for the city. Last month receipts totalled more than $1,400 and to date this month the receipts total more than $1,200. Of the latter amount approximately $1,000 has been paid by motorists for motor vehicle law violations.

After council and Union Township supervisors confer today it may be known whether or not the township will agree to pay the city the rate per year asked for permission to connect with the city's sewer system. The supervisors will propose that the RWD build the sewer providing the rate is agreed upon.

During September, Dr. W. L. Steen, health officer, made 30 examinations of drinking water here. Twenty four tests of city water were made and six of them were of samples taken from wells and springs In addition he examined 37 samples of milk offered for sale here.

Each of the cruiser cars now being used in a war on autoists who break the motor laws travel, about 60 miles each day it is said. They are not in operation continuously. They can be seen at different times parked against the curb waiting for some speeder to flit by.

There are 34 firms which sell milk in the city of New Castle. Some sell certified, others raw, and additional firms sell pasteurized milk. Each month they have the city bacteriologist examine the milk sold. Last month two persons were fined $25.00 each for selling milk without a license.

As soon as the RWD begins operations here it is anticipated that street signs and fire hydrants will be painted. Some of the traffic signs are in bad shape and it is expected that additional traffic signs will be placed at proper places.

MISSIONARY MEETING

Twenty-two were present when Mrs. Belle Stanley and Mrs. Elizabeth Mitcheltree entertained the Women's Missionary Society of the Christian church at their home. Miss Ella Blessing, of Letart, West Va., was a special guest. At noon a delicious tureen dinner was enjoyed. Mrs. Laura Coates was in charge of the program. A pink and white birthday cake, with three candles, represented the past, present, and future. The parts were taken by Mrs. Nellie Hofmeister, leader; Mrs. Alice Park, Mrs. Elizabeth Nicholls, and Mrs. Martha Hofmeister. The candles were lighted as each one spoke their part. A short playlet was presented by Mrs. Laura Coates, Mrs. Belle Stanley, and Mrs. Elizabeth McGraw. Mrs. Coates represented Mrs. Vanwinkle who helped to organize the Women's Missionary Society of the brotherhood, sixty years ago, then went to sleep. She had awakened and came to call on Mrs. Stanley and daughter, being very much amazed to find out how much progress the organization had made. Another special feature, was the hymn. "Have Thine Own Way," which was sung by Mrs. Coates and daughters, Mrs. Park and Mrs. Jones. At the business meeting in charge of the president, it was decided to observe "A Time of Remembrance" on Sunday evening, October 21, at 5 o'clock in the church, and to have a Hallowe'en social. Committees appointed for the same will meet at the home of Mrs. Joseph Park, Friday evening, October 12.

NOTICE

Will the persons who entered the home of Mrs. Priscilla Stanley and removed her radio, return same. No questions asked. 1t.

IT'S Grape Jelly WEEK!

IT'S EASY TO MAKE RIPE GRAPE JAM, TOO, WITH CERTO. AND YOU SAVE TIME AND MONEY AS WELL

Grapes are cheap in price and perfect in flavor . . . So now's the time to get your Certo and stock your cupboard to overflowing!

YOU can't put up too much of this delicious jelly. And right now, with 1934's marvelous grapes at such low prices, is the time to start.

Why not go to your grocer's today—and get your grapes, sugar and Certo? And use the prize-winning Certo recipe given here for making the finest grape jelly you ever tasted!

More than 4,000,000 women—including most State Fair Champions—use Certo in all their jam and jelly making.

These women know that with Certo you can expect to get half again as many glasses from the same amount of fruit . . . that you can make your jam and jelly in one-third the usual time.

And they know, too, that Certo gives you a marvelously delicious flavor—the full, rich flavor of the fresh ripe fruit itself.

When you use Certo, you boil your jams and jellies only a few minutes, instead of the usual half hour or so. The fruit juice does not boil away. And thus you never get that "boiled-down" taste that comes from long, tedious boiling.

Certo—the pure fruit pectin—is sold by all grocers. A product of General Foods.

HOW TO MAKE THE BEST CONCORD GRAPE JELLY

4 cups (2 lbs.) juice
7½ cups (3¼ lbs.) sugar ½ bottle Certo

To prepare juice, stem about 3 pounds fully ripe grapes and crush thoroughly. Add ½ cup water, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice.

Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add Certo, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 11 glasses.

FRUIT BARGAINS—AT YOUR GROCER'S NOW

Certo lets you use fruits at their ripest and best—and when most economical. Attached to every Certo bottle is a booklet of 89 prize-winning recipes for making these matchless jams and jellies.

Emergency Relief Employees Must Keep Out Of Politics

Employes of the Emergency Relief or the RWD must not use their positions to coerce other employes to vote in any particular manner on election day, according to a bulletin received today from Eric H. Biddle, Executive Director. The bulletin which is self-explanatory, follows:

Commonwealth Of Pennsylvania
State Emergency Relief Board
Harrisburg
October 6. 1934.

Inasmuch as we are approaching the fall elections, it is important to re-emphasize the fact that the Relief Administration, in granting relief to applicants, is not concerned with the political affiliations of any person applying for relief. Relief is granted solely on the basis of the economic need of the individual without reference to politics, religion, race or membership in any organization with which a relief application may be identified.

Employment on the administrative staff of the relief administration must be on the basis of qualification for the job solely.

Employees of the Relief Administration shall in no way use their official positions in attempts to control political movements and shall not engage in political activities that in any way interfere with the effectiveness and integrity of relief operations.

No employees shall take part in the solicitation of funds to further the candidacy of any person or party. While employees are as free as any other citizens to contribute to any political party or candidate, the State Relief Administration will not directly or indirectly in any way be a part to the solicitation of political contributions from employees of State and Local Relief Administration or from relief recipients.

The State Relief Administration has no interest in the manner in which employees vote. Employees will, of course, vote as they deem best. They shall refrain from any discussion with relief recipients to vote for any candidate or party.

Any relief employees who may run for political office whether national, state, or local, must resign.

These rules shall apply to foremen, supervisors, time-keepers, and other supervisory personnel on Work Division projects as well as to all other administrative personnel.

Employees are hereby notified that a rigid adherence to these regulations, both in spirit and practice, is insisted upon, and any infraction thereof will subject the employee to summary dismissal.

(Signed)
ERIC H. BIDDLE,
Executive Director

Larger School Unit Stressed

Theme Of Meeting At Harrisburg This Week Was Larger Unit, Syling States

Need for a larger school unit as a means of cutting down school costs was the theme of the meeting of school superintendents at Harrisburg, this week, County Superintendent of Schools, John C. Syling stated, following his return from the meeting Thursday evening. Mr. Syling was accompanied by Assistant Superintendent George Barker.

Several able speakers discussed the subject and pointed out examples of where the larger unit is already an established fact. The state of Oregon was cited by one speaker as an outstanding example. Not only school districts, but counties are adopting the larger unit plan there, it was shown, one county in Oregon being 200 miles in length and is governed by the one set of county officers in a very satisfactory manner.

Discuss Rent Of Fire Stations On Election Day

Councilmen Asked To Decide On Payment For Firemen

"Council is the sole judge of whether they will waste or save money" said City Solicitor Robert White during council session at city hall today during a conversation relative to the request of Safety Director D. O. Davies that council take definite action in regard to paying certain firemen for cleaning up fire houses where votes are cast.

White made the statement after Finance Director Hoyland had asked: "Can we pay for electric light and give it to someone else." By this, he evidently meant furnish free light. White replied: "I do not know how to answer that question but it is not a question of law."

For years the county commissioners have rented room in five of the city fire houses for voting purposes. They have paid $10.00 for each house each voting day. The firemen clean the houses and the money has been paid to those who do the work.

Recently council considered whether or not the city should have the money turned into the city treasury, instead of being paid direct to the firemen.

On August 27, it was decided that the money paid by the county commissioners should be paid as rent to the city treasurer and it was apparently the intention of council to designate to whom the treasurer should pay the money for cleaning fire houses after elections.

Nothing was done and some of the money is now in the treasurer's office. Today Safety Director Davies said he would like to have colleagues state their opinions. Finance Director Hoyland remarked that the money had been turned over to the city as rent.

He said in his mind there is a question whether the city can give it to the firemen, to which Safety Director Davies remarked that the city should have made a definite decision last August relative to the money.

Solicitor Robert White advised that "you cannot appropriate money to be distributed to someone else. You must pay direct."

"How about the electric energy?" asked Finance Director Hoyland. "We should get something for the room and light. We have never been paid for it."

"It is a question of policy" White informed Hoyland, after which Hoyland asked "How can you pay for light and give it to someone else?"

White told him he could not answer the question but advised that it was not a law question and added:

"Council is the sole judge of whether they will waste or save money. No one can stop you from wasting money. The only thing the controller can do is to put an article in the newspaper. If it is illegal the city controller can hold up payment," said White.

He said that "the firemen are employed by you and you can pay them."

"They are on the city's time 24 hours a day" remarked Davies.

"You can increase employes pay but not elective persons" White advised.

White told council "this is not a question of the amount involved but rather a question as to what is the best thing to do."

"They clean the rooms" said Mayor Mayne.

"There previously was no red tape but there will be in the future" warned Davies.

"Every man who took the money made himself liable to prosecution" White stated.

Davies then told of the agreement between the city and county commissioners by which the county was to have the use of the rooms.

"This council is not responsible for the mistakes of past councils" Mayor Mayne stated.

Approve Shorter Working Hours

National Industrial Recovery Board Endorses Proposal By Roosevelt

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Still following a policy of secrecy it inaugurated soon after it relieved Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson of his duties as national recovery administrator, the national industrial recovery board was reported today to have endorsed President Roosevelt's proposal to cut working hours in the cotton garment industry from 40 to 36 hours weekly, with no reduction in pay.

The recommendation was made after a special committee the board named to make an investigation following protests of the employers, approved Mr. Roosevelt's plan.

The board and its committee are reported to have recommended the shorter hours be instituted December 1 instead of October 15, the day the President had designated.

Asks City To Pay For Top Of Auto

Hitchcock Claims School Traffic Sign Ruined Automobile Top

Thomas Hitchcock, West Grant street, today presented to council during their meeting at city hall a bill for $25 to cover the cost of an auto top damaged beyond repair when it caught on a school traffic sign in East Washington street some time ago. Mr. Hitchcock said his son was driving the car at the time and alleged the sign was only four feet high and extended out into the cartway. Safety Director Davies presented a motion that the bill be referred to the city solicitor for a recommendation.

The accident was investigated by Inspector Dysart some time ago.

Discuss Rent Of Fire Stations On Election Day

Councilmen Asked To Decide On Payment For Firemen

"Council is the sole judge of whether they will waste or save money" said City Solicitor Robert White during council session at city hall today during a conversation relative to the request of Safety Director D. O. Davies that council take definite action in regard to paying certain firemen for cleaning up fire houses where votes are cast.

White made the statement after Finance Director Hoyland had asked: "Can we pay for electrict light and give it to someone else." By this, he evidently meant furnish free light. White replied: "I do not know how to answer that question but it is not a question of law."

For years the county commissioners have rented room in five of the city fire houses for voting purposes. They have paid $10.00 for each house each voting day. The firemen clean the houses and the money has been paid to those who do the work.

Recently council considered whether or not the city should have the money turned into the city treasury, instead of being paid direct to the firemen.

On August 27, it was decided that the money paid by the county commissioners should be paid as rent to the city treasurer and it was apparently the intention of council to designate to whom the treasurer should pay the money for cleaning fire houses after elections.

Nothing was done and some of the money is now in the treasurer's office. Today Safety Director Davies said he would like to have colleagues state their opinions. Finance Director Hoyland remarked that the money had been turned over to the city as rent.

He said in his mind there is a question whether the city can give it to the firemen, to which Safety Director Davies remarked that the city should have made a definite decision last August relative to the money.

Solicitor Robert White advised that "you cannot appropriate money to be distributed to someone else. You must pay direct."

"How about the electric energy?" asked Finance Director Hoyland. "We should get something for the room and light. We have never been paid for it."

"It is a question of policy" White informed Hoyland, after which Hoyland asked "How can you pay for light and give it to someone else?"

White told him he could not answer the question but advised that it was not a law question and added: "Council is the sole judge of whether they will waste or save money. No one can stop you from wasting money. The only thing the controller can do is to put an article in the newspaper. If it is illegal the city controller can hold up payment," said White.

He said that "the firemen are employed by you and you can pay them."

"They are on the city's time 24 hours a day" remarked Davies.

"You can increase employes pay but not elective persons" White advised.

White told council "this is not a question of the amount involved but rather a question as to what is the best thing to do."

"They clean the rooms" said Mayor Mayne.

"There previously was no red tape but there will be in the future" warned Davies.

"Every man who took the money made himself liable to prosecution" White stated.

Davies then told of the agreement between the city and county commissioners by which the county was to have the use of the rooms.

"This council is not responsible for the mistakes of past councils" Mayor Mayne stated.

'Student Squads' Help To Develop Ne-Ca-Hi Spirit

Nine Groups Handling School Problems; Results Begin To Show

Early in the spring of this year the faculty and Student Council of Senior high school started work on plans for a student organization to help develop better school spirit. This was planned in order to give more students a part in running the school.

This system is now running with most of the squads performing their duties. There are nine of these squads organized to cover every phase of school life: School grounds, study periods, assemblies, lunch rooms, equipment, information and conduct in the halls before and after school and during classes.

Each squad is highly organized with its officers and faculty advisors. Each has one or more captains with two lieutenants under him. There are also privates under each lieutenant who make up the main body of the squad. Each captain reports to a member of the Student Council who is assigned to cover that particular squad. Each squad is helped by members of the faculty assigned to advise that squad.

In the short length of time that the squads have been functioning they have accomplished splendid results along many lines. They have stopped the crowding of the entrance before school. The monitors and the pre-session squad have improved the discipline in the halls before school and between periods.

All the squads are operating and the conduct and general appearance is already improving.

The Christian and His Bible

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Psalm 119:97—"Oh, how love I thy law! It is my meditation all the day."

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Oct. 14 is Acts 8:26-39, the Golden Text being Psalm 119:97, "Oh, how love I thy law! It is my meditation all the day.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

IF IT IS TRUE that the Bible is "the Book of Books", "the one incomparable book", the book most generally quoted in the great orations and debates of all times, the book which has saturated the best literature with its quotations or allusions, we ought to know our Bibles for purely literary reasons if for no higher. With its quotations in 37 of Shakespeare's plays, with Tennyson's poems quoting the Bible nearly 300 times, Longfellow's 330 times, John Ruskin 5,000 times and others of the makers of our literary classics in similar proportion, how can one be said to be well educated who is ignorant of God's divine library of 66 books?

How Understand The Bible

The Ethiopian to whom Philip was sent in the desert of Gaza was reading from the prophecy of Isaiah when Philip confronted him with the question, "Understandest thou what thou readest?" His reply, "How can I, except someone shall guide me?" is a reply with which most folk will find much sympathy. We often hear that the Bible is difficult if not impossible to understand. The Ethiopian, reading that great foreshadowing of the cross of Calvary found in Isaiah's fifty-third chapter confessed his ignorance as to "whether the prophet was speaking this of himself or of some other". But he understood it clearly when Philip, "beginning from this scripture, preached unto him Jesus". Understanding came when the Holy Spirit who guided Philip to the place in the desert also guided him in the interpretation of the scripture. If the authors of these scriptures "spoke from God, being moved by the Holy Spirit", so that they may say of themselves that they are "inspired of God", it is the first essential of their study that we seek the guidance of the same Spirit who in the beginning inspired them. The spirit of prayer and devotion, of eagerness to hear and willingness to obey the voice of God in his Word will bring understanding of the Bible.

A Pattern For Bible Students

Philip is a pattern for Bible teachers in that "he opened his mouth and beginning from this scripture preached unto him Jesus". Christ is the unifying and clarifying personality of every page of scripture from Genesis to Revelation. The Old Testament is the story of his preparation, the gospels of his manifestation, the Acts of his propagation the epistles of his interpretation and Revelation of his consummation. Cut the scriptures anywhere and they bleed with the blood of the Lamb of God of whom Philip preached to the Ethiopian. Philip knew "the man of sorrows" was not the nation but Christ, so when "Ethiopia stretched out her hands unto God" he presented Christ to those outstretched hands, thus giving us a perpetual pattern for all our teaching and preaching.

Devotion, Diligent, Dutiful

Our Bible study is to be not only devotional as we pray for the Spirit's guidance, but it is to be diligent. God has given no magical charm to the Bible to save us from work in mastering it. We must "study to show ourselves workmen unashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth". We must study it dutifully seeking in it the will of God for our lives and willing to be "doers of the word and not hearers only". Finding God's will and way of salvation we must accept as the Ethiopian did when he confessed Christ in his baptism in the desert and "went on his way rejoicing". So joy is ever the "fruit of the Spirit" given through his Word. "The opening of thy words giveth light."

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. Oct. 11: 34 arrests on charges as follows: Speeding 10, violations of other auto laws 20, keeper of disorderly house 1: visitor to disorderly house 1, and suspicion 2.

It is apparent that the department of police is a money making bureau for the city. Last month receipts totalled more than $1,400 and to date this month the receipts total more than $1,200. Of the latter amount approximately $1,000 has been paid by motorists for motor vehicle law violations.

After council and Union Township supervisors confer today it may be known whether or not the township will agree to pay the city the rate per year asked for permission to connect with the city's sewer system. The supervisors will propose that the RWD build the sewer providing the rate is agreed upon.

During September, Dr. W. L. Steen, health officer, made 30 examinations of drinking water here. Twenty four tests of city water were made and six of them were of samples taken from wells and springs In addition he examined 37 samples of milk offered for sale here.

Each of the cruiser cars now being used in a war on autoists who break the motor laws travel, about 60 miles each day it is said. They are not in operation continuously. They can be seen at different times parked against the curb waiting for some speeder to flit by.

There are 34 firms which sell milk in the city of New Castle. Some sell certified, others raw, and additional firms sell pasteurized milk. Each month they have the city bacteriologist examine the milk sold. Last month two persons were fined $25.00 each for selling milk without a license.

As soon as the RWD begins operations here it is anticipated that street signs and fire hydrants will be painted. Some of the traffic signs are in bad shape and it is expected that additional traffic signs will be placed at proper places.

The parts were taken by Mrs. Nellie Hofmeister, leader; Mrs. Alice Park, Mrs. Elizabeth Nicholls, and Mrs. Martha Hofmeister. The candles were lighted as each one spoke their part. A short playlet was presented by Mrs. Laura Coates, Mrs. Belle Stanley, and Mrs. Elizabeth McGraw. Mrs. Coates represented Mrs. Vanwinkle who helped to organize the Women's Missionary Society of the brotherhood, sixty years ago, then went to sleep. She had awakened and came to call on Mrs. Stanley and daughter, being very much amazed to find out how much progress the organization had made. Another special feature, was the hymn, "Have Thine Own Way," which was sung by Mrs. Coates and daughters, Mrs. Park and Mrs. Jones. At the business meeting in charge of the president, it was decided to observe "A Time of Remembrance" on Sunday evening, October 21, at 5 o'clock in the church, and to have a Hallowe'en social. Committees appointed for the same will meet at the home of Mrs. Joseph Park, Friday evening, October 12.

IT'S Grape Jelly WEEK!

IT'S EASY TO MAKE RIPE GRAPE JAM, TOO, WITH CERTO. AND YOU SAVE TIME AND MONEY AS WELL

Grapes are cheap in price and perfect in flavor . . . So now's the time to get your Certo and stock your cupboard to overflowing!

YOU can't put up too much of this delicious jelly. And right now, with 1934's marvelous grapes at such low prices, is the time to start.

Why not go to your grocer's today—and get your grapes, sugar and Certo? And use the prize-winning Certo recipe given here for making the finest grape jelly you ever tasted!

More than 4,000,000 women—including most State Fair Champions—use Certo in all their jam and jelly making.

These women know that with Certo you can expect to get half again as many glasses from the same amount of fruit . . . that you can make your jam and jelly in one-third the usual time.

And they know, too, that Certo gives you a marvelously delicious flavor—the full, rich flavor of the fresh ripe fruit itself.

When you use Certo, you boil your jams and jellies only a few minutes, instead of the usual half hour or so. The fruit juice does not boil away. And thus you never get that "boiled-down" taste that comes from long, tedious boiling.

Certo—the pure fruit pectin—is sold by all grocers. A product of General Foods.

HOW TO MAKE THE BEST CONCORD GRAPE JELLY

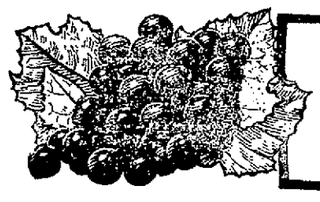

4 cups (2 lbs.) juice
7½ cups (3¾ lbs.) sugar
½ bottle Certo

To prepare juice, stem about 3 pounds fully ripe grapes and crush thoroughly. Add ½ cup water, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice.

Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add Certo, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 11 glasses.

FRUIT BARGAINS—AT YOUR GROCER'S NOW

Certo lets you use fruits at their ripest and best—and when most economical. Attached to every Certo bottle is a booklet of 89 prize-winning recipes for making these matchless jams and jellies.

Uncle Sam Is About Through In Lindy Case

Believes That Ransom Case Has Been Completely Cleared Up.

STATE PROSECUTION WILL PROCEED

By ROBERT THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12— The Lindbergh kidnapping case was cast into the discard by the federal government today.

Uncle Sam is "all washed up" with the most sensational crime of modern times.

The department of justice concluded its investigation of the banking and brokerage accounts of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, under indictment in New Jersey for the murder of the Lindbergh child, and indicted by the New York authorities for extortion on the charge that he received the $50,000 ransom.

An official statement issued by Attorney General Cummings and William Stanley, his assistant, inferred the federal government would permit the trial of the German carpenter on state charges. In fact, the only federal charge against the man would be the hoarding of gold certificates in violation of a presidential order. This order was probably the most important factor in the apprehension of Hauptmann. But the state charges are more serious.

Deposits Large Sums

J. Edgard Hoover, chief of the division of investigation, completed an investigation of Hauptmann's banking and brokerage accounts. It was disclosed that since the payment of the $50,000 ransom in the Lindbergh case April 2, 1932, Hauptmann either individually or in the name of other persons had deposited in banks and brokerage accounts a total of $26,016 in cash.

"The investigation further disclosed that Hauptmann maintained in his name or in the name of his wife, brokerage accounts in two brokerage firms and made deposits in three separate banking institutions,' Stanley said.

With minor exceptions, however, the bank and brokerage firms records were not sufficiently accurate to disclose whether the deposits had been made with the actual ransom money.

The department's investigators accounted for $46,681 "handled" by Hauptmann. Before his arrest $5,095 of the ransom bills had been located. Subsequent to his capture there was discovered a total of $14,600 of the ransom money which had been hidden in the premises occupied by Hauptmann. When arrested he had a $20 ransom note in his possession. In addition approximately $950 of expendiutres on the part of the unemployed carpenter have been accounted for through purchase of a radio, field glasses silverware and the payment of bills.

Judge Smith Upholds Motion For Directed Verdict Of Acquittal

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—Thomas Coyne, brother of State Senator James J. Coyne, was acquitted Thursday on charges of attempting to fix a jury in the Monaca club gambling case when Judge Ralph H. Smith upheld a motion for a directed verdict of not guilty at his trial in criminal court.

At the same time, Ralph Larocco, former Coraopolis ax collector on trial with Coyne, was also awarded a directed verdict. Charles F. E. Fahey, another defendant, however, must continue on trial and allow a jury to decide his fate.

The trial's sudden climax came after District Attorney Andrew T. Park took the stand as a witness for the state, testifying to conversations he had had with Fahey in which Coyne was named as ringleader of the alleged embracery plot.

Two other defendants, Charles L. O'Connell and Edward Costello, turned state's evidence and testified against Coyne.

OPOSSUM QUINTUPLETS NOW IN DETROIT ZOO

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Oct. 12.—An immigrant who rode safely into the United States in the midst of a bunch of bananas has thrown her hat into the ring with that of the mother of the famed Ontario quintuplets.

But to straighten things out a little it should be explained that the immigrant is a Murine opossum, a native of Central America. She was presented to the Detroit Zoo by the foreman of a grocery warehouse who was the recipient of the bananas. Nestled comfortably in the fruit were the rest of the family—five baby opossum.

The mother is about the size and color of a large rat and has a tail 14 inches long by which she hangs from trees, John T. Millen, director of the zoo, said. According to him, it is one of the only two in Germany.

Witness Admits Some Statements Made Not True

Unusual Development In Weirton Steel Company NRA Hearing

(International News Service)

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 12.—Testimony that a government witness signed an affidavit alleging coercion in the election of collective bargaining representatives at the Weirton Steel company without reading it, and the admission that some statements contained in the affidavit were untrue, featured Thursday's session of the government's efforts to show the steel company violated labor provisions of the NRA code.

These admissions were drawn, under cross-examination, from Joseph L. Shalk of Weirton, W. Va., a government witness in federal court.

Shalk had signed an affidavit stating, among other things, that he and others had been taken to the company union polls on December 15, 1933, and forced to vote while mill police, riot clubs in hand, stood behind him.

Never Took Oath.

Under cross-examination, however, he admitted he had signed the affidavit but had not sworn to it.

"I signed it at the lodge rooms of the Amalgamated (outside) union," Shalk said. "I thought it was a petition about intimidation and coercion. I never took an oath.

"I never read the statement."

He admitted also that the statements concerning the presence of mill police with riot clubs at the voting places were inaccurate.

HIS WIFE ACTS AS MAYOR WHEN HE FLIES AWAY ON TRIP

(International News Service)

PUT-IN-BAY, O., Oct. 12.—"Take care of things while I'm away."

With these words, Mayor Thomas B. Alexander stepped into his plane to fly to the mainland at Port Clinton to become a member of a Chicago World Fair-bound motoring party.

Alexander, a matinee idol some forty years ago, has been mayor of the village of Put-In-Bay on this South Bass Island, 10 miles out in Lake Erie, for 30 years.

No candidate ever comes up against him and, according to the island's inhabitants, probably no other will as long as he lives.

Mrs. Alexander is the granddaughter of "Old John" Brown, of Harpers' Ferry fame.

Discuss Rent Of Fire Stations On Election Day

Councilmen Asked To Decide On Payment For Firemen

"Council is the sole judge of whether they will waste or save money" said City Solicitor Robert White during council session at city hall today during a conversation relative to the request of Safety Director D. O. Davies that council take definite action in regard to paying certain firemen for cleaning up fire houses where votes are cast.

White made the statement after Finance Director Hoyland had asked: "Can we pay for electric light and give it to someone else." By this, he evidently meant furnish free light. White replied: "I do not know how to answer that question but it is not a question of law."

For years the county commissioners have rented room in five of the city fire houses for voting purposes. They have paid $10.00 for each house each voting day. The firemen clean the houses and the money has been paid to those who do the work.

Recently council considered whether or not the city should have the money turned into the city treasury, instead of being paid direct to the firemen.

On August 27, it was decided that the money paid by the county commissioners should be paid as rent to the city treasurer and it was apparently the intention of council to designate to whom the treasurer should pay the money for cleaning fire houses after elections.

Nothing was done and some of the money is now in the treasurer's office. Today Safety Director Davies said he would like to have colleagues state their opinions. Finance Director Hoyland remarked that the money had been turned over to the city as rent.

He said in his mind there is a question whether the city can give it to the firemen, to which Safety Director Davies remarked that the city should have made a definite decision last August relative to the money.

Solicitor Robert White advised that "you cannot appropriate money to be distributed to someone else. You must pay direct."

"How about the electric energy?" asked Finance Director Hoyland. "We should get something for the room and light. We have never been paid for it."

"It is a question of policy" White informed Hoyland, after which Hoyland asked "How can you pay for light and give it to someone else?"

White told him he could not answer the question but advised that it was not a law question and added:

"Council is the sole judge of whether they will waste or save money. No one can stop you from wasting money. The only thing the controller can do is to put an article in the newspaper. If it is illegal the city controller can hold up payment," said White.

He said that "the firemen are employed by you and you can pay them."

"They are on the city's time 24 hours a day" remarked Davies.

"You can increase employes pay but not elective persons" White advised.

White told council "this is not a question of the amount involved but rather a question as to what is the best thing to do."

"They clean the rooms" said Mayor Mayne.

"There previously was no red tape but there will be in the future" warned Davies.

"Every man who took the money made himself liable to prosecution" White stated.

Davies then told of the agreement between the city and county commissioners by which the county was to have the use of the rooms.

"This council is not responsible for the mistakes of past councils" Mayor Mayne stated.

Overflow Crowd At Calvary Church

The Rev. W. D. Herrstrom Preaches On "The Bad Blunders Of Bible Critics"

A record overflow crowd was present Thursday evening at the young people's Bible conference in the Calvary Presbyterian church, East New Castle, to hear the Rev. W. D. Herrstrom expose "The Bad Blunders of Bible Critics".

His sermon was really a masterpiece as he emphasized the scientific accuracy of the Bible.

The night was observed as Baptist Night with representatives present from Emmanuel, Hungarian and First churches of the city and Unity church of Harlansburg. The amplifying system, arranged through the church, made it possible for every attendant to hear the service plainly.

The Rev. C. H. Heaton of the First Baptist church offered the evening prayer, while the musical feature was two numbers by a young ladies' chorus of 37 voices from the Shenango high school, under the direction of Miss Hertzler. George Fox led the pep singing with Mrs. James Chapman at the piano.

A Collins Bible was presented Forrest Foster of Butler for coming the longest distance tp the conference.

A fellowship hour was observed by the young people prior to the evening service.

This evening delegations of Congregationalists and Lutherans will attend the service and the Rev. J. R. Loughner will resume his Bible teachings at 6:30 with evangelistic sermon on "The Hair Cuts in Delilah's Tonsorial Parlor" at 7:30.

Seeks Divorce Cause

Lucy Stout

That changes in economic conditions since 1929 have reduced almost to a minimum one of the principal causes for divorce is the conclusion of Lucy Stout, of New York, writer and lecturer on women's problems. Miss Stout has made exhaustive research to discover answers to what are the principal causes of divorce. "Shortage of cash," according to Miss Stout, "strange as it may seem, has tended to lessen divorces based on money squabbles between husband and wife. Money shortage has brought many married couples closer together."

Profit Should Be Shown If Remainder Of Season Proves Favorable

GAME RECEIPTS HAVE BEEN GOOD

With all bills paid or reservations made for the same up to October 1, a cash balance is shown in the Senior High school Athletics Fund, and by the end of the season, barring unforeseen difficulties, the Athletic Council should have a nice balance on hand. Total cash resources of the council on October 1 were $2,639.17 and total liabilities were $2,183.88 giving a net balance of $455.29. Receipts from games played during October should build up a nice cash balance.

Receipts from the three games during September totaled $4,547.62 and expenses for the same, plus guarantees were $1,092.98.

Overflow Crowd At Calvary Church

The Rev. W. D. Herrstrom Preaches On "The Bad Blunders Of Bible Critics"

A record overflow crowd was present Thursday evening at the young people's Bible conference in the Calvary Presbyterian church, East New Castle, to hear the Rev. W. D. Herrstrom expose "The Bad Blunders of Bible Critics".

His sermon was really a masterpiece as he emphasized the scientific accuracy of the Bible.

The night was observed as Baptist Night with representatives present from Emmanuel, Hungarian and First churches of the city and Unity church of Harlansburg. The amplifying system, arranged through the church, made it possible for every attendant to hear the service plainly.

The Rev. C. H. Heaton of the First Baptist church offered the evening prayer, while the musical feature was two numbers by a young ladies' chorus of 37 voices from the Shenango high school, under the direction of Miss Hertzler. George Fox led the pep singing with Mrs. James Chapman at the piano.

A Collins Bible was presented Forrest Foster of Butler for coming the longest distance to the conference.

A fellowship hour was observed by the young people prior to the evening service.

This evening delegations of Congregationalists and Lutherans will attend the service and the Rev. J. R. Loughner will resume his Bible teachings at 6:30 with evangelistic sermon on "The Hair Cuts in Delilah's Tonsorial Parlor" at 7:30.

Seeks Divorce Cause

Lucy Stout

That changes in economic conditions since 1929 have reduced almost to a minimum one of the principal causes for divorce is the conclusion of Lucy Stout, of New York, writer and lecturer on women's problems. Miss Stout has made exhaustive research to discover answers to what are the principal causes of divorce. "Shortage of cash," according to Miss Stout, "strange as it may seem, has tended to lessen divorces based on money squabbles between husband and wife. Money shortage has brought many married couples closer together."

Record Yield Of Potatoes Is Seen

Mercer County Farmers To Harvest Biggest Potato Crop Of Years

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Oct. 12.—Mercer County, it is believed will have the greatest potato yield in its history. With the harvest of the tubers, well under way, some bumper crops have been reported. John McDowell has the largest so far, with 480 bushels to the measured acre, which is 16 bushels less than his previous record.

County Farm Agent C. H. Waha measured an acre on the farm of Frank Templeton in Pymatuning Township, when a yield of 445 bushels was recorded. It is believed that there will be a number of others in the county who will qualify for the "400 Club," which is a coveted membership among potato growers of the state.

Uncle Sam Is About Through In Lindy Case

Believes That Ransom Case Has Been Completely Cleared Up

STATE PROSECUTION WILL PROCEED

By ROBERT THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12— The Lindbergh kidnapping case was cast into the discard by the federal government today.

Uncle Sam is "all washed up" with the most sensational crime of modern times.

The department of justice concluded its investigation of the banking and brokerage accounts of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, under indictment in New Jersey for the murder of the Lindbergh child, and indicted by the New York authorities for extortion on the charge that he received the $50,000 ransom.

An official statement issued by Attorney General Cummings and William Stanley, his assistant, inferred the federal government would permit the trial of the German carpenter on state charges. In fact, the only federal charge against the man would be the hoarding of gold certificates in violation of a presidential order. This order was probably the most important factor in the apprehension of Hauptmann. But the state charges are more serious.

Deposits Large Sums

J. Edgard Hoover, chief of the division of investigation, completed an investigation of Hauptmann's banking and brokerage accounts. It was disclosed that since the payment of the $50,000 ransom in the Lindbergh case April 2, 1932, Hauptmann either individually or in the name of other persons had deposited in banks and brokerage accounts a total of $36,016 in cash.

"The investigation further disclosed that Hauptmann maintained in his name or in the name of his wife, brokerage accounts in two brokerage firms and made deposits in three separate banking institutions,' Stanley said.

With minor exceptions, however, the bank and brokerage firms records were not sufficiently accurate to disclose whether the deposits had been made with the actual ransom money.

The department's investigators accounted for $46,681 "handled" by Hauptmann. Before his arrest $5,095 of the ransom bills had been located. Subsequent to his capture there was discovered a total of $14,600 of the ransom money which had been hidden in the premises occupied by Hauptmann. When arrested he had a $20 ransom note in his possession. In addition approximately $950 of expenditures on the part of the unemployed carpenter have been accounted for through purchase of a radio, field glasses silverware and the payment of bills.

Thomas Coyne Is Given Freedom

Judge Smith Upholds Motion For Directed Verdict Of Acquittal

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—Thomas Coyne, brother of State Senator James J. Coyne, was acquitted Thursday on charges of attempting to fix a jury in the Monaca club gambling case when Judge Ralph H. Smith upheld a motion for a directed verdict of not guilty at his trial in criminal court.

At the same time, Ralph Larocco, former Coraopolis ax collector on trial with Coyne, was also awarded a directed verdict. Charles F. E. Fahey, another defendant, however, must continue on trial and allow a jury to decide his fate.

The trial's sudden climax came after District Attorney Andrew T. Park took the stand as a witness for the state, testifying to conversations he had had with Fahey in which Coyne was named as ringleader of the alleged embracery plot.

Two other defendants, Charles L. O'Connell and Edward Costello, turned state's evidence and testified against Coyne.

OPOSSUM QUINTUPLETS NOW IN DETROIT ZOO

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Oct. 12.—An immigrant who rode safely into the United States in the midst of a bunch of bananas has thrown her hat into the ring with that of the mother of the famed Ontario quintuplets.

But to straighten things out a little it should be explained that the immigrant is a Murine opossum, a native of Central America. She was presented to the Detroit Zoo by the foreman of a grocery warehouse who was the recipient of the bananas. Nestled comfortably in the fruit were the rest of the family—five baby opossum.

The mother is about the size and color of a large rat and has a tail 14 inches long by which she hangs from trees, John T. Millen, director of the zoo, said. According to him, it is one of the only two in Germany.

Witness Admits Some Statements Made Not True

Unusual Development In Weirton Steel Company NRA Hearing

(International News Service)

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 12.—Testimony that a government witness signed an affidavit alleging coercion in the election of collective bargaining representatives at the Weirton Steel company without reading it, and the admission that some statements contained in the affidavit were untrue, featured Thursday's session of the government's efforts to show the steel company violated labor provisions of the NRA code.

These admissions were drawn, under cross-examination, from Joseph L. Shalk of Weirton, W. Va., a government witness in federal court.

Shalk had signed an affidavit stating, among other things, that he and others had been taken to the company union polls on December 15, 1933, and forced to vote while mill police, riot clubs in hand, stood behind him.

Never Took Oath.

Under cross-examination, however, he admitted he had signed the affidavit but had not sworn to it.

"I signed it at the lodge rooms of the Amalgamated (outside) union," Shalk said. "I thought it was a petition about intimidation and coercion. I never took an oath.

"I never read the statement."

He admitted also that the statements concerning the presence of mill police with riot clubs at the voting places were inaccurate.

HIS WIFE ACTS AS MAYOR WHEN HE FLIES AWAY ON TRIP

(International News Service)

PUT-IN-BAY, O., Oct. 12.—"Take care of things while I'm away."

With these words, Mayor Thomas B. Alexander stepped into his plane to fly to the mainland at Port Clinton to become a member of a Chicago World Fair-bound motoring party.

Alexander, a matinee idol some forty years ago, has been mayor of the village of Put-In-Bay on this South Bass Island, 30 miles out in Lake Erie, for 30 years.

No candidate ever comes up against him and, according to the island's inhabitants, probably no other will as long as he lives.

Mrs. Alexander is the granddaughter of "Old John" Brown, of Harpers' Ferry fame.

Accident List Among Hunters Shows Decrease

Fewer Last Year Than Ever Before According To Game Commission Survey

COLLECTIONS WERE HEAVY LAST YEAR

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12.—Considering the number of hunters afield there were less accidents during 1933 than at any time since the enactment of the hunters' license law in 1913, according to a preliminary resume of the biennial report of the board of game commissioners.

Revenue credited to the game fund reached the second highest mark in the history of the board during the last two fiscal years when $2,317,305 was collected as against the record of $2,667,813 for the previous period.

During this period, the aggregate area of the state game land was swelled to 426,575 acres with the acquisition of 106,433 acres. Twenty-three additional primary game refuges, totaling 8,410 acres, and four auxiliary refuges, aggregating 845 acres, were established.

For restocking purposes, 117,384 cottontail rabbits, 2,003 varying hares, 6,102 ringnecked pheasants, 418 Reeves pheasants, 60 wild Turkeys, 1,204 Hungarian partridges, 510 Fox squirrels, 607 raccoons and 227 ruffed and sharp-skinned grouse, were purchased and released.

The commission shipped 115,805 pheasant eggs to farmers and sportsmen throughout the state, who incubated the eggs and liberated the birds raised on non-posted lands near their homes.

More animals were left at large to breed during the biennium because trapping slowed up considerably during the previous two years due to the low value of fur at that time. Bounty payments were paid for 392 wildcats, 18,729 gray foxes, 167,234 weasels, and 132 goshawks. The total amount paid was $248,690 for 76,069 claims.

Twenty-eight cases of attempted bounty fraud were prosecuted and $2,800 in fines collected. In addition, 38 attempts to defraud were frustrated.

An open seeason was declared on beaver from March 1, to April 10, this year. During this period, 6,455 beaver were legally taken by resident trappers and sold at an average price of $9 each.

Trappers collected a total of $525,857 in the capture and sale of 427,126 muskrats, 384,302 skunks, 175,964 opossums, 78,656 weasels, 27,424 raccoons, 13,630 mink, 9,392 gray foxes, 5,272 red foxes and 211 wildcats.

Jekyll And Hyde Personality Made Judge A Burglar

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST—A strange case of double personality reminiscent of Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde was brought before the Braila police court which had the unpleasant task of sending one of its own judges who was accused of burglary to a mental hospital.

During the day George Grigorescu was a capable and promising young magistrate. At night, however, he turned burglar whose pluck and catlike agility astounded the police and rendered his capture difficult.

After a sensational pursuit on house roofs, Georgescu slipped and was caught. Owing to his abnormal behavior he was examined by a commission of brain specialist, who were of opinion that the judge is not responsible for his actions due to the fact that he suffers from double personality mania.

He did not sell the stolen objects but hoarded them in the basement of his house, which had the aspect of a pawnshop.

New Auto Drivers Get 20,000 Permits Monthly

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12.—New motor vehicle operators are being licensed at the rate of about 20,000 a month in Pennsylvania.

These newcomers are the survivors of the larger group which each month take drivers' examinations in efforts to qualify for licenses. Some are persons who have not previously held Pennsylvania licenses; others are former drivers who allowed their permits to lapse for several years.

Records of the Highway Patrol show that three driving examinations are given for every two licenses issued. During August, a typical month, patrolmen conducted tests of 33,735 applicants, passing 22,198 and rejecting 11,537.

The totals of both the examinations conducted and licenses issued this year are considerably ahead of 1933 figures. In eight months, ending August 31, patrolmen conducted 164,875 examinations as compared with 119,091 for the same period last year. In six months, ending September 30—the first half of the 1934-35 operator's license year—the bureau of motor vehicles issued 122,735 licenses to qualified learners as compared with 90,347 in the same period last year.

While the total of newly licensed operators this year exceeds the corresponding totals of the previous two years, the 122,735 aggregate at the end of last month was less than the three years, 1929 to 1931, inclusive. The record for the period was established in 1929 when 169,865 operators were licensed in six months taking driving tests.

Despite the fact that 20,000 are able to qualify for licenses monthly, new drivers constitute only a small percentage of all operators licensed in Pennsylvania. For every person who holds a license issued this year on the basis of a learner's permit, there are 15 who renewed licenses they held last yeear and in previous years. Of the 2,117,886 persons now holding Pennsylvania licenses, 1,995,151 renewed previous licenses and 122,735 qualified after operator's examinations.

Death Ends Trek Of 'Alaska' Joe, Old Prospector

(International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash.—"Alaska" Joe Brooks will pack Alaskan trails no more.

His chapter in the legend of the North bears "finis" scrawled across it. "Alaska" died in the manner he lived, trekking a northern trail, a trail he had followed from Skagway to the gold creeks in '98. "Alaska" wanted to write a book about it but his book was ended before he ever started.

It was during the "Gold Rush" days that Brooks owned one of the largest pack trains on Alaskan trails. He was legend to the old prospectors and settlers. In eighteen days he made his first trip over the White Pass to Lake Bennett with a pack train of 350 horses.

That was back in '98. Early this year, "Alaska" returned to Skagway to pack over the old trail once more. He was going to chronicle his old experience in a book, the book that was never to be written.

With a few old friends of his youth, "Alaska" started his trek over the pass. He reached old White Pass city where he had once built his cabin.

He stopped there for the night, rolling up in his blankets before the fire. Sometime during the night he passed away quietly.

On the pot where he died, officials of a railroad are erecting a white cross.

Vienna Museum Will Exhibit Cannibal Art

(International News Service)

VIENNA—A unique exhibition devoted to the culture of the cannibals of New Guinea is now being prepared by the Vienna Museum of Natural History.

The largest part of this interesting exhibition was furnished by the young Austrian explorer, Joseph Schueller, who at the age of 22, emigrated to Australia. Schueller found employment with a shipping company plying along the coast of New Guinea.

In the course of an activity covering seven years, he had an opportunity to study the culture of the Papuas, the original inhabitants of New Guinea, who are largely still on the cultural level of the stone age, and are known to practice cannibalism.

Schueller has gathered a very valuable collection of arms, ornaments and utensils of the Papuas, and made many interesting photographs of hitherto unexplored regions. This collection is said to be in many respects superior to the famous collection of Cook, which is now scattered over a large number of museums all over the world.

School Athletes Down Bandits

(International News Service)

CLINTON, Ia.—It was lucky for S. H. Scott, insurance man, that a group of high school athletes was nearby when bandits attempted to rob him.

When the men accosted him, Scott resisted, and yelled. Quick was the response. The fastest man on the Clinton track squad, and a stellar football back ran down and captured one of the bandits. Another athlete, a wrestler, grappled with the other bandit, but was forced to release him when the robber threatened with a gun.

But Scott was unharmed and lost no money.

Accident List Among Hunters Shows Decrease

Fewer Last Year Than Ever Before According To Game Commission Survey

COLLECTIONS WERE HEAVY LAST YEAR

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12.—Considering the number of hunters afield there were less accidents during 1933 than at any time since the enactment of the hunters' license law in 1913, according to a preliminary resume of the biennial report of the board of game commissioners.

Revenue credited to the game fund reached the second highest mark in the history of the board during the last two fiscal years when $2,317,305 was collected as against the record of $2,667,813 for the previous period.

During this period, the aggregate area of the state game land was swelled to 426,575 acres with the acquisition of 106,433 acres. Twenty-three additional primary game refuges, totaling 8,410 acres, and four auxiliary refuges, aggregating 845 acres, were established.

For restocking purposes, 117,884 cottontail rabbits, 2,003 varying hares, 6,102 ringnecked pheasants, 418 Reeves pheasants, 60 wild Turkeys, 1,204 Hungarian partridges, 510 Fox squirrels, 607 raccoons and 227 ruffed and sharp-skinned grouse, were purchased and released.

The commission shipped 115,805 pheasant eggs to farmers and sportsmen throughout the state, who incubated the eggs and liberated the birds raised on non-posted lands near their homes.

More animals were left at large to breed during the biennium because trapping slowed up considerably during the previous two years due to the low value of fur at that time. Bounty payments were paid for 392 wildcats, 18,729 gray foxes, 167,234 weasels, and 132 goshawks. The total amount paid was $248,690 for 76,069 claims.

Twenty-eight cases of attempted bounty fraud were prosecuted and $2,800 in fines collected. In addition, 38 attempts to defraud were frustrated.

An open seeason was declared on beaver from March 1, to April 10, this year. During this period, 6,455 beaver were legally taken by resident trappers and sold at an average price of $9 each.

Trappers collected a total of $525,867 in the capture and sale of 427,126 muskrats, 384,302 skunks, 175,964 opossums, 78,656 weasels, 27,424 raccoons, 13,620 mink, 9,392 gray foxes, 5,272 red foxes and 211 wildcats.

Jekyll And Hyde Personality Made Judge A Burglar

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST—A strange case of double personality reminiscent of Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde was brought before the Braila police court which had the unpleasant task of sending one of its own judges who was accused of burglary to a mental hospital.

During the day George Grigorescu was a capable and promising young magistrate. At night, however, he turned burglar whose pluck and catlike agility astounded the police and rendered his capture difficult.

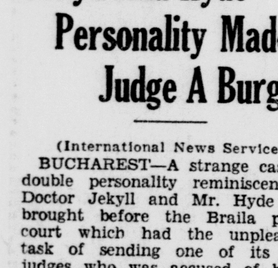

After a sensational pursuit on house roofs, Georgescu slipped and was caught. Owing to his abnormal behavior he was examined by a commission of brain specialist, who were of opinion that the judge is not responsible for his actions due to the fact that he suffers from double personality mania.

He did not sell the stolen objects but hoarded them in the basement of his house, which had the aspect of a pawnshop.

Overflow Crowd At Calvary Church

The Rev. W. D. Herrstrom Preaches On "The Bad Blunders Of Bible Critics"

A record overflow crowd was present Thursday evening at the young people's Bible conference in the Calvary Presbyterian church, East New Castle, to hear the Rev. W. D. Herrstrom expose "The Bad Blunders of Bible Critics".

His sermon was really a masterpiece as he emphasized the scientific accuracy of the Bible.

The night was observed as Baptist Night with representatives present from Emmanuel, Hungarian and First churches of the city and Unity church of Harlansburg. The amplifying system, arranged through the church, made it possible for every attendant to hear the service plainly.

The Rev. C. H. Heaton of the First Baptist church offered the evening prayer, while the musical feature was two numbers by a young ladies' chorus of 37 voices from the Shenango high school, under the direction of Miss Hertzler. George Fox led the pep singing with Mrs. James Chapman at the piano.

A Collins Bible was presented Forrest Foster of Butler for coming the longest distance to the conference.

A fellowship hour was observed by the young people prior to the evening service.

This evening delegations of Congregationalists and Lutherans will attend the service and the Rev. J. R. Loughner will resume his Bible teachings at 6:30 with evangelistic sermon on "The Hair Cuts in Delilah's Tonsorial Parlor" at 7:30.

Seeks Divorce Cause

Lucy Stout

That changes in economic conditions since 1929 have reduced almost to a minimum one of the principal causes for divorce is the conclusion of Lucy Stout, of New York, writer and lecturer on women's problems. Miss Stout has made exhaustive research to discover answers to what are the principal causes of divorce. "Shortage of cash," according to Miss Stout, "strange as it may seem, has tended to lessen divorces based on money squabbles between husband and wife. Money shortage has brought many married couples closer together."

Record Yield Of Potatoes Is Seen

Mercer County Farmers To Harvest Biggest Potato Crop Of Years

(Special To The News)

Six Camden, N. J., Police Indicted For Accepting Of Bribes On Duty

VICE CLEAN-UP IS GOING AHEAD

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 12—Charged with accepting bribes, six Camden policemen today faced the true bills of indictment, containing 62 counts, returned by the special Camden county grand jury investigating vice and corruption.

The indictments came as a direct aftermath of the murder of Detective William Feltz, shot to death by three gunmen in a disorderly house here on Labor Day. The murder was closely followed by the suicide of Mrs. Emma Heisler, proprietress of the house, who hurled herself to death from a room in Camden city hall while being grilled by detectives.

Investigation Ordered

The murder and suicide prompted Supreme Court Justice Frank T. Lloyd to instruct the grand jurors to sift all evidence to establish the extent, and the causes of vice in this city.

The indictments were returned by the jurors following the purported testimony of witnesses that they had paid "protection" to the policemen.

Doctors Save Crushed Arm By New Grafting Operation

(International News Service)

CAMPBELL, Cal., Oct. 2.—Medical science has today built a new and living arm for Robert Helstrom, superintendent of the Pacific Coast rock crushing plant here, who last March had his arm torn away in an accident at the plant.

While attempting to remove a rock from a roller, Helstrom's arm was pinned under a belt revolving at a high rate of speed. His screams were drowned by the roar of machinery and he was held, helpless, while the heavy leather wore away the flesh of his arm until it laid bare the bone. Only the arrival of closing hour saved the man's life.

He was rushed to a San Francisco hospital and a remarkable experiment in plastic surgery was undertaken to save his arm. Tendons were patched up and tied together and bloodvessels closed temporarily so that they would permit the flow of blood later. Then incisions were made in the man's abdomen, three inches apart and 16 inches long. The strip of flesh, remaining fastened at both ends to his body, was rolled into a rope. Later it was cut at one end and, still attached to the abdomen at the other, grafted onto the bone of the arm.

When the skin had grown firmly to the arm so that the blood was circulating to that member, the rope was cut loose from the abdomen and the manufacture of the arm nearly complete.

The nerves are the only thing that are causing anxiety, Helstrom says, but it is thought that they will build up and the brand new arm will be as useful as the old.

The attending doctors were Dr. R. E. Graun, Los Gatos, and Drs. G. W. Pierce and G. B. O'Connor, San Francisco.

TRAFFIC INCREASE IN PANAMA CANAL

WASHINGTON—Steamship traffic through the Panama Canal has increased steadily during the year, it was announced by the war department.

Tolls collected during the month of August totaled $1,906,821.39, as compared with $1,829,754.49 in August 1933.

Doctors Save Crushed Arm By New Grafting Operation

(International News Service)

CAMPBELL, Cal., Oct. 2.—Medical science has today built a new and living arm for Robert Helstrom, superintendent of the Pacific Coast rock crushing plant here, who last March had his arm torn away in an accident at the plant.

While attempting to remove a rock from a roller, Helstrom's arm was pinned under a belt revolving at a high rate of speed. His screams were drowned by the roar of machinery and he was held, helpless, while the heavy leather wore away the flesh of his arm until it laid bare the bone. Only the arrival of closing hour saved the man's life.

He was rushed to a San Francisco hospital and a remarkable experiment in plastic surgery was undertaken to save his arm. Tendons were patched up and tied together and bloodvessels closed temporarily so that they would permit the flow of blood later. Then incisions were made in the man's abdomen, three inches apart and 16 inches long. The strip of flesh, remaining fastened at both ends to his body, was rolled into a rope. Later it was cut at one end and, still attached to the abdomen at the other, grafted onto the bone of the arm.

When the skin had grown firmly to the arm so that the blood was circulating to that member, the rope was cut loose from the abdomen and the manufacture of the arm nearly complete.

The nerves are the only thing that are causing anxiety, Helstrom says, but it is thought that they will build up and the brand new arm will be as useful as the old.

The attending doctors were Dr. R. E. Graun, Los Gatos, and Drs. G. W. Pierce and G. B. O'Connor, San Francisco.

TRAFFIC INCREASE IN PANAMA CANAL

WASHINGTON—Steamship traffic through the Panama Canal has increased steadily during the year, it was announced by the war department.

The governor of the Canal Zone reported that tolls collected during the six months period from March last to August totaled $11,992,285.51, as compared with $10,082,432.90 for the corresponding period of the previous year.

Tolls collected during the month of August totaled $1,906,821.39, as compared with $1,829,754.49 in August 1933.

The more concerned one is about meriting reward the less concerned he will need be about receiving reward.

Labor Delegates To End Sessions

Tilt Develops Over Matter Of Enlarging Executive Committee

By RALPH B. JORDAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—Delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention today buckled on their armor and took up their spears for the last big battle of their 1934 conclave—the tilt over the question of enlarging the federation's executive council, the governing body.

The forces in favor of a larger executive council are led by John L. Lewis, president of the miners, who contends that victory would mean more unions represented, and a more representative and dependable governing body.

To Close Tonight

The convention is slated to close at a special session tonight.

The delegates already had disposed of two of their most troublesome problems—Industrial vs. Craft Unions, and Communism vs. Americanism.

Industrial unionism emerged with flying banners, but Communism was soundly repudiated.

Hailed as one of the most important labor decisions in years, the federation voted for the encouragement of industrial unions—organizing workers by industries instead of crafts—after a hectic two-hour conflict on the convention floor.

It was emphasized that industrial organization is to apply only to "the great mass of unorganized workers," and is not to interfere with the present crafts.

Wide Highways Spell Doom Of Hitch-Hikers In Texas

(International News Service)

DALLAS, Texas—Wide, inviting highways that induce the motorist to step on the accelerator; a decreasing feeling for pedestrians by the hardy driver, or intermittent waves of automobile hijacking—one of these factors is making the thumb a rare commodity on arteries leading out of Dallas.

This came to light here from a curious chat with a representative group of hitch-hikers, who couldn't make the hitch out of the city.

Formerly they came flocking to Dallas in droves, in legions, and would take up their stands along the ribbony pavement leading north, east, south, and west. In a few hours they would be gone, befriended by lonely and chatty motorists.

But it's a different story now.

"Your lucky," said one thumbster, "to get out of this place at all. I came from Arizona yesterday, 900 miles, and I'll be lucky to get 15 miles from here today."

The better a city is for hitch-hiking, the less they see of it, he confided. He clarified his remark by explaining that the ride-moocher's chief idea is to hurry through a city enroute to another city, also in a hurry, and so on to his destination.

A good day for a hitch-hiker is 500 miles, another said. He added that he could usually attain this mark until he arrived in Dallas. "And then I'm stuck," he said.

At least two experienced ridegetters grew tired of waiting in Dallas for a hitch and bought interurban tickets to another city, where they said the autoist had "more heart."

Plan For Study Of Coal Fields

Thorough Study Will Be Made In Anthracite Field In Western Pennsylvania

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 12.—A thorough study of the anthracite industry from the standpoints of operators, workers and communities suffering from the effects of a lowered output and a surplus of labor, was recommended today by Umpire James A. Gorman of the anthracite board of conciliation, acting as an agency of the national labor board.

Gorman's findings, regarded as a highlights of the investigation he conducted of more than a thousand grievances in the upper anthracite region, were forwarded to mine owners and the two rival mine unions, the United Mine Workers of America and the United Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania.

Scale Model Of Ocean Bottom Will Be Used For Wave Tests

(International News Service)

LAJOLLA, Cal.—In an effort to determine the cause of destructive waves that swept beach resorts from Laguna northward, a tiny scale model of California's coast line and the ocean bottom between Catalina Island and mainland, will be reproduced at the Scripps Institute of Oceanography here, Dr. G. F. McEwan, an officer of the institution here announced.

Dr. McEwan declared the real seat of the disturbance may be as far as 1,000 miles away.

The scale model of the coast line and ocean bottom would be made from information supplied by Federal officials, Dr. McEwan said, and might show what change in equilibrium caused the high waves.

Most likely the recent waves at Newport and other coastal points resulted from the gravitational action of the sun and moon, Dr. McEwan pointed out.

"After any disturbance of equilibrium in the sea," Dr. McEwan said, "the surging bodies of water tend to swing back past the position of origin, and thus vibrate. Except for the usual changes of level due to the gravitation action of the sun and moon, called tides, there are three other causes of waves—wind, changes of barometric pressure, and sudden movements of the sea bottom (seismic waves.)"

In making an analysis of the ocean conditions during the periods of destruction the institute will co-operate with the United States coast and geodetic survey.

RWD Controversy Is Still Raging At New Brighton

Enforced Idleness Descends Upon RWD Workers In New Brighton, Pa.

(International News Service)

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Oct. 12.—Enforced idleness descended on relief work division projects here today as the New Brighton council and Robert W. Smith, Beaver county deputy county relief administrator, remained deadlocked in a dispute over selection of employes.

Council contended that since the borough was providing materials and truck hire they should have the right to approve the list of relief workmen.

Smith replied that he had no list, adding that he was advised by Harrisburg the council had no voice in employment of workers. Three projects, meanwhile, have been halted by the controversy.

Accident List Among Hunters Shows Decrease

Fewer Last Year Than Ever Before According To Game Commission Survey

COLLECTIONS WERE HEAVY LAST YEAR

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12.—Considering the number of hunters afield there were less accidents during 1933 than at any time since the enactment of the hunters' license law in 1913, according to a preliminary resume of the biennial report of the board of game commissioners.

Revenue credited to the game fund reached the second highest mark in the history of the board during the last two fiscal years when $2,317,305 was collected as against the record of $2,667,813 for the previous period.

During this period, the aggregate area of the state game land was swelled to 426,575 acres with the acquisition of 106,433 acres. Twenty-three additional primary game refuges, totaling 8,410 acres, and four auxiliary refuges, aggregating 845 acres, were established.

For restocking purposes, 117,884 cottontail rabbits, 2,003 varying hares, 6,102 ringnecked pheasants, 418 Reeves pheasants, 60 wild Turkeys, 1,204 Hungarian partridges, 510 Fox squirrels, 607 raccoons and 227 ruffed and sharp-skinned grouse, were purchased and released.

The commission shipped 115,805 pheasant eggs to farmers and sportsmen throughout the state, who incubated the eggs and liberated the birds raised on non-posted lands near their homes.

More animals were left at large to breed during the biennium because trapping slowed up considerably during the previous two years due to the low value of fur at that time. Bounty payments were paid for 392 wildcats, 18,729 gray foxes, 167,234 weasels, and 132 goshawks. The total amount paid was $248,690 for 76,069 claims.

Twenty-eight cases of attempted bounty fraud were prosecuted and $2,800 in fines collected. In addition, 38 attempts to defraud were frustrated.

An open season was declared on beaver from March 1, to April 10, this year. During this period, 6,455 beaver were legally taken by resident trappers and sold at an average price of $9 each.

Trappers collected a total of $525,867 in the capture and sale of 427,126 muskrats, 384,302 skunks, 175,964 opossums, 78,656 weasels, 27,424 raccoons, 13,620 mink, 9,392 gray foxes, 5,272 red foxes and 211 wildcats.

Jekyll And Hyde Personality Made Judge A Burglar

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST—A strange case of double personality reminiscent of Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde was brought before the Braila police court which had the unpleasant task of sending one of its own judges who was accused of burglary to a mental hospital.

During the day George Grigorescu was a capable and promising young magistrate. At night, however, he turned burglar whose pluck and catlike agility astounded the police and rendered his capture difficult.

After a sensational pursuit on house roofs, Georgescu slipped and was caught. Owing to his abnormal behavior he was examined by a commission of brain specialist, who were of opinion that the judge is not responsible for his actions due to the fact that he suffers from double personality mania.

He did not sell the stolen objects but hoarded them in the basement of his house, which had the aspect of a pawnshop.

PAID IN PENNIES

(International News Service)

MONONGAHELA, Oct. 12—Hailed before Burgess Edward V. Baker for speeding through the school zones in New Eagle, Wm. P. Martin, of Clairton, paid a fine and costs of $12.25—in pennies.

New Auto Drivers Get 20,000 Permits Monthly

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12.—New motor vehicle operators are being licensed at the rate of about 20,000 a month in Pennsylvania.

These newcomers are the survivors of the larger group which each month take drivers' examinations in efforts to qualify for licenses. Some are persons who have not previously held Pennsylvania licenses; others are former drivers who allowed their permits to lapse for several years.

Records of the Highway Patrol show that three driving examinations are given for every two licenses issued. During August, a typical month, patrolmen conducted tests of 33,735 applicants, passing 22,198 and rejecting 11,537.

The totals of both the examinations conducted and licenses issued this year are considerably ahead of 1933 figures. In eight months, ending August 31, patrolmen conducted 164,875 examinations as compared with 119,091 for the same period last year. In six months, ending September 30—the first half of the 1934-35 operator's license year—the bureau of motor vehicles issued 122,735 licenses to qualified learners as compared with 90,347 in the same period last year.

While the total of newly licensed operators this year exceeds the corresponding totals of the previous two years, the 122,735 aggregate at the end of last month was less than the three years, 1933 to 1931, inclusive. The record for the period was established in 1929 when 169,865 operators were licensed in six months taking driving tests.

Despite the fact that 20,000 are able to qualify for licenses monthly, new drivers constitute only a small percentage of all operators licensed in Pennsylvania. For every person who holds a license issued this year on the basis of a learner's permit, there are 15 who renewed licenses they held last yecar and in previous years. Of the 2,117,886 persons now holding Pennsylvania licenses, 1,995,151 renewed previous licenses and 122,735 qualified after operator's examinations.

Death Ends Trek Of 'Alaska' Joe, Old Prospector

(International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash.—"Alaska" Joe Brooks will pack Alaskan trails no more.

His chapter in the legend of the North bears "finis" scrawled across it. "Alaska" died in the manner he lived, trekking a northern trail, a trail he had followed from Skagway to the gold creeks in '98. "Alaska" wanted to write a book about it but his book was ended before he ever started.

It was during the "Gold Rush" days that Brooks owned one of the largest pack trains on Alaskan trails. He was legend to the old prospectors and settlers. In eighteen days he made his first trip over the White Pass to Lake Bennett with a pack train of 350 horses.

That was back in '98. Early this year, "Alaska" returned to Skagway to pack over the old trail once more. He was going to chronicle his old experience in a book, the book that was never to be written.

With a few old friends of his youth, "Alaska" started his trek over the pass. He reached old White Pass city where he had once built his cabin.

He stopped there for the night, rolling up in his blankets before the fire. Sometime during the night he passed away quietly.

On the spot where he died, officials of a railroad are erecting a white cross.

"Alaska" Joe Brooks will pack Alaskan trails no more.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., —Settling of the ground, caused by the drought has periled more than a score of expensive homes here.

The situation was discovered when it was found that in a number of the house the doors, out of line, opened with difficulty, foundations cracked, and windows refused to to budge.

Engineers, unable to definitely "diagnose the case", believed the extreme dryness of the ground was the cause.

Vienna Museum Will Exhibit Cannibal Art

(International News Service)

VIENNA—A unique exhibition devoted to the culture of the cannibals of New Guinea is now being prepared by the Vienna Museum of Natural History.

The largest part of this interesting exhibition was furnished by the young Austrian explorer, Joseph Schueller, who at the age of 22, emigrated to Australia. Schueller found employment with a shipping company plying along the coast of New Guinea.

In the course of an activity covering seven years, he had an opportunity to study the culture of the Papuas, the original inhabitants of New Guinea, who are largely still on the cultural level of the stone age, and are known to practice cannibalism.

Schueller has gathered a very valuable collection of arms, ornaments and utensils of the Papuas, and made many interesting photographs of hitherto unexplored regions. This collection is said to be in many respects superior to the famous collection of Cook, which is now scattered over a large number of museums all over the world.

School Athletes Down Bandits

(International News Service)

CLINTON, Ind.—H was lucky for S. H. Scott, insurance man, that a group of high school athletes was nearby when bandits attempted to rob him.

When the men accosted him, Scott resisted, and yelled. Quick was the response. The fastest man on the Clinton track squad, and a stellar football back ran down and captured one of the bandits. Another athlete, a wrestler, grappled with the other bandit, but was forced to release him when the robber threatened with a gun.

But Scott was unharmed and lost no money.

Lopez And Wife Still Believe Baby Was 'Lost'

Pottsville Couple Still Cling To Story That Babies Were Switched

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 12.—Clinging to the belief their infant was still alive, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Lopez, of St. Clair, today persistently refused to accept the assurances of attaches at the Pottsville hospital that the body of a tiny baby boy buried yesterday was that of their child.

Lopez was at work in the mines but his wife mourned for a baby girl she declared was lost in a hospital "mixup."

The couple have retained counsel but there was no indication any legal action will be taken. The parents waived all rights and claims to the body of the babe buried in St. Clair cemetery yesterday morning.

Attaches at the hospital said they were informed the prematurely born babe of Mrs. Lopez was a girl when it was brought to the hospital early Sunday morning. Subsequent investigation showed it was a boy and it was so tagged. When the babe died Mr. and Mrs. Lopez refused to accept the body, declaring their child was a girl.

Rosamond Pinchot Goes To Hollywood

Niece Of Governor Pinchot's Aspires To Become Famous Movie Star

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The governor of Pennsylvania, Gifford Pinchot, has a beautiful niece who is determined to become a famous motion picture actress.

She is Rosamond Pinchot, who has been successively society beauty, actress, writer, radio artist, political workers and mother.

Today Miss Pinchot is on her way to the Pacific coast to fulfill a long term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

While Miss Pinchot walked through Grand Central Station on her way to her train she was approached by a group of high school girls who said:

"Will you autograph our books, Miss Hepburn?"

Miss Pinchot laughed and replied good naturedly.

"I'm not Katherine Hepburn, but I hope to be as famous as she when I return from Hollywood in April."

Miss Pinchot portrayed the nun in Morris Gest's production of "The Miracle" in 1924.

Negro Slayers Put To Death

Two Negro Slayers Of Negro Policeman In Chicago Are Electrocuted

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Chanting strains of "Goin' to Heaven on a Missouri Mule" instead of psalms, two negroes were executed early today in the Cook county jail electric chair for the murder of policeman John Officer, negro, in a holdup last April.

Alonzo McNeill, 29, was the first to die. He was followed to the electric chair a few minutes later by George Walker, 20.

PLEADS TO CHARGE, GETS TRIP TO JAIL

Aaron Aldridge, Negro, this city, was serving a seven-day county jail term today as a result of his failure to pay the costs of his arraignment for assault and battery on an information made by Linnie Slayton, Negress.

Aldridge pleaded guilty to the charge and Alderman Wallace J. Ewing fixed the costs of the case as his punishment. He could not pay and so the week's sentence was invoked.

Farley's Visit Only Political Declares Reed

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Appearance in Pittsburgh tomorrow of Postmaster General James A. Farley to dedicate the new federal building there is a "purely political mission" and has no significance beyond that, Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, declared today.

"It is evident," said Reed, who is a candidate for re-election, "that he is coming at the invitation of a few local Democratic politicians in the hope that his appearance and his speech will help Mr. Guffey and Mr. Earle at a time when they need help badly, and in the belief that the people of Pittsburgh can be deluded into thinking that these gentlemen had something to do with the new building, now happily ready for occupancy except for their speeches.

"This is the same Mr. Farley who has taken such an amusing and active interest in the Pennsylvania campaign. And who seems to believe that Pennsylvanians are incapable of handling their own affairs.

Cannot Claim Credit

"It is the same Mr. Farley, who for the first time in history, has succeeded in Tammanyizing the administrative agencies of the federal government, an effort which was blocked by President Cleveland and President Wilson when attempted under their administrations.

"It is the same Mr. Farley who is trying now to Tammanyize the civil service and substitute Farley appointees for honest, efficient and faithful employees who won their positions on merit alone. It is the same Mr. Farley who has tried to frighten these civil service employes into contributing to the Democratic campaign fund.

Reed said it was meaningless for Farley and Guffey to claim any credit for the new federal building, as the money for the site was appropriated in 1919.

Charge Mother With Kidnaping

Pittsburgh Woman Claims That Daughter Took Child For Walk, Never Returned

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH Oct. 12—While detectives conducted a widespread search for three year old Margie Dugan and her mother, warrants charging the mother with kidnaping the child was sworn out here today.

In addition to naming Mrs. Nellie H. Dugan, as the kidnaper of her child, the warrants also named James Jones, 42, brother of a police lieutenant, who was a friend of Mrs. Dugan.

The charge was filed by Mrs. Margaret Herman, mother of the missing woman and grandmother of the child.

The child was placed in the custody of the grandmother by a court after Mrs. Dugan was granted a divorce in December 1933. According to Mrs. Herman, her daughter asked permission to take Margie out in a go-cart last week and never returned.

Lopez And Wife Still Believe Baby Was 'Lost'

Pottsville Couple Still Cling To Story That Babies Were Switched

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 12.—Clinging to the belief their infant was still alive, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Lopez, of St. Clair, today persistently refused to accept the assurances of attaches at the Pottsville hospital that the body of a tiny baby boy buried yesterday was that of their child.

Lopez was at work in the mines but his wife mourned for a baby girl she declared was lost in a hospital "mixup."

The couple have retained counsel but there was no indication any legal action will be taken. The parents waived all rights and claims to the body of the babe buried in St. Clair cemetery yesterday morning.

Attaches at the hospital said they were informed the prematurely born babe of Mrs. Lopez was a girl when it was brought to the hospital early Sunday morning. Subsequent investigation showed it was a boy and it was so tagged. When the babe died Mr. and Mrs. Lopez refused to accept the body, declaring their child was a girl.

Rosamond Pinchot Goes To Hollywood

Niece Of Governor Pinchot's Aspires To Become Famous Movie Star

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The governor of Pennsylvania, Gifford Pinchot, has a beautiful niece who is determined to become a famous motion picture actress.

She is Rosamond Pinchot, who has been successively society beauty, actress, writer, radio artist, political workers and mother.

Today Miss Pinchot is on her way to the Pacific coast to fulfill a long term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

While Miss Pinchot walked through Grand Central Station on her way to her train she was approached by a group of high school girls who said:

"Will you autograph our books, Miss Hepburn?"

Miss Pinchot laughed and replied good naturedly.

"I'm not Katherine Hepburn, but I hope to be as famous as she when I return from Hollywood in April."

Miss Pinchot portrayed the nun in Morris Gest's production of "The Miracle" in 1924.

Negro Slayers Put To Death

Two Negro Slayers Of Negro Policeman In Chicago Are Electrocuted

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Chanting strains of "Goin' to Heaven on a Missouri Mule" instead of psalms, two negroes were executed early today in the Cook county jail electric chair for the murder of policeman John Officer, negro, in a holdup last April.

Alonzo McNeill, 29, was the first to die. He was followed to the electric chair a few minutes later by George Walker, 20.

PLEADS TO CHARGE, GETS TRIP TO JAIL

Aaron Aldridge, Negro, this city, was serving a seven-day county jail term today as a result of his failure to pay the costs of his arraignment for assault and battery on an information made by Linnie Slayton, Negress.

Aldridge pleaded guilty to the charge and Alderman Wallace J. Ewing fixed the costs of the case as his punishment. He could not pay and so the week's sentence was invoked.

Farley's Visit Only Political Declares Reed

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Appearance in Pittsburgh tomorrow of Postmaster General James A. Farley to dedicate the new federal building there is a "purely political mission" and has no significance beyond that, Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, declared today.

"It is evident," said Reed, who is a candidate for re-election, "that he is coming at the invitation of a few local Democratic politicians in the hope that his appearance and his speech will help Mr. Guffey and Mr. Earle at a time when they need help badly, and in the belief that the people of Pittsburgh can be deluded into thinking that these gentlemen had something to do with the new building, now happily ready for occupancy except for their speeches.

"This is the same Mr. Farley who has taken such an amusing and active interest in the Pennsylvania campaign. And who seems to believe that Pennsylvanians are incapable of handling their own affairs.

Cannot Claim Credit

"It is the same Mr. Farley, who for the first time in history, has succeeded in Tammanyizing the administrative agencies of the federal government, an effort which was blocked by President Cleveland and President Wilson when attempted under their administrations.

"It is the same Mr. Farley who is trying now to Tammanyize the civil service and substitute Farley appointees for honest, efficient and faithful employees who won their positions on merit alone. It is the same Mr. Farley who has tried to frighten these civil service employes into contributing to the Democratic campaign fund.

Reed said it was meaningless for Farley and Guffey to claim any credit for the new federal building, as the money for the site was appropriated in 1919.

Charge Mother With Kidnaping

Pittsburgh Woman Claims That Daughter Took Child For Walk, Never Returned

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH Oct. 12—While detectives conducted a widespread search for three year old Margie Dugan and her mother, warrants charging the mother with kidnaping the child was sworn out here today.

In addition to naming Mrs. Nellie H. Dugan, as the kidnaper of her child, the warrants also named James Jones, 42, brother of a police lieutenant, who was a friend of Mrs. Dugan.

The charge was filed by Mrs. Margaret Herman, mother of the missing woman and grandmother of the child.

The child was placed in the custody of the grandmother by a court after Mrs. Dugan was granted a divorce in December 1933. According to Mrs. Herman, her daughter asked permission to take Margie out in a go-cart last week and never returned.

Six Policemen Are Indicted

Six Camden, N. J., Police Indicted For Accepting Of Bribes On Duty

VICE CLEAN-UP IS GOING AHEAD

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 12—Charged with accepting bribes, six Camden policemen today faced the true bills of indictment, containing 62 counts, returned by the special Camden county grand jury investigating vice and corruption.

The indictments came as a direct aftermath of the murder of Detective William Feitz, shot to death by three gunmen in a disorderly house here on Labor Day. The murder was closely followed by the suicide of Mrs. Emma Heisler, proprietress of the house, who hurled herself to death from a room in Camden city hall while being grilled by detectives.

Investigation Ordered

The murder and suicide prompted Supreme Court Justice Frank T. Lloyd to instruct the grand jurors to sift all evidence to establish the extent, and the causes of vice in this city.

The indictments were returned by the jurors following the purported testimony of witnesses that they had paid "protection" to the policemen.

Doctors Save Crushed Arm By New Grafting Operation

(International News Service)

CAMPBELL, Cal., Oct. 2.—Medical science has today built a new and living arm for Robert Heistrom, superintendent of the Pacific Coast rock crushing plant here, who last March had his arm torn away in an accident at the plant.

While attempting to remove a rock from a roller, Helstrom's arm was pinned under a belt revolving at a high rate of speed. His screams were drowned by the roar of machinery and he was held, helpless, while the heavy leather wore away the flesh of his arm until it laid bare the bone. Only the arrival of closing hour saved the man's life.

He was rushed to a San Francisco hospital and a remarkable experiment in plastic surgery was undertaken to save his arm. Tendons were patched up and tied together and bloodvessels closed temporarily so that they would permit the flow of blood later. Then incisions were made in the man's abdomen, three inches apart and 16 inches long. The strip of flesh, remaining fastened at both ends to his body, was rolled into a rope. Later it was cut at one end and, still attached to the abdomen at the other, grafted onto the bone of the arm.

When the skin had grown firmly to the arm so that the blood was circulating to that member, the rope was cut loose from the abdomen and the manufacture of the arm nearly complete.

The nerves are the only thing that are causing anxiety, Helstrom says, but it is thought that they will build up and the brand new arm will be as useful as the old.

The attending doctors were Dr. R. E. Graun, Los Gatos, and Drs. G. W. Pierce and G. B. O'Connor, San Francisco.

Yugoslavia To Make Demands

Assassination Of King To Result In Demands Of Italy And Hungary

By ALFRED TYRNAUER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

ZAGREB, Oct. 12.—As a direct result of the assassination of King Alexander, Yugoslavia will demand immediate dissolution of Yugoslavian immigration camps in Italy and Hungary, it was learned from semi-official sources today.

The camps were established to house political exiles and malcontents from Yugoslavia and are not unlike the former concentration camps of the so-called Austrian Nazi Legion in Bavaria.

One camp is located at Piacenza in north Italy and another at Sankapustka in Hungary, near the Croatian border.

Croatian officials openly charge the camps are supported financially by Italy and Hungary and point out that the chief in charge of the Italian camp is the former Croatian leader, Dr. Perefec, who was once sentenced to death in Zagreb for his political instigations.

Official confirmation was forthcoming today of the occurrence of anti-Italian demonstrations in Zagreb, Split, Sarajevo and elsewhere during the past two days.

The crowds were dispersed by police acting on direct orders from the government, which is taking extraordinary precautions to prevent recurrences.

ZOO LIONS LIKE OUTDOOR SPORT

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH—The zoo's lions—all five of them—seem to have undergone a transformation since they were taken outdoors the past few weeks.

Jack and Nero celebrate vocally every day, ending their 10-minute roaring contest with a rasp that would chill any amateur Tarzan. Their girl friends—Sheba, Daisy and Cleo—announce their gratitude for the unexpected sunshine in various ways.

Sheba rubs up against the bars to be petted by her keepers. Cleo does the same, in hopes she can snag somebody with a right to the midriff. It took keepers a whole week to coax Daisy back into her cage.

Auto Is Wrecked By Blast, Officer Has Close Call

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—An explosion believed to have resulted from a time bomb blasted the motor and transmission of an automobile here today and almost caused the serious injury of its driver, Patrolman Raymond L. Miller, of Pittsburgh.

Pieces of the mechanism ripped through the floor boards beside Miller and were blown a distance of 25 feet. Neighbors awakened by the blast saw Miller leap from the car, stamp his feet and walk from the scene.

Miller said he thought the clutch, which had been slipping, suddenly let go. He denied the explosion was due to time bomb.

BOUNDARY LINE DETERMINED SUIT

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG—An act of 1878 was invoked to permit prosecution in Dauphin county of Curtis S. Thomas, a transient, charged with having broken into a merchandising freight car at Enola, Cumberland county.

Counsel for the defendant questioned the legality of the indictment in Dauphin county but Hans G. Olson of the Pennsylvania railroad police, proved that the offense was committed within 500 yards of the county boundary line. Under the act of 1878, prosecution may be brought in either county where a felony is committed within 500 yards of the boundary line.

CANDIDATE'S MOTHER IN A PREDICAMENT

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA—Mrs. George H. Earle, 74-year-old mother of the Democratic candidate for governor, found herself in a pretty predicament recently.

On the advice of her attorney who told her that since she had voted Republican in the last election, she would have to register Republican for the November election.

When she appeared at the polls here on one of the three registration days, Mrs. Earle attempted to register Democratic. The registrars were willing to permit the change but a Republican watcher objected strenuously.

Death In Jail Ends Career Of Hungary's 'Robin Hood'

Hero of the shockers, Peti Lilliom died. . . . in prison.

Crime never pays, despite the fact that it was done in the interests of the poor people in the district infested by Peti and his gang of Public Enemies No. 1 of Hungary.

Peti, a mild mannered man in his late eighties, had spent 56 years of his life in jail.

But in those years of freedom, while he plundered through the length and breadth of Hungary, he was never known to steal from a poor person. Most of the proceeds from his countless raids went to the poor people of the neighborhood.

Beginning as a cowpuncher, the first one heard of Peti was the time he rode off with a huge herd and never returned to the Hungarian ranch where he was employed.

Peti sold the herd and pocketed the money, later distributing it to the poor that he knew.

During the height of his career as Hungary's Public Enemy No. 1 he kept the Bakony Woods district in terror as head of the notorious Savany gang, a position which he held for several years.

Scores of persons have been killed by this gang and hundreds of merchants waylaid and their money taken from them, but only occasionally was Peti and his crowd charged with the crime.

Even up to the time of his death in jail, Peti boasted that he had never robbed a poor person but had confined his depredatory efforts to the rich and regarded the more fortunate of his fellow countrymen as his victims.

The poor of his district will miss Peti Lilliom, who helped them from the proceeds of his plunder.

GOOD THING THEY DON'T HAVE TO WALK

(International News Service)

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa.—Three girls and two boys who live in the village of Proctor ride 50 miles in a bus each day to attend the South Williamsport high school.

Gladys Brobst, Marie Braker and Eleanor, Philip and Robert Tomlinson figure that they travel approximately 9,000 miles each school year and that they will have travelled nearly 9,000 miles more than a trip around the world by the time they complete their four years at high school.

Jack Crouse, another youth who attends the same school, walks six miles each day.

DRAWING THE LINE.

Outside the house a taxi stopped, and the Jackson family prepared to load it up with their vacation luggage.

"I'm afraid," said the harassed father when he saw the look that came over the driver's face "there's rather a lot of luggage. You see, we're going to a remote part of the country and taking a bungalow."

The driver grimaced.

MAKING SURE

"Let me see," said Lane pensively, "do I owe you any money, old man?"

Long raised inquiring eyebrows.

"Not a penny, old chap," he replied. "Why, are you going round paying off your little debts?"

"Oh, no!" replied Lane quickly. "I was just going round to see if I've overlooked anybody. Lend me $5 till Saturday, will you?"

Prince Bibesco Is Re-Elected

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Prince George Bibesco of Rumania, a pioneer in flying and former pupil of Louis Bleriot, famous French pilot, was re-elected president of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale in convention here.

Rules which allow a president of the organiaztion to serve only one three-year term were suspended to permit the prince's re-election.

JUST HIS SIZE

An angry woman brandished a bunch of newly-cleaned collars in the laundry proprietor's face.

"My husband says if you send his collars back again in this condition he'll come and make a row about it," she stormed.

The laundry proprietor looked a little scared. Then his attitude changed.

"He will, will he?" he said. "Let's see what size collar he takes. Thirteen, eh? All right—tell him to come. I don't mind—I can deal with him."

Doctors Discover Man's Paradise Where Women Do All The Work

(International News Service)

MECHORIC, Jugoslavia—It took a governmental medical commission to do it, but the doctors eventually discovered a man's paradise.

Sent to make a survey through backwoods and mountain sections of Bosnia, the doctors discovered districts where the women do all the work in the fields while the men stay home and knit, do fancy needlework or crochet or loll in the sun.

Another section visited showed similar habits, a bridal couple having been encountered the woman carrying a heavy cask of water while the husband of a few hours ambled along slowly behind her.

The doctors also discovered that in certain parts of the country the children are not weaned from their mothers' breast until they are seven or eight years old. This resulted in the children being extraordinarily weak and losing their teeth at early ages.

Young men in the late twenties and early thirties were found without any teeth, having lost both their first and second sets.

Yugoslavia To Make Demands

Assassination Of King To Result In Demands Of Italy And Hungary

By ALFRED TYRNAUER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

ZAGREB, Oct. 12.—As a direct result of the assassination of King Alexander, Yugoslavia will demand immediate dissolution of Yugoslavian immigration camps in Italy and Hungary, it was learned from semi-official sources today.

The camps were established to house political exiles and malcontents from Yugoslavia and are not unlike the former concentration camps of the so-called Austrian Nazi Legion in Bavaria.

One camp is located at Piacenza in north Italy and another at Sankapustka in Hungary, near the Croatian border.

The Yugoslavian government is convinced these two spots are centers of most of the terrorist activities against Yugoslavia.

Croatian officials openly charge the camps are supported financially by Italy and Hungary and point out that the chief in charge of the Italian camp is the former Croatian leader, Dr. Perefec, who was once sentenced to death in Zagreb for his political instigations.

Official confirmation was forthcoming today of the occurrence of anti-Italian demonstrations in Zagreb, Split, Sarajevo and elsewhere during the past two days.

The crowds were dispersed by police acting on direct orders from the government, which is taking extraordinary precautions to prevent recurrences.

ZOO LIONS LIKE OUTDOOR SPORT

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH—The zoo's lions—all five of them—seem to have undergone a transformation since they were taken outdoors the past few weeks.

Jack and Nero celebrate vocally every day, ending their 10-minute roaring contest with a rasp that would chill any amateur Tarzan. Their girl friends—Sheba, Daisy and Cleo—announce their gratitude for the unexpected sunshine in various ways.

Sheba rubs up against the bars to be petted by her keepers. Cleo does the same, in hopes she can snag somebody with a right to the midriff. It took keepers a whole week to coax Daisy back into her cage.

Auto Is Wrecked By Blast, Officer Has Close Call

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—An explosion believed to have resulted from a time bomb blasted the motor and transmission of an automobile here today and almost caused the serious injury of its driver, Patrolman Raymond L. Miller, of Pittsburgh.

Pieces of the mechanism ripped through the floor boards beside Miller and were blown a distance of 25 feet. Neighbors awakened by the blast saw Miller leap from the car, stamp his feet and walk from the scene.

Miller said he thought the clutch, which had been slipping, suddenly let go. He denied the explosion was due to time bomb.

BOUNDARY LINE DETERMINED SUIT

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG—An act of 1878 was invoked to permit prosecution in Dauphin county of Curtis S. Thomas, a transient, charged with having broken into a merchandising freight car at Enola, Cumberland county.

Counsel for the defendant questioned the legality of the indictment in Dauphin county but Hans G. Olson of the Pennsylvania railroad police, proved that the offense was committed within 500 yards of the county boundary line. Under the act of 1878, prosecution may be brought in either county where a felony is committed within 500 yards of the boundary line.

CANDIDATE'S MOTHER IN A PREDICAMENT

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA—Mrs. George H. Earle, 74-year-old mother of the Democratic candidate for governor, found herself in a pretty predicament recently.

On the advice of her attorney who told her that since she had voted Republican in the last election, she would have to register Republican for the November election.

When she appeared at the polls here on one of the three registration days, Mrs. Earle attempted to register Democratic. The registrars were willing to permit the change but a Republican watcher objected strenuously.

ACTRESS FILES SUIT

(International News Service)

HOLLWOOD, Oct. 12.—Elissa Landi, motion picture star, today had filed suit for $1,932.80 against Joyce Payne, for damages assertedly incurred when the latter sued her in August.

Death In Jail Ends Career Of Hungary's 'Robin Hood'

Labor Delegates To End Sessions

Tilt Develops Over Matter Of Enlarging Executive Committee

By RALPH B. JORDAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—Delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention today buckled on their armor and took up their spears for the last big battle of their 1934 conclave—the tilt over the question of enlarging the federation's executive council, the governing body.

The forces in favor of a larger executive council are led by John L. Lewis, president of the miners, who contends that victory would mean more unions represented, and a more representative and dependable governing body.

To Close Tonight

The convention is slated to close at a special session tonight.

The delegates already had disposed of two of their most troublesome problems—Industrial vs. Craft Unions, and Communism vs. Americanism.

Industrial unionism emerged with flying banners, but Communism was soundly repudiated.

Hailed as one of the most important labor decisions in years, the federation voted for the encouragement of industrial unions—organizing workers by industries instead of crafts—after a hectic two-hour conflict on the convention floor.

It was emphasized that industrial organization is to apply only to "the great mass of unorganized workers," and is not to interfere with the present crafts.

Wide Highways Spell Doom Of Hitch-Hikers In Texas

(International News Service)

DALLAS, Texas—Wide, inviting highways that induce the motorist to step on the accelerator; a decreasing feeling for pedestrians by the hardy driver, or intermittent waves of automobile hijacking—one of these factors is making the thumb a rare commodity on arteries leading out of Dallas.

This came to light here from a curious chat with a representative group of hitch-hikers, who couldn't make the hitch out of the city.

Formerly they came flocking to Dallas in droves, in legions, and would take up their stands along the ribbony pavement leading north, east, south, and west. In a few hours they would be gone, befriended by lonely and chatty motorists.

But it's a different story now.

"Your lucky," said one thumbster, "to get out of this place at all. I came from Arizona yesterday, 900 miles, and I'll be lucky to get 15 miles from here today."

The better a city is for hitch-hiking, the less they see of it, he confided. He clarified his remark by explaining that the ride-moocher's chief idea is to hurry through a city enroute to another city, also in a hurry, and so on to his destination.

A good day for a hitch-hiker is 500 miles, another said. He added that he could usually attain this mark until he arrived in Dallas. "And then I'm stuck," he said.

At least two experienced ridegetters grew tired of waiting in Dallas for a hitch and bought interurban tickets to another city, where they said the autoist had "more heart."

Plan For Study Of Coal Fields

Thorough Study Will Be Made In Anthracite Field In Western Pennsylvania

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 12.—A thorough study of the anthracite industry from the standpoints of operators, workers and communities suffering from the effects of a lowered output and a surplus of labor, was recommended today by Umpire James A. Gorman of the anthracite board of conciliation, acting as an agency of the national labor board.

Gorman's findings, regarded as a highlights of the investigation he conducted of more than a thousand grievances in the upper anthracite region, were forwarded to mine owners and the two rival mine unions, the United Mine Workers of America and the United Anthacite Miners of Pennsylvania.

Scale Model Of Ocean Bottom Will Be Used For Wave Tests

(International News Service)

LAJOLLA, Cal.—In an effort to determine the cause of destructive waves that swept beach resorts from Laguna northward, a tiny scale model of California's coast line and the ocean bottom between Catalina Island and mainland, will be reproduced at the Scripps Institute of Oceanography here, Dr. G. F. McEwan, an officer of the institution here announced.

Dr. McEwan declared the real seat of the disturbance may be as far as 1,000 miles away.

The scale model of the coast line and ocean bottom would be made from information supplied by Federal officials, Dr. McEwan said, and might show what change in equilibrium caused the high waves.

Most likely the recent waves at Newport and other coastal points resulted from the gravitational action of the sun and moon, Dr. McEwan pointed out.

"After any disturbance of equilibrium in the sea," Dr. McEwan said, "the surging bodies of water tend to swing back past the position of origin, and thus vibrate. Except for the usual changes of level due to the gravitation action of the sun and moon, called tides, there are three other causes of waves—wind, changes of barometric pressure, and sudden movements of the sea bottom (seismic waves.)"

In making an analysis of the ocean conditions during the periods of destruction the Institute will co-operate with the United States coast and geodetic survey.

RWD Controversy Is Still Raging At New Brighton

Enforced Idleness Descends Upon RWD Workers In New Brighton, Pa.

(International News Service)

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Oct. 12.—Enforced idleness descended on relief work division projects here today as the New Brighton council and Robert W. Smith, Beaver county deputy county relief administrator, remained deadlocked in a dispute over selection of employes.

Council contended that since the borough was providing materials and truck hire they should have the right to approve the list of relief workmen.

Smith replied that he had no list, adding that he was advised by Harrisburg the council had no voice in employment of workers. Three projects, meanwhile, have been halted by the controversy.

Explain Control Plan To Beet Growers

(International News Service)

FORT COLLINS, Colo., Oct.6.—A series of meetings will be held this fall to explain to beet growers the details of the sugar beet control program for 1934-35, according to announcement by the AAA.

It is expected that about 8,000 beet growers in Colorado may sign contracts and that they may receive approximately $3,500,000 in cash benefit payments, subject to approval of the contract by the secretary of agriculture. The 1935 marketing allotment for sugar from beets has been set at about 1,550,000 short tons raw value.

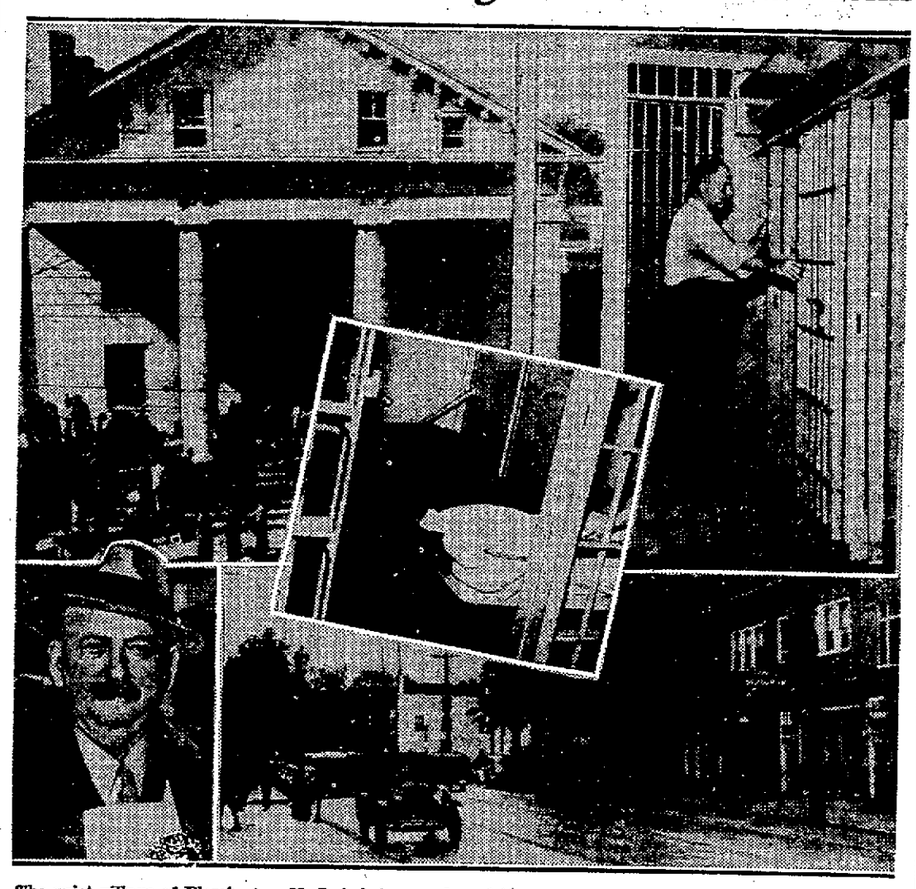

The trouble is that one half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives, but that it doesn't give a darn.

GROVE CITY, Oct. 12.—Two additional work relief projects have been approved by borough council, in special session, and contract for the surfacing of Franklin place was awarded to Edward Thomas of this city. The paving contract is for the 16th street on the borough program, the others all having been completed. The contract price was 47c per square yard.

J. W. Ely, county LWD official in charge of special projects, appeared to urge approval of a project to make a map of the borough's water, sewer, electric and gas lines, as well as to locate streets, alleys and lot boundaries in a house-to-house canvass. The project had previously been turned down by council, but was finally approved. It gives work to 12 people and represents an expenditure of $3,639, with $236 supplied by the borough. A project to improve important alleys was also approved.

No LWD work has yet been started. It was announced that the first local project, a sewer line on Garden avenue, would get under way Thursday, but the start has been delayed.

Explain Control Plan To Beet Growers

(International News Service)

FORT COLLINS, Colo., Oct.6.—A series of meetings will be held this fall to explain to beet growers the details of the sugar beet control program for 1934-35, according to announcement by the AAA.

It is expected that about 8,000 beet growers in Colorado may sign contracts and that they may receive approximately $3,500,000 in cash benefit payments, subject to approval of the contract by the secretary of agriculture. The 1935 marketing allotment for sugar from beets has been set at about 1,550,000 short tons raw value.

The trouble is that one half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives, but that it doesn't give a darn.

Pictured here are the courthouse, outside and inside of cell in which Hauptmann will be kept, Mayor Charles C. Smith in butcher's robes, and a typical street scene before the indictment brought throngs of witnesses, newspapermen and sightseers. (Central Press)

More Projects Are Approved At Grove City

(Special to The News)

GROVE CITY, Oct. 12.—Two additional work relief projects have been approved by borough council, in special session, and contract for the surfacing of Franklin place was awarded to Edward Thomas of this city. The paving contract is for the 16th street on the borough program, the others all having been completed. The contract price was 47c per square yard.

J. W. Ely, county LWD official in charge of special projects, appeared to urge approval of a project to make a map of the borough's water, sewer, electric and gas lines, as well as to locate streets, alleys and lot boundaries in a house-to-house canvass. The project had previously been turned down by council, but was finally approved. It gives work to 12 people and represents an expenditure of $3,639, with $236 supplied by the borough. A project to improve important alleys was also approved.

No LWD work has yet been started. It was announced that the first local project, a sewer line on Garden avenue, would get under way Thursday, but the start has been delayed.

Lopez And Wife Still Believe Baby Was 'Lost'

Pottsville Couple Still Cling To Story That Babies Were Switched

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 12.—Clinging to the belief their infant was still alive, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Lopez, of St. Clair, today persistently refused to accept the assurances of attaches at the Pottsville hospital that the body of a tiny baby boy buried yesterday was that of their child.

Lopez was at work in the mines but his wife mourned for a baby girl she declared was lost in a hospital "mixup."

The couple have retained counsel but there was no indication any legal action will be taken. The parents waived all rights and claims to the body of the babe buried in St. Clair cemetery yesterday morning.

Attaches at the hospital said they were informed the prematurely born babe of Mrs. Lopez was a girl when it was brought to the hospital early Sunday morning. Subsequent investigation showed it was a boy and it was so tagged. When the babe died Mr. and Mrs. Lopez refused to accept the body, declaring their child was a girl.

Rosamond Pinchot Goes To Hollywood

Niece Of Governor Pinchot's Aspires To Become Famous Movie Star

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The governor of Pennsylvania, Gifford Pinchot, has a beautiful niece who is determined to become a famous motion picture actress.

She is Rosamond Pinchot, who has been successively society beauty, actress, writer, radio artist, political workers and mother.

Today Miss Pinchot is on her way to the Pacific coast to fulfill a long term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

While Miss Pinchot walked through Grand Central Station on her way to her train she was approached by a group of high school girls who said:

"Will you autograph our books, Miss Hepburn?"

Miss Pinchot laughed and replied good naturedly.

"I'm not Katherine Hepburn, but I hope to be as famous as she when I return from Hollywood in April."

Miss Pinchot portrayed the nun in Morris Gest's production of "The Miracle" in 1924.

Negro Slayers Put To Death

Two Negro Slayers Of Negro Policeman In Chicago Are Electrocuted

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Chanting strains of "Goin' to Heaven on a Missouri Mule" instead of psalms, two negroes were executed early today in the Cook county jail electric chair for the murder of policeman John Officer, negro, in a holdup last April.

Alonzo McNeill, 29, was the first to die. He was followed to the electric chair a few minutes later by George Walker, 20.

PLEADS TO CHARGE, GETS TRIP TO JAIL

Aaron Aldridge, Negro, this city, was serving a seven-day county jail term today as a result of his failure to pay the costs of his arraignment for assault and battery on an information made by Linnie Slayton, Negress.

Aldridge pleaded guilty to the charge and Alderman Wallace J. Ewing fixed the costs of the case as his punishment. He could not pay and so the week's sentence was invoked.

Farley's Visit Only Political Declares Reed

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Appearance in Pittsburgh tomorrow of Postmaster General James A. Farley to dedicate the new federal building there is a "purely political mission" and has no significance beyond that, Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, declared today.

"It is evident," said Reed, who is a candidate for re-election, "that he is coming at the invitation of a few local Democratic politicians in the hope that his appearance and his speech will help Mr. Guffey and Mr. Earle at a time when they need help badly, and in the belief that the people of Pittsburgh can be deluded into thinking that these gentlemen had something to do with the new building, now happily ready for occupancy except for their speeches.

"This is the same Mr. Farley who has taken such an amusing and active interest in the Pennsylvania campaign. And who seems to believe that Pennsylvanians are incapable of handling their own affairs.

Cannot Claim Credit

"It is the same Mr. Farley, who for the first time in history, has succeeded in Tammanyizing the administrative agencies of the federal government, an effort which was blocked by President Cleveland and President Wilson when attempted under their administrations.

"It is the same Mr. Farley who is trying now to Tammanyize the civil service and substitute Farley appointees for honest, efficient and faithful employees who won their positions on merit alone. It is the same Mr. Farley who has tried to frighten these civil service employes into contributing to the Democratic campaign fund.

Reed said it was meaningless for Farley and Guffey to claim any credit for the new federal building, as the money for the site was appropriated in 1919.

Charge Mother With Kidnaping

Pittsburgh Woman Claims That Daughter Took Child For Walk, Never Returned

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH Oct. 12—While detectives conducted a widespread search for three year old Margie Dugan and her mother, warrants charging the mother with kidnaping the child was sworn out here today.

In addition to naming Mrs. Nellie H. Dugan, as the kidnaper of her child, the warrants also named James Jones, 42, brother of a police lieutenant, who was a friend of Mrs. Dugan.

The charge was filed by Mrs. Margaret Herman, mother of the missing woman and grandmother of the child.

The child was placed in the custody of the grandmother by a court after Mrs. Dugan was granted a divorce in December 1933. According to Mrs. Herman, her daughter asked permission to take Margie out in a go-cart last week and never returned.

ABANDON SHIP!

by Arthur Styron

Flashed the Command. But Up on Deck Was Miss Emerson—and the 12-Pounder . . . Whitey stayed behind.

Illustrated by STIRLING HILL

McClure Fiction

THERE was a terrific crash. The President trembled violently from keel-plate to mast-head. Whitey and Gunner's-mate Smith, scrambling through the fo'c'sle hatch, felt the fine, salt spray cut their faces as the merchantman plunged into a mountainous wave.

"Some gale!" gasped Whitey.

"Oh, she's blowing a little," drawled Gunner's-mate Smith. As a second-hitch Navy man he had a reputation to maintain in the eyes of a mere coal-passer.

The vessel plunged down with a vicious slap. Whitey and Smith scurried up the ladder to the upper-deck just in time to escape being drenched. Feeling their way along the housing of the darkened deck, they made the quarter-deck.

"It's ten minutes before eight bells. Let's see if the 12-pounder is all right," said Whitey eagerly.

"Oh, all right," growled Smith. He pretended a vast indifference, but secretly he was flattered by the young coal-passer's admiration for his gun and envy of his command of her.

Whitey gazed with speechless admiration as Gunner's-mate Smith threw off the tarpaulin covering and tested the mechanism of his new breech-loading 12-pounder. When war was declared against Germany he had dreamt continually, with the natural longing of a sixteen-year-old farm boy for the sea, of enlisting in the Navy; but when his father had persisted in withholding his consent which the Navy required, Whitey had had to content himself with running away and shipping out of Norfolk as a coal-passer on the President, bound for an unknown foreign port with a cargo of grain and a small contingent of five-hundred troops and fifty Red Cross nurses.

The President was a single-screw tramp of less than five-thousand tons, whose bluff bows, wall sides and stumpy masts gave her a business-like, if unbeautiful, appearance. It was the early winter of 1917, before the elaborate convoy system that later prevailed had been fully organized and put into operation, and each ship was provided only with an armed guard in case of attack. The President, therefore, had been hastily supplied with a new 12-pounder and a gun crew of eight gobs, in charge of Gunner's-mate Smith, to man her.

Whitey was a willing worker and friendly, and he was soon popular with the blackgang below deck; but his heart was with the Navy lads and their gun, and he spent his waking hours of liberty on the quarter-deck, until he knew every detail of the handling of the 12-pounder as well as the gun-captain himself.

I'VE got a hunch," said Whitney after watching his friend manipulate the breech-lock for a while, "that something's going to happen tonight."

"Something is happening," said Gunner's-mate Smith.

"I mean something real," said Whitey, with a regular sailorman's contempt of the elements. "I feel it in my bones."

"Rheumatism," explained Smith laconically. "Shoveling coal does that."

"Go to hell. Maybe we'll meet a submarine."

"No chance," said Smith. "We're still in mid-ocean; subs can't cruise this far out."

"It's nine days since we left Norfolk. We ought to be pretty close to Ireland—"

"We've been zig-zagging. Even when we get to the danger-zone, we'll have a convoy of destroyers from Brest or Queenstown tagging after us, so there won't be any chance of a U-boat attack." Smith's tone was full of grief. "Hell, I'd like to take a pot-shot at one of those iron-men."

"I would too," said Whitey enthusiastically.

Smith said—a little less belligerently: "Guess you'll have to stick at your station in the coal-bunker, Whitey."

Whitey sighed. "Guess I will."

OUT of the gloom on the quarter-deck appeared a tall, slender figure swathed in a long cape, stepping lightly. Whitey knew it was Miss Emerson taking her evening walk.

In his mind, Whitey was somewhat confused as to which was the more beautiful—Miss Emerson in her blue nurse's uniform, or the new 12-pounder.

In a way, the two were inextricably associated; for Miss Emerson, too, admired the 12-pounder, and always in her walks stopped to admire the gun and talk with the boys about it.

A sea struck the President abeam: the bridge tarpaulins rattled applause, and the ship rolled with a sudden lurch. Smith put out his hand to steady the nurse. Mumbling something about having to go on watch, Whitey fled and stumbled through the nearest hatch. It was dam' familiar of Smith to put his paw on her like that.

He felt better when he had relieved his watch and fallen to work with his shovel. He began to sing in a hoarse, somewhat uncertain voice.

"Here, sailor, straighten your necktie and fall to." The ship's cook, bearing a huge pail of hot, black coffee, and a slat-basket of sandwiches, entered the bunker.

Whitey was in the act of dipping a second helping of coffee when there was a violent crash—immediately followed by the sound of ripping steel and timbers. The ship lurched heavily, throwing both men to the deck.

"What a sea," cried Whitey.

"Sea my eye!" gasped the cook, not noticing he was drenched with coffee. "Something must have hit us . . . "

The sudden calm that ensued, broken as it was only by the throb of the engines and the swish of water against the hull was ghastly. The ship still quivered from the impact.

From somewhere there was the faint, ghostly sound of running feet. Then—a harsh clanging of bells—the weird wailing of a siren. General Quarters! Whitey's thoughts immediately concentrated on his hunch. A U-boat had attacked the ship!

The President was now alive with activity. There were sounds of men running, the harsh clang of metal as water-tight doors were slammed and secured.

Then another sound came to the solitary young coal-passer in the bunker: a series of nearby minor explosions. Whitey recognized immediately what it was—the 12-pounder was speaking. Tears of excitement and disappointment came into Whitey's eyes: he began to shovel coal desperately to restrain himself from rushing above deck.

A sinister noise, like the soft hissing of a rattle-snake, obtruded itself into his consciousness. Whitey, glancing aft, saw a small stream of water swirling over the deck, as the shrill sound of the siren, followed by the muffled notes of a bugle, came down to him.

Abandon Ship!

The black gang began leaving their stations on the double. "Come on, Whitey, she's sinking!" called out an oiler.

By the time Whitey had reached the main deck, the President had lost all headway and was wallowing helplessly in the trough. Morning was breaking, and in the faint light he could just distinguish a vague, writhing mass a few hundred yards off the starboard bow. A ship — probably a German raider — had rammed the President and then opened fire.

Suddenly he remembered: Miss Emerson!

The last life-boat had already been swung over on its davits; only the rafts were left for the crew. Silent men, like wraiths in the semi-darkness, were running to their stations. Whitey, turning to retrace his steps aft where the cabins lay, collided with a sailor.

"Hey!" gasped the man. "Where you going?"

"I've got to rescue a lady!" gasped Whitey.

"Now what do you think of that!" said Gunner's-mate Smith. "With a war going on too," said Whitey loftily.

HE knew the cabin Miss Emerson had occupied with three other nurses. Had he not often found excuses to walk by her port-hole hoping to get a glimpse of her? In a few moments he was there. The cabin was empty. Miss Emerson was already saved!

Gulping down his disappointment, Whitey started forward—when he caught sight of the 12-pounder, her muzzle pointed proudly upward—alone and abandoned.

The next instant the illuminating idea came to him. Perhaps it would be something to remember as long as he lived. And if he did not live, he would have the consolation of knowing he had done something.

In thirty seconds Whitey had reached the gun and was throwing out the exploded cap. Another thirty seconds—and he had found a live projectile, thrust it home, and screwed in the breech-plug. Squinting through the telescope, he carefully trained and pointed the 12-pounder. Having observed that the stricken ship was abandoned and sinking, the raider was now getting rapidly under way. There was not a moment to be lost.

As the President steadied between two seas, Whitey took careful aim and pressed the firing key. There was a sharp report, and a thin wisp of smoke was quickly dissipated by the wind. The missile hurtled through the air; the next instant there was a sharp explosion at the stern of the disappearing raider. He had scored a hit!

The Germans—who had ceased firing when they saw the merchantman being abandoned—answered at once. A shell pierced the merchantman's side forward. Giving a wild whoop, Whitey rushed to the railing and prepared to dive off the stern. A faint cry told him the direction of the nearest raft. Strong arms helped drag him out of the sea.

"You dam' fool," hissed a burly sailor, "what made you fire that gun? Now they'll think we're a Q-ship and shell our life-boats." Whitey recognized the voice of Gunner's-mate Smith!

The Germans' fire, however, did not last long. Even before they had lost sight of the President, that gallant little vessel threw her bow high in the air and settled quietly to her grave beneath the stormy waves.

After a long silence Smith again spoke to Whitey. "That was me you collided with on the deck. . . . Did you go back just to fire that gun?"

"Maybe," said Whitey. Then he asked: "Did Miss Emerson get away all right?"

Smith gave him a keen look. "The women left in the first lifeboats, of course. I myself looked after Miss Emerson."

DAY came with a dreadful shrieking of the elements, and the shipwrecked men were compelled to cling to the life-lines with all their strength to keep from being washed off the raft as wave after wave struck them. Towards noon, however, when they were so exhausted that they could not have endured it much longer, the gale suddenly began to subside, and in a few hours the sea was only choppy and rough. About eight bells the sun appeared fitfully. The ship's officer in command of the raft broke out the water-breaker and distributed a scant ration, and the tired men relaxed for a little rest.

It must have been about four bells when the sound of distant firing became audible. For a full minute the men on the raft remained silent and tense, as if afraid their ears were deceiving them. Then, as the firing continued, they became suddenly alert.

The officer gave a faint whoop. "Hurrah! The patrol ships must have got our SOS!"

"There's fighting, so there must be an Allied ship!" cried Smith.

The officer was eagerly searching in the strong-box always kept lashed to each life-boat. "We'll give them a Very signal to let them know we're here."

The next moment he had fired the Very pistol, sending a rocket speeding into the lowering sky to burst aloft into fiery spray. "No use wasting another one right now—they can't come while they're engaged. We'll shoot one when the firing stops."

It was now almost dark, and two more precious rockets had been fired. Then—the eager ears of the men detected the unmistakable churn of swift propellers. Almost immediately the thin, pencil-like beam of a searchlight began to play on the turbulent waters. The men raised a mighty shout, and the officer fired a rocket—his last one.

But it was enough. Through the twilight the prow of a richly camouflaged vessel could be seen slowly bearing down upon them. No distinguishing ensign fluttered from the mast, but the contour of an American destroyer could be plainly recognized.

"Water — grub — smokes!" the survivors were thinking.

"I'm in the Navy now!" Whitey was gloating.

THE next morning as Whitey was disposing of ham and eggs in the fo'c'sle, a messenger came in to say that the Captain wanted to see him. The crew were still talking about their adventure, but by now Whitey had heard everything that had happened—how the President's SOS had been picked up by a division of three destroyers sent out from Queenstown to hunt a German cruiser that had broken through the Grand Fleet blockade in the North Sea and was raiding Allied shipping—how they had picked up most of the scattered lifeboats and then had suddenly come upon the raider itself which, for some unknown reason, had made no effort to escape and had surrendered after the exchange of a few shots—and how one of the destroyers was standing by the prize while the other two hunted the remaining survivors.

As the President steadied between two seas, Whitey took aim and pressed the firing key.

When Whitey entered the cabin he found the President's captain and Gunner's-mate Smith talking with the skipper of the destroyer. The latter gravely motioned Whitey to be seated.

"I understand, White, that you fired a shot at the raider after the President had been abandoned?"

Whitey glanced at Gunner's-mate Smith. So Smith had betrayed him! The gob was grinning broadly. "Yes sir," Whitey answered.

The skipper cleared his throat. "Are you aware that you damaged her rudder and propellers so that she could not get away, thus enabling us to capture her?"

"It must have been Whitey's shot, sir," interrupted Smith eagerly, "because we hadn't scored a single hit, and the raider was underway when we abandoned ship."

"Well, Whitey?" asked the skipper.

So that was it, thought Whitey. By sheer accident he had been the agent of capturing this prize!

WHITEY was not dumb. "I waited till she pitched and her propellers cleared the water, sir, and then I took careful aim."

The skipper smiled. "That was remarkable shooting, Whitey," he said. He looked the boy over carefully. "I see that you're wearing a Navy uniform. How'd you like to wear it all the time?"

"Well, you see, sir, I'm—" he couldn't say 'only sixteen' with Smith's eye fixed on him "—I'm a little under age, and my father wouldn't give his consent."

"We'll fix that," said the skipper. "I'll radio to America and get his permission, and enlist you here on the destroyer. I'm requesting that Gunner's-mate Smith and his crew be ordered here, too!"

"Can I be in a gun crew, sir?"

The skipper spoke carefully. "I certainly think that's the place for you."

"Thank you, sir."

"Will you have a cigaret?" asked the skipper.

"No thank you, sir, I don't smoke—." A glance at Smith's face made him realize his mistake which he amended by adding "cigarets. But if I could have a cigar—"

"Certainly," said the surprised officer.

Whitey saluted smartly and left the cabin, followed by a chastened gunner's-mate. "Well, of all the crust—" he was beginning, when he had to pause to give gangway to an approaching couple—a junior Naval officer with gold braid on his sleeves, and a tall young woman wearing a blue cape lined with red. Miss Emerson!

"Now what do you think of that!" said Gunner's-mate Smith.

"With a war going on, too," said Whitey loftily in the voice of a man dismissing mere trivialities forever from his life. Frowning deeply, he stuck his cigar between his teeth and addressed his shipmate: "Suppose we examine the guns now, Smith."

ABANDON SHIP!

Flashed the Command. But Up on Deck Was Miss Emerson—and the 12-Pounder . . . Whitey stayed behind.

THERE was a terrific crash. The President trembled violently from keel-plate to mast-head. Whitey and Gunner's-mate Smith, scrambling through the fo'c'sle hatch, felt the fine, salt spray cut their faces as the merchantman plunged into a mountainous wave.

"Some gale!" gasped Whitey.

"Oh, she's blowing a little," drawled Gunner's-mate Smith. As a second-hitch Navy man he had a reputation to maintain in the eyes of a mere coal-passer.

The vessel plunged down with a vicious slap. Whitey and Smith scurried up the ladder to the upper-deck just in time to escape being drenched. Feeling their way along the housing of the darkened deck, they made the quarter-deck.

"It's ten minutes before eight bells. Let's see if the 12-pounder is all right," said Whitey eagerly.

"Oh, all right," growled Smith. He pretended a vast indifference, but secretly he was flattered by the young coal-passer's admiration for his gun and envy of his command of her.

Yugoslavia To Make Demands

Assassination Of King To Result In Demands Of Italy And Hungary

By ALFRED TYRNAUER

ZAGREB, Oct. 12.—As a direct result of the assassination of King Alexander, Yugoslavia will demand immediate dissolution of Yugoslavian immigration camps in Italy and Hungary, it was learned from semi-official sources today.

The camps were established to house political exiles and malcontents from Yugoslavia and are not unlike the former concentration camps of the so-called Austrian Nazi Legion in Bavaria.

One camp is located at Placenza in north Italy and another at Sankapustka in Hungary, near the Croatian border.

Croatian officials openly charge the camps are supported financially by Italy and Hungary and point out that the chief in charge of the Italian camp is the former Croatian leader, Dr. Perefec, who was once sentenced to death in Zagreb for his political instigations.

Official confirmation was forthcoming today of the occurrence of anti-Italian demonstrations in Zagreb, Split, Sarajevo and elsewhere during the past two days.

The crowds were dispersed by police acting on direct orders from the government, which is taking extraordinary precautions to prevent recurrences.

ZOO LIONS LIKE OUTDOOR SPORT

PITTSBURGH—The zoo's lions—all five of them—seem to have undergone a transformation since they were taken outdoors the past few weeks.

Jack and Nero celebrate vocally every day, ending their 10-minute roaring contest with a rasp that would chill any amateur Tarzan. Their girl friends—Sheba, Daisy and Cleo—announce their gratitude for the unexpected sunshine in various ways.

Sheba rubs up against the bars to be petted by her keepers. Cleo does the same, in hopes she can snag somebody with a right to the midriff. It took keepers a whole week to coax Daisy back into her cage.

Auto Is Wrecked By Blast, Officer Has Close Call

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—An explosion believed to have resulted from a time bomb blasted the motor and transmission of an automobile here today and almost caused the serious injury of its driver, Patrolman Raymond L. Miller, of Pittsburgh.

Pieces of the mechanism ripped through the floor boards beside Miller and were blown a distance of 25 feet. Neighbors awakened by the blast saw Miller leap from the car, stamp his feet and walk from the scene.

Miller said he thought the clutch, which had been slipping, suddenly let go. He denied the explosion was due to time bomb.

BOUNDARY LINE DETERMINED SUIT

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG—An act of 1878 was invoked to permit prosecution in Dauphin county of Curtis S. Thomas, a transient, charged with having broken into a merchandising freight car at Enola, Cumberland county.

Counsel for the defendant questioned the legality of the indictment in Dauphin county but Hans G. Olson of the Pennsylvania railroad police, proved that the offense was committed within 500 yards of the county boundary line. Under the act of 1878, prosecution may be brought in either county where a felony is committed within 500 yards of the boundary line.

CANDIDATE'S MOTHER IN A PREDICAMENT

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA—Mrs. George H. Earle, 74-year-old mother of the Democratic candidate for governor, found herself in a pretty predicament recently.

On the advice of her attorney who told her that since she had voted Republican in the last election, she would have to register Republican for the November election.

When she appeared at the polls here on one of the three registration days, Mrs. Earle attempted to register Democratic. The registrars were willing to permit the change but a Republican watcher objected strenuously.

Death In Jail Ends Career Of Hungary's 'Robin Hood'

(International News Service)

BUDAPEST—Word that "Peti" was dead spread like wildfire through Hungary, for "Peti" was the modern Robin Hood of this small nation.

Hero of the shockers, Peti Lilliom died. . . . in prison.

Crime never pays, despite the fact that it was done in the interests of the poor people in the district infested by Peti and his gang of Public Enemies No. 1 of Hungary.

Peti, a mild mannered man in his late eighties, had spent 56 years of his life in jail.

But in those years of freedom, while he plundered through the length and breadth of Hungary, he was never known to steal from a poor person. Most of the proceeds from his countless raids went to the poor people of the neighborhood.

Beginning as a cowpuncher, the first one heard of Peti was the time he rode off with a huge herd and never returned to the Hungarian ranch where he was employed.

Peti sold the herd and pocketed the money, later distributing it to the poor that he knew.

During the height of his career as Hungary's Public Enemy No. 1 he kept the Bakony Woods district in terror as head of the notorious Savany gang, a position which he held for several years.

Scores of persons have been killed by this gang and hundreds of merchants waylaid and their money taken from them, but only occasionally was Peti and his crowd charged with the crime.

Even up to the time of his death in jail, Peti boasted that he had never robbed a poor person but had confined his depredatory efforts to the rich and regarded the more fortunate of his fellow countrymen as his victims.

The poor of his district will miss Peti Lilliom, who helped them from the proceeds of his plunder.

GOOD THING THEY DON'T HAVE TO WALK

(International News Service)

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa.—Three girls and two boys who live in the village of Proctor ride 50 miles in a bus each day to attend the South Williamsport high school.

Gladys Brobst, Marie Braker and Eleanor, Philip and Robert Tomlinson figure that they travel approximately 9,000 miles each school year and that they will have travelled nearly 9,000 miles more than a trip around the world by the time they complete their four years at high school.

Jack Crouse, another youth who attends the same school, walks six miles each day.

DRAWING THE LINE.

Outside the house a taxi stopped, and the Jackson family prepared to load it up with their vacation luggage.

"I'm afraid," said the harassed father when he saw the look that came over the driver's face "there's rather a lot of luggage. You see, we're going to a remote part of the country and taking a bungalow."

The driver grimaced.

MAKING SURE

"Let me see," said Lane pensively, "do I owe you any money, old man?"

Long raised inquiring eyebrows.

"Not a penny, old chap," he replied. "Why, are you going round paying off your little debts?"

"Oh, no!" replied Lane quickly. "I was just going round to see if I've overlooked anybody. Lend me $5 till Saturday, will you?"

Prince Bibesco Is Re-Elected

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Prince George Bibesco of Rumania, a pioneer in flying and former pupil of Louis Bleriot, famous French pilot, was re-elected president of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale in convention here.

Rules which allow a president of the organiaztion to serve only one three-year term were suspended to permit the prince's re-election.

JUST HIS SIZE

An angry woman brandished a bunch of newly-cleaned collars in the laundry proprietor's face.

"My husband says if you send his collars back again in this condition he'll come and make a row about it," she stormed.

The laundry proprietor looked a little scared. Then his attitude changed.

"He will, will he?" he said. "Let's see what size collar he takes. Thirteen, eh? All right—tell him to come. I don't mind—I can deal with him."

Doctors Discover Man's Paradise Where Women Do All The Work

(International News Service)

MECHORIC, Jugoslavia—It took a governmental medical commission to do it, but the doctors eventually discovered a man's paradise.

Sent to make a survey through backwoods and mountain sections of Bosnia, the doctors discovered districts where the women do all the work in the fields while the men stay home and knit, do fancy needlework or crochet or loll in the sun.

Another section visited showed similar habits, a bridal couple having been encountered the woman carrying a heavy cask of water while the husband of a few hours ambled along slowly behind her.

The doctors also discovered that in certain parts of the country the children are not weaned from their mothers' breast until they are seven or eight years old. This resulted in the children being extraordinarily weak and losing their teeth at early ages.

Young men in the late twenties and early thirties were found without any teeth, having lost both their first and second sets.

RULING FAVOR LUPEZ

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12.—The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences today had ruled that Lupe Velez, temperamental Mexican film actress, should be paid her claim of $7,500 against Rowland Productions Inc., for alleged breach of contract.

The astonishing thing about most controversies is that anybody should give a darn.

HOLC Probe Is Sure To Come

Corporation Will Probe Charge Employes Have Been Influenced

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12—Investigation of the home owner's Loan Corporation in Pennsylvania passed the stage of speculation and became a reality today with the announcement from Washington that the corporation would probe accusations that employes had been influenced by political considerations in the Keystone State.

In a letter to Sen. David A. Reed, chairman John H. Fahey promised the investigation and subsequent discharge and possible prosecution of employes against whom there was evidence of shady dealings in the discharge of their duties. Reed recently threatened, senate investigation to follow up his charges that Joseph F. Guffey, his Democratic opponent for senate, "was using the corporation in Pennsylvania to his partisan and political advantage."

Fahey asked Reed for "dependable facts" and "specific data" to substantiate his allegations against Guffey and the state HOLC. It was indicated at Reed's office that the information would go to Washington within a few days.

Preceding the Washington action, Attorney Philip E. Hamilton, Beaver Falls fee attorney for the HOLC in Beaver county, charged fraud in the "juggling" of assessments allegedly practiced in the Pittsburgh and Beaver Falls offices. His accusations were denied by Guffey and Ewing Laporte, state HOLC chairman.

HOLC Probe Is Sure To Come

Corporation Will Probe Charge Employes Have Been Influenced

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12—Investigation of the home owner's Loan Corporation in Pennsylvania passed the stage of speculation and became a reality today with the announcement from Washington that the corporation would probe accusations that employes had been influenced by political considerations in the Keystone State.

In a letter to Sen. David A. Reed, chairman John H. Fahey promised the investigation and subsequent discharge and possible prosecution of employes against whom there was evidence of shady dealings in the discharge of their duties. Reed recently threatened, senate investigation to follow up his charges that Joseph F. Guffey, his Democratic opponent for senate, "was using the corporation in Pennsylvania to his partisan and political advantage."

Fahey asked Reed for "dependable facts" and "specific data" to substantiate his allegations against Guffey and the state HOLC. It was indicated at Reed's office that the information would go to Washington within a few days.

Preceding the Washington action, Attorney Philip E. Hamilton, Beaver Falls fee attorney for the HOLC in Beaver county, charged fraud in the "juggling" of assessments allegedly practiced in the Pittsburgh and Beaver Falls offices. His accusations were denied by Guffey and Ewing Laporte, state HOLC chairman.

The 1935 marketing allotment for sugar from beets has been set at about 1,550,000 short tons raw value.

Wirt Reviews Damage Caused By Forest Fires

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12.—Urging tourists, campers and other casual visitors to forest areas to be careful with fire in the woods, George H. Wirt, director, bureau of forest protection of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, stressed the varied damaging effects of forest fires.

"Destruction of standing timber and the loss of life and property, although more easily calculated than other forest fires damage, are not the only important effects of forest fires," Wirt said.

"The numerous seedlings and sprouts on the forest floor, the next generation of the forest, are totally destroyed in most forest fires. "Fires are fatal to young animals of all kinds and even wary veterans of the forest find themselves bewildered and trapped by the heat and glare of forest fires.

"Insectivorous bird life, which is so valuable to agriculture and forestry, is sometimes entirely eliminated from large areas by forest fires.

"Fish life is seriously affected by forest fires. The leachings from wood ashes are poisonous to our because of rises in water temperature during fires, stream flow becomes irregular when forests are destroyed and the natureal stream bank conditions give way to erodnative fish, many are often killed ing gullies, and fish food is destroyed.

"Not least among the effects of fire is the spoiling of scenic beauty. The beauty of certain regions is responsible for bringing to them millions of dollars each year.

"The Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters extends a hearty welcome to sportsmen and tourists and we solicit their cooperation in keeping the woodland heritage free from fire."

Underground Jail Will Hold City's Profane Talkers

(International News Service)

VALDOSTA, Ga.—Lawbreakers who are unable to control profane tongues had best be wary of this vicinity lest they be condemned to the lower regions before Gabriel lifts his horn.

Police have announced plans for an underground cell at local headquarters where prisoners will be confined when they annoy passersby from the above-ground levels with loud and obscene language.

Numerous complaints from citizens to Councilman Noah Langdale, chairman of the police committee, led to the project which will include a thoroughly sound-proofed room. There, prisoners will be kept out of sight as well as of hearing.

Past efforts of authorities to silence obstreperous inmates of the jail have led to violence. The new quarters which will be made by excavating under the present cell block, it was pointed out, will not require any other disciplinary measure.

The blood does not come from the tear ducts, according to physicians who have examined her eyes, but issues from the corner of the eye and flows across the pupil to mingle with actual tears. Tests performed by the physicians so far have given them no clues to work on.

Utility Firms Are Asked For Data On Rates

If Companies Made More Than Six Per Cent Profit Rates Must Be Lowered

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12—The public service commission today began notifying utility companies which made more than a six per cent return last year to reduce rates or show cause for not reducing them.

The action was taken under the commission's decision of April 2 in which it set six per cent as the fair rate of return for utility concerns instead of seven per cent previously allowed.

Fifty companies, including telephone, electric, water, natural and manufactured gas, combination gas and electric and steam heat concerns, were among the first to be notified. November 15 was set as the deadline for filing replies.

Names Withheld.

Names of the companies affected were not made public, it being explained that the action taken today was informal rather than a formal citation to show cause.

All the notices were sent as a result of investigations by the commission of 1933 earning reports. In the letters to the various companies, the commission said it "has made a study of the rate of return earned by your company for the year 1933, based upon the annual report and data available to it, and finds that its earnings for that year appear to have been substantially in excess of six per cent."

Mystery Figure Enters Probe Of Assassinations

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Oct. 12.—A mysterious figure known only as "Little Hans" entered the sweeping investigation into the Marseilles assassinations today as French police wrested admissions from two men held at Annemasse that they were members of the same organization as the murderer of King Alexander.

Ladislas Benes, arrested with Jaroslav Novak at Annemasse when they tried to cross the border into Switzerland, told of this shadowy figure in the course of searching examination by police with continued throughout the night.

This information gave authorities the first clue to the man who may prove to be responsible for the forging of passports which enabled Benes and Novak, as well as Petrus Kalemen, the assassin himself, to enter France.

Gradually breaking down the resistance of the two suspects, French police became satisfied that a definite plot had been formulated by Croatian emigres to assassinate Alexander while he was in France, and that Benes and Novak had some part to play.

Novak said he had obtained his passport in Zurich, Switzerland, from "Little Hans," and entered France by way of Lausanne and Evian-Lesbains in September 22. Police believe "Little Hans" is one of the chieftains of the Oustachi, Croatian extremist organization, and that Novak was scheduled to report to him.

Utility Firms Are Asked For Data On Rates

If Companies Made More Than Six Per Cent Profit Rates Must Be Lowered

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12—The public service commission today began notifying utility companies which made more than a six per cent return last year to reduce rates or show cause for not reducing them.

The action was taken under the commission's decision of April 2 in which it set six per cent as the fair rate of return for utility concerns instead of seven per cent previously allowed.

Fifty companies, including telephone, electric, water, natural and manufactured gas, combination gas and electric and steam heat concerns, were among the first to be notified. November 15 was set as the deadline for filing replies.

Names Withheld.

Names of the companies affected were not made public, it being explained that the action taken today was informal rather than a formal citation to show cause.

All the notices were sent as a result of investigations by the commission of 1933 earning reports. In the letters to the various companies, the commission said it "has made a study of the rate of return earned by your company for the year 1933, based upon the annual report and data available to it, and finds that its earnings for that year appear to have been substantially in excess of six per cent."

Mystery Figure Enters Probe Of Assassinations

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Oct. 12.—A mysterious figure known only as "Little Hans" entered the sweeping invesigation into the Marseilles assassinations today as French police wrested admissions from two men held at Annemasse that they were members of the same organization as the murderer of King Alexander.

Ladislas Benes, arrested with Jaroslav Novak at Annemasse when they tried to cross the border into Switzerland, told of this shadowy figure in the course of searching examination by police with continued throughout the night.

This information gave authorities the first clue to the man who may prove to be responsible for the forging of passports which enabled Benes and Novak, as well as Petrus Kalemen, the assassin himself, to enter France.

Gradually breaking down the resistance of the two suspects, French police became satisfied that a definite plot had been formulated by Croatian emigres to assassinate Alexander while he was in France, and that Benes and Novak had some part to play.

Novak said he had obtained his passport in Zurich, Switzerland, from "Little Hans," and entered France by way of Lausanne and Evian-Lesbains in September 22. Police believe "Little Hans" is one of the chieftains of the Oustachi, Croatian extremist organization, and that Novak was scheduled to report to him.

ABANDON SHIP!

by Arthur Styron

Flashed the Command. But Up on Deck Was Miss Emerson—and the 12-Pounder . . . Whitey stayed behind.

Illustrated by STIRLING HILL

As the President steadied between two seas, Whitey took aim and pressed the firing key.

THERE was a terrific crash. The President trembled violently from keel-plate to mast-head. Whitey and Gunner's-mate Smith, scrambling through the fo'c'sle hatch, felt the fine, salt spray cut their faces as the merchantman plunged into a mountainous wave.

"Some gale!" gasped Whitey.

"Oh, she's blowing a little," drawled Gunner's-mate Smith. As a second-hitch Navy man he had a reputation to maintain in the eyes of a mere coal-passer.

The vessel plunged down with a vicious slap. Whitey and Smith scurried up the ladder to the upper-deck just in time to escape being drenched. Feeling their way along the housing of the darkened deck, they made the quarter-deck.

"It's ten minutes before eight bells. Let's see if the 12-pounder is all right," said Whitey eagerly.

"Oh, all right," growled Smith. He pretended a vast indifference, but secretly he was flattered by the young coal-passer's admiration for his gun and envy of his command of her.

Whitey gazed with speechless admiration as Gunner's-mate Smith threw off the tarpaulin covering and tested the mechanism of his new breech-loading 12-pounder. When war was declared against Germany he had dreamt continually, with the natural longing of a sixteen-year-old farm boy for the sea, of enlisting in the Navy; but when his father had persisted in withholding his consent which the Navy required, Whitey had had to content himself with running away and shipping out of Norfolk as a coal-passer on the President, bound for an unknown foreign port with a cargo of grain and a small contingent of five-hundred troops and fifty Red Cross nurses.

The President was a single-screw tramp of less than five-thousand tons, whose bluff bows, wall sides and stumpy masts gave her a business-like, if unbeautiful, appearance. It was the early winter of 1917, before the elaborate convoy system that later prevailed had been fully organized and put into operation, and each ship was provided only with an armed guard in case of attack. The President, therefore, had been hastily supplied with a new 12-pounder and a gun crew of eight gobs, in charge of Gunner's-mate Smith, to man her.

Whitey was a willing worker and friendly, and he was soon popular with the blackgang below deck; but his heart was with the Navy lads and their gun, and he spent his waking hours of liberty on the quarter-deck, until he knew every detail of the handling of the 12-pounder as well as the gun-captain himself.

"I'VE got a hunch," said Whitney after watching his friend manipulate the breech-lock for a while, "that something's going to happen tonight."

"Something is happening," said Gunner's-mate Smith.

"I mean something real," said Whitey, with a regular sailorman's contempt of the elements. "I feel it in my bones."

"Rheumatism," explained Smith laconically. "Shoveling coal does that."

"Go to hell. Maybe we'll meet a submarine."

"No chance," said Smith. "We're still in mid-ocean; subs can't cruise this far out."

"It's nine days since we left Norfolk. We ought to be pretty close to Ireland—"

"We've been zig-zagging. Even when we get to the danger-zone, we'll have a convoy of destroyers from Brest or Queenstown tagging after us, so there won't be any chance of a U-boat attack." Smith's tone was full of grief. "Hell, I'd like to take a pot-shot at one of those iron-men."

"I would too," said Whitey enthusiastically.

Whitey sighed. "Guess I will."

OUT of the gloom on the quarter-deck appeared a tall, slender figure swathed in a long cape, stepping lightly. Whitey knew it was Miss Emerson taking her evening walk.

In his mind, Whitey was somewhat confused as to which was the more beautiful—Miss Emerson in her blue nurse's uniform, or the new 12-pounder.

In a way, the two were inextricably associated; for Miss Emerson, too, admired the 12-pounder, and always in her walks stopped to admire the gun and talk with the boys about it.

A sea struck the President abeam: the bridge tarpaulins rattled applause, and the ship rolled with a sudden lurch. Smith put out his hand to steady the nurse. Mumbling something about having to go on watch, Whitey fled and stumbled through the nearest hatch. It was dam' familiar of Smith to put his paw on her like that.

He felt better when he had relieved his watch and fallen to work with his shovel. He began to sing in a hoarse, somewhat uncertain voice.

"Here, sailor, straighten your necktie and fall to." The ship's cook, bearing a huge pail of hot, black coffee, and a slat-basket of sandwiches, entered the bunker.

Whitey was in the act of dipping a second helping of coffee when there was a violent crash—immediately followed by the sound of ripping steel and timbers. The ship lurched heavily, throwing both men to the deck.

"What a sea," cried Whitey.

"Sea my eye!" gasped the cook, not noticing he was drenched with coffee. "Something must have hit us . . . "

The sudden calm that ensued, broken as it was only by the throb of the engines and the swish of water against the hull was ghastly. The ship still quivered from the impact.

From somewhere there was the faint, ghostly sound of running feet. Then—a harsh clanging of bells—the weird wailing of a siren. General Quarters! Whitey's thoughts immediately concentrated on his hunch. A U-boat had attacked the ship!

The President was now alive with activity. There were sounds of men running, the harsh clang of metal as water-tight doors were slammed and secured.

Then another sound came to the solitary young coal-passer in the bunker: a series of nearby minor explosions. Whitey recognized immediately what it was—the 12-pounder was speaking. Tears of excitement and disappointment came into Whitey's eyes: he began to shovel coal desperately to restrain himself from rushing above deck.

A sinister noise, like the soft hissing of a rattle-snake, obtruded itself into his consciousness. Whitey, glancing aft, saw a small stream of water swirling over the deck, as the shrill sound of the siren, followed by the muffled notes of a bugle, came down to him.

Abandon Ship!

The black gang began leaving their stations on the double. "Come on, Whitey, she's sinking!" called out an oiler.

By the time Whitey had reached the main deck, the President had lost all headway and was wallowing helplessly in the trough. Morning was breaking, and in the faint light he could just distinguish a vague, writhing mass a few hundred yards off the starboard bow. A ship—probably a German raider—had rammed the President and then opened fire.

Suddenly he remembered: Miss Emerson!

The last life-boat had already been swung over on its davits; only the rafts were left for the crew. Silent men, like wraiths in the semi-darkness, were running to their stations. Whitey, turning to retrace his steps aft where the cabins lay, collided with a sailor.

"Hey!" gasped the man. "Where you going?"

"I've got to rescue a lady!" gasped Whitey.

"Now what do you think of that!" said Gunner's-mate Smith. "With a war going on too," said Whitey loftily.

HE knew the cabin Miss Emerson had occupied with three other nurses. Had he not often found excuses to walk by her port-hole hoping to get a glimpse of her? In a few moments he was there. The cabin was empty. Miss Emerson was already saved!

Gulping down his disappointment, Whitey started forward—when he caught sight of the 12-pounder, her muzzle pointed proudly upward—alone and abandoned.

The next instant the illuminating idea came to him. Perhaps it would be something to remember as long as he lived. And if he did not live, he would have the consolation of knowing he had done something.

In thirty seconds Whitey had reached the gun and was throwing out the exploded cap. Another thirty seconds—and he had found a live projectile, thrust it home, and screwed in the breech-plug. Squinting through the telescope, he carefully trained and pointed the 12-pounder. Having observed that the stricken ship was abandoned and sinking, the raider was now getting rapidly under way. There was not a moment to be lost.

As the President steadied between two seas, Whitey took careful aim and pressed the firing key. There was a sharp report, and a thin wisp of smoke was quickly dissipated by the wind. The missile hurtled through the air; the next instant there was a sharp explosion at the stern of the disappearing raider. He had scored a hit!

The Germans—who had ceased firing when they saw the merchantman being abandoned—answered at once. A shell pierced the merchantman's side forward. Giving a wild whoop, Whitey rushed to the railing and prepared to dive off the stern. A faint cry told him the direction of the nearest raft. Strong arms helped drag him out of the sea.

"You dam' fool," hissed a burly sailor, "what made you fire that gun? Now they'll think we're a Q-ship and shell our life-boats." Whitey recognized the voice of Gunner's-mate Smith!

The Germans' fire, however, did not last long. Even before they had lost sight of the President, that gallant little vessel threw her bow high in the air and settled quietly to her grave beneath the stormy waves.

After a long silence Smith again spoke to Whitey. "That was me you collided with on the deck. . . . Did you go back just to fire that gun?"

"Maybe," said Whitey. Then he asked: "Did Miss Emerson get away all right?"

Smith gave him a keen look. "The women left in the first lifeboats, of course. I myself looked after Miss Emerson."

DAY came with a dreadful shrieking of the elements, and the shipwrecked men were compelled to cling to the life-lines with all their strength to keep from being washed off the raft as wave after wave struck them. Towards noon, however, when they were so exhausted that they could not have endured it much longer, the gale suddenly began to subside, and in a few hours the sea was only choppy and rough. About eight bells the sun appeared fitfully. The ship's officer in command of the raft broke out the water-breaker and distributed a scant ration, and the tired men relaxed for a little rest.

It must have been about four bells when the sound of distant firing became audible. For a full minute the men on the raft remained silent and tense, as if afraid their ears were deceiving them. Then, as the firing continued, they became suddenly alert.

The officer gave a faint whoop. "Hurrah! The patrol ships must have got our SOS!"

"There's fighting, so there must be an Allied ship!" cried Smith.

The officer was eagerly searching in the strong-box always kept lashed to each life-boat. "We'll give them a Very signal to let them know we're here."

The next moment he had fired the Very pistol, sending a rocket speeding into the lowering sky to burst aloft into fiery spray. "No use wasting another one right now—they can't come while they're engaged. We'll shoot one when the firing stops."

It was now almost dark, and two more precious rockets had been fired. Then—the eager ears of the men detected the unmistakable churn of swift propellers. Almost immediately the thin, pencil-like beam of a searchlight began to play on the turbulent waters. The men raised a mighty shout, and the officer fired a rocket—his last one.

But it was enough. Through the twilight the prow of a richly camouflaged vessel could be seen slowly bearing down upon them. No distinguishing ensign fluttered from the mast, but the contour of an American destroyer could be plainly recognized.

"Water — grub — smokes!" the survivors were thinking.

"I'm in the Navy now!" Whitey was gloating.

THE next morning as Whitey was disposing of ham and eggs in the fo'c'sle, a messenger came in to say that the Captain wanted to see him. The crew were still talking about their adventure, but by now Whitey had heard everything that had happened—how the President's SOS had been picked up by a division of three destroyers sent out from Queenstown to hunt a German cruiser that had broken through the Grand Fleet blockade in the North Sea and was raiding Allied shipping—how they had picked up most of the scattered lifeboats and then had suddenly come upon the raider itself which, for some unknown reason, had made no effort to escape and had surrendered after the exchange of a few shots—and how one of the destroyers was standing by the prize while the other two hunted the remaining survivors.

When Whitey entered the cabin he found the President's captain and Gunner's-mate Smith talking with the skipper of the destroyer. The latter gravely motioned Whitey to be seated.

"I understand, White, that you fired a shot at the raider after the President had been abandoned?"

Whitey glanced at Gunner's-mate Smith. So Smith had betrayed him! The gob was grinning broadly. "Yes sir," Whitey answered.

The skipper cleared his throat. "Are you aware that you damaged her rudder and propellers so that she could not get away, thus enabling us to capture her?"

"It must have been Whitey's shot, sir," interrupted Smith eagerly, "because we hadn't scored a single hit, and the raider was underway when we abandoned ship."

"Well, Whitey?" asked the skipper.

So that was it, thought Whitey. By sheer accident he had been the agent of capturing this prize!

WHITEY was not dumb. "I waited till she pitched and her propellers cleared the water, sir, and then I took careful aim."

The skipper smiled. "That was remarkable shooting, Whitey," he said. He looked the boy over carefully. "I see that you're wearing a Navy uniform. How'd you like to wear it all the time?"

"Well, you see, sir, I'm—" he couldn't say 'only sixteen' with Smith's eye fixed on him "—I'm a little under age, and my father wouldn't give his consent."

"We'll fix that," said the skipper. "I'll radio to America and get his permission, and enlist you here on the destroyer. I'm requesting that Gunner's-mate Smith and his crew be ordered here, too!"

"Can I be in a gun crew, sir?"

The skipper spoke carefully. "I certainly think that's the place for you."

"Thank you, sir."

"Will you have a cigaret?" asked the skipper.

"No thank you, sir, I don't smoke—." A glance at Smith's face made him realize his mistake which he amended by adding "cigarets. But if I could have a cigar—"

"Certainly," said the surprised officer.

Whitey saluted smartly and left the cabin, followed by a chastened gunner's-mate. "Well, of all the crust—" he was beginning, when he had to pause to give gangway to an approaching couple—a junior Naval officer with gold braid on his sleeves, and a tall young woman wearing a blue cape lined with red. Miss Emerson!

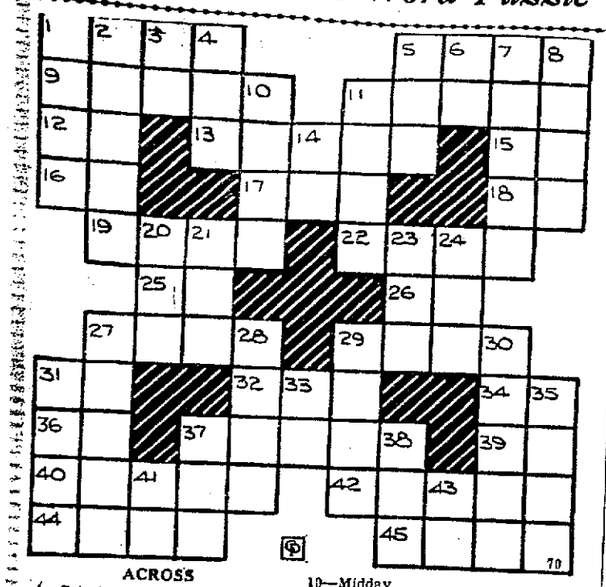

"Now what do you think of that!" said Gunner's-mate Smith.

"With a war going on, too," said Whitey loftily in the voice of a man dismissing mere trivialities forever from his life. Frowning deeply, he stuck his cigar between his teeth and addressed his shipmate: "Suppose we examine the guns now, Smith."

HOLC Probe Is Sure To Come

Corporation Will Probe Charge Employes Have Been Influenced

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12—Investigation of the home owner's Loan Corporation in Pennsylvania passed the stage of speculation and became a reality today with the announcement from Washington that the corporation would probe accusations that employes had been influenced by political considerations in the Keystone State.

In a letter to Sen. David A. Reed, chairman John H. Fahey promised the investigation and subsequent discharge and possible prosecution of employes against whom there was evidence of shady dealings in the discharge of their duties. Reed recently threatened, senate investigation to follow up his charges that Joseph F. Guffey, his Democratic opponent for senate, "was using the corporation in Pennsylvania to his partisan and political advantage."

Fahey asked Reed for "dependable facts" and "specific data" to substantiate his allegations against Guffey and the state HOLC. It was indicated at Reed's office that the information would go to Washington within a few days.

Preceding the Washington action, Attorney Philip E. Hamilton, Beaver Falls fee attorney for the HOLC in Beaver county, charged fraud in the "juggling" of assessments allegedly practiced in the Pittsburgh and Beaver Falls offices. His accusations were denied by Guffey and Ewing Laporte, state HOLC chairman.

It was claimed that Cunningham, who is past 80 years of age, could not see very well and that the brakes on his car were not good. The jury retired Thursday evening, reached a verdict about 6o'clock and delivered it when court convened this morning.

Mother Of Ten Children Dies Suicide Victim

Woman Fashions Crude Gallows And Hangs Herself In Home Near Philadelphia

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Believed to have been driven to her act by prolonged illness, Mrs. Esther Gross, 49-year-old mother of ten children, strangled herself to death Thursday in an ingenious manner, according o police.

The woman's body, a crocheted cord and a Turkish towel wound tightly around her neck, was found by her husband, Abraham, at the foot of a staircase in their Overbrook home.

She had seated herself on the bottom stair, tied the cord about her neck and attached the towel to the newel post in such a fashion as to encircle her neck by the loop. Pulling the cord, she fell forward. The noose of the towel caught her and she was strangled to death, police said.

The woman's husband told detectives his wife had been ill for ten years and that recently a physician advised the family that her nerves were in such a distraught state that she should not be left alone at any moment.

Mr. and Mrs. Gross lived in the Overbrook home with six unmarried children.

Retirement Act Under Question

Railroad Retirement Act Is Questioned As To Constitutionality

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Constitutionality of the railroad retirement act was questioned again in the District of Columbia supreme court Thursday by a group of 150 railroads.

In a prior attack on the act, which the railroads say will cost them $60,000,000 a year for the first five years, with gradually increasing costs, Justice Letts held that because of the small amount of money that would be assessed against the individual carriers, there was not a sufficient showing of "irreparable" injury to entitle them to a preliminary injunction.

In the present case the railroads are seeking a temporary injunction which would have the effect of forestalling payment into the United States treasury of the amount of money each carrier is to be called upon to pay to insure payment of old age pensions to their employes.

Chief among the contentions of the carriers is their charge that 20 per cent of their employes who are covered by the "social legislation" are white-collar workers who are not engaged in interstate commerce work and are not therefore subject to national legislation.

Dieters Are Served Miniature Luncheon

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 12.—Mrs. C. L. Peirce, Jr., re-elected president of the Woman's City club, tells a story on some of her dieting friends—some who dieted verbally, but enjoyed their food pretty much, even so. One of the group who were bridge players and met weekly, in a joking mood, served them a bridge luncheon planned as she might have, had the dieting been done conscientiously.

She served it in her children's playroom, at the small table the youngsters used. The bullion was served in dolls' tea cups; the ices in liqueur glasses. The meat was the tiny center of a lamb chop, and the potatoes were potato balls. She selected the tiniest tomatoes possible, and stuffed them, and the biscuits were cut with a thimble.

Finds Worm Farm Is Way To Profit

(International News Service)

PRAGUE, Oct. 12—Czechoslovakia fishermen have found it hard to get worms for bait this year, owing to the drought. So an angler at Brno (Moravia) has provided himself with a profitable business by establishing a worm farm for his fellows of the rod and line.

Worms are supplied in tins containing their original earth. They are guaranteed to remain alive and wiggling for one month.

Orth Sees Smaller Post Graduate Roll As Favorable Sign

Only 78 This Year As Compared With 240 In 1932; Many In Colleges

The sharp drop in post graduate students at Senior high school this fall leads Principal F. L. Orth to believe that the economic horizon here is brighter.

Pointing out that only 78 "P. G's" are enrolled this term as compared to a peak of 240 in the spring of 1932, Principal Orth declares that "it must show that many have found jobs or else are in colleges."

Money—hard cash—is more plentiful among the students this year, Mr. Orth reports. He drew a contrast between today and a year ago.

"Our cafeteria business is better, and when we ask students to set aside locker reservation money, they seem to have it. It was a different story a year ago," he commented.

Studying as post graduates this semester are 43 boys and 35 girls.

The principal is inclined to conclude that "a large percentage of the one-time "P. G." students are in college now, completed their depression-interupted higher education.

(International News Service)

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Captain A. V. West, of the motor tanker Stourgate, has probably the most watchful personal guardian angel in the world—at least he declares he has ample reason for that belief.

During a recent electrical storm, the skipper was standing in the doorway of an inn at Ramsgate when a flash of lightning struck him to the ground. He was picked up dazed, but absolutely unhurt, and it was discovered that the lightning had burned the celluloid back of his collar-button; burned a hole in his shirt; burned the elastic of his suspenders in two and melted the metal buckles of his suspenders.

The idea isn't new. The government has always seemed opposed to price-cutting when it bought anything.

Mother Of Ten Children Dies Suicide Victim

Woman Fashions Crude Gallows And Hangs Herself In Home Near Philadelphia

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Believed to have been driven to her act by prolonged illness, Mrs. Esther Gross, 49-year-old mother of ten children, strangled herself to death Thursday in an ingenious manner, according o police.

The woman's body, a crocheted cord and a Turkish towel wound tightly around her neck, was found by her husband, Abraham, at the foot of a staircase in their Overbrook home.

She had seated herself on the bottom stair, tied the cord about her neck and attached the towel to the newel post in such a fashion as to encircle her neck by the loop. Pulling the cord, she fell forward. The noose of the towel caught her and she was strangled to death, police said.

The woman's husband told detectives his wife had been ill for ten years and that recently a physician advised the family that her nerves were in such a distraught state that she should not be left alone at any moment.

Mr. and Mrs. Gross lived in the Overbrook home with six unmarried children.

Retirement Act Under Question

Railroad Retirement Act Is Questioned As To Constitutionality

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Constitutionality of the railroad retirement act was questioned again in the District of Columbia supreme court Thursday by a group of 150 railroads.

In a prior attack on the act, which the railroads say will cost them $60,000,000 a year for the first five years, with gradually increasing costs, Justice Letts held that because of the small amount of money that would be assessed against the individual carriers, there was not a sufficient showing of "irreparable" injury to entitle them to a preliminary injunction.

In the present case the railroads are seeking a temporary injunction which would have the effect of forestalling payment into the United States treasury of the amount of money each carrier is to be called upon to pay to insure payment of old age pensions to their employes.

Chief among the contentions of the carriers is their charge that 20 per cent of their employes who are covered by the "social legislation" are white-collar workers who are not engaged in interstate commerce work and are not therefore subject to national legislation.

Dieters Are Served Miniature Luncheon

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 12.—Mrs. C. L. Peirce, Jr., re-elcted president of the Woman's City club, tells a story on some of her dieting friends—some who dieted verbally, but enjoyed their food pretty much, even so. One of the group who were bridge players and met weekly, in a joking mood, served them a bridge luncheon planned as she might have, had the dieting been done conscientiously.

She served it in her children's playroom, at the small table the youngsters used. The bullion was served in dolls' tea cups; the ices in liqueur glasses. The meat was the tiny center of a lamb chop, and the potatoes were potato balls. She selected the tiniest tomatoes possible, and stuffed them, and the biscuits were cut with a thimble.

Finds Worm Farm Is Way To Profit

(International News Service)

PRAGUE, Oct. 12—Czechoslovakia fishermen have found it hard to get worms for bait this year, owing to the drought. So an angler at Brno (Moravia) has provided himself with a profitable business by establishing a worm farm for his fellows of the rod and line.

Worms are supplied in tins containing their original earth. They are guaranteed to remain alive and wiggling for one month.

Orth Sees Smaller Post Graduate Roll As Favorable Sign

Only 78 This Year As Compared With 240 In 1932; Many In Colleges

The sharp drop in post graduate students at Senior high school this fall leads Principal F. L. Orth to believe that the economic horizon here is brighter.

Pointing out that only 78 "P. G's" are enrolled this term as compared to a peak of 240 in the spring of 1932, Principal Orth declares that "it must show that many have found jobs or else are in colleges."

Money—hard cash—is more plentiful among the students this year, Mr. Orth reports. He drew a contrast between today and a year ago. "Our cafeteria business is better, and when we ask students to set aside locker reservation money, they seem to have it. It was a different story a year ago," he commented.

Studying as post graduates this semester are 43 boys and 35 girls.

Wirt Reviews Damage Caused By Forest Fires

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12.—Urging tourists, campers and other casual visitors to forest areas to be careful with fire in the woods, George H. Wirt, director, bureau of forest protection of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, stressed the varied damaging effects of forest fires.

"Destruction of standing timber and the loss of life and property, although more easily calculated than other forest fires damage, are not the only important effects of forest fires," Wirt said.

"The numerous seedlings and sprouts on the forest floor, the next generation of the forest, are totally destroyed in most forest fires. "Fires are fatal to young animals of all kinds and even wary veterans of the forest find themselves bewildered and trapped by the heat and glare of forest fires.

"Insectivorous bird life, which is so valuable to agriculture and forestry, is sometimes entirely eliminated from large areas by forest fires.

"Fish life is seriously affected by forest fires. The leachings from wood ashes are poisonous to our because of rises in water temperature during fires, stream flow becomes irregular when forests are destroyed and the natureal stream bank conditions give way to erodnative fish, many are often killed ing gullies, and fish food is destroyed.

"Not least among the effects of fire is the spoiling of scenic beauty. The beauty of certain regions is responsible for bringing to them millions of dollars each year.

"The Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters extends a hearty welcome to sportsmen and tourists and we solicit their cooperation in keeping the woodland heritage free from fire."

PRIEST DISROBED FOR TOMB DESECRATION

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST — The Reverend Theodore Postolesco, vicar of the church of Sarata-Bahnaseni in northern Rumania, has been ousted from office because of his stinginess.

He planted cabbages, turnips, garlic and onions between the graves of his deceased parishioners for his personal use, and allowed his cattle to graze in the churchyard, playing havoc with the flowers on the graves.

The village elders complained but with no result. Ultimately they lodged a protest with the Synod of the Greek-Orthodox-Church. The priest was found guilty of tomb desecration and disrobed.

Underground Jail Will Hold City's Profane Talkers

(International News Service)

VALDOSTA, Ga.—Lawbreakers who are unable to control profane tongues had best be wary of this vicinity lest they be condemned to the lower regions before Gabriel lifts his horn.

Police have announced plans for an underground cell at local headquarters where prisoners will be confined when they annoy passersby from the above-ground levels with loud and obscene language.

Numerous complaints from citizens to Councilman Noah Langdale, chairman of the police committee, led to the project which will include a thoroughly sound-proofed room. There, prisoners will be kept out of sight as well as of hearing.

Past efforts of authorities to silence obstreperous inmates of the jail have led to violence. The new quarters which will be made by excavating under the present cell block, it was pointed out, will not require any other disciplinary measure.

Doctors Baffled By 'Tears Of Blood'

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Physicians at General hospital here are baffled by the case of a 28-year-old woman who weeps tears of blood. The phenomenon, unique in the annals of medical science, occurs once a day, usually in the evening.

The woman, Mrs. Eula Santa Maria, sheds tears of a substance which tests have shown to be blood. About ten cubic centimeters issue from her eyes each day. The use of ice packs and medicine stops the flow, but it occurs again the next day.

The blood does not come from the tear ducts, according to physicians who have examined her eyes, but issues from the corner of the eye and flows across the pupil to mingle with actual tears. Tests performed by the physicians so far have given them no clues to work on.

New Castle Set For Washington

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh Has New Castle Team Ready For Class AA Game

RED AND BLACK OUT FOR VICTORY

New Castle high school football team will go to Washington, Pa., Saturday morning to battle with the Cox coached Washington high eleven in the second class AA conference game on the 1934 program. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

The 1933 class AA champions were ready for a gruelling game tomorrow afternoon. Washington high is undefeated this year and sporting one of the toughest teams that they have had for quite a few years. Last week the Little Presidents defeated Clairton high 6 0 in a class AA game.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh will give the New Castles a final polishing this afternoon and be ready to board the big busses tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock bound for the fifth game on the current card.

Hope For Victory.

The setback suffered at the hands of the Johnstown team last Saturday has only whetted the local appetites all the more. New Castle will probably redeem itself Saturday against Washington with a fine exhibition.

All of the locals are in fine shape for the Washington game, with Raskowski, the hard working captain, back in the fold after being out a few days with a "charley-horse". Fleming has recovered from the Johnstown game and will be rarin' for action Saturday.

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner will be in charge of the New Castle high team on their trip to Washington. A squad of about 25 will be taken by Bridenbaugh.

Alec and Fred Shellogg, the veteran tackles of the New Castle high school football team, have been granted permission to rejoin the squad and will probably make the trip to Washington with the "Red Hurricane".

Slippery Rock All Set For Alumni Fete On Saturday

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., Oct. 12.—Thousands of prodigal pedagogues will feast on fatted calf at the big alumni home-coming at Slippery Rock State Teachers' college on Saturday.

At 2 p. m. Bill Amos' tide of Crimson warriors from Grove City College will endeavor to inundate the Slippery Rock Green and White eleven in a grid battle royal.

Then comes the ox roast on the college campus. During the ox munching the alumni diners will be entertained with dances, music, specialty numbers and tumbling by members of the present student body.

As the grand finale two orchestras will produce music for dancing in both college gymnasiums.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—With the echo of last Saturday's violent detonations still ringing in its outraged ears, intercollegiate football will go into another and bigger day tomorrow, the South and middle west absorbing the major impact. The far west hasn't too-much—Oregon versus Washington and Stanford versus Northwestern. The East has practically nothing at all except Pitt and Southern California, a Rose Bowl event that stepped on its own necktie when U. S. C. was beaten three touchdowns by Washington state.

But the other two sections are virtually out of control with in the words of the college correspondent, hallowed opponent playing traditional rival all over the greensward or, in fewer words, the joint.

Michigan Vs Chicago

There is, for example, the game between Michigan and Chicago in the mid west and the game between Duke and Georgia Tech in the South. Also Illinois versus Ohio state, Nebraska versus Iowa, Notre Dame versus Purdue and Michigan State versus Carnegie Tech in one section and Louisiana State versus Alabama Poly, Rice versus Southern Methodist Texas versus Oklahoma and A. & M. versus entenary in the other.

No two ways about it, these sections believe in immediate results. They don't spar around waiting for an opening. They collide first and find out about it afterward.

Trojans Favored

There will be quite a collision at Pittsburgh where the Pitt boys have assembled their usual share of good, Harry deckhands, prepared to repel the invasion from the coast. In ordinary times, this would be the game of the day, the month and perhaps the year but U. S. C. seems a little weak in the positions where it needs strength for the system it employs and it blew a ball game last Saturday to Washington State without the slightest vestige of trouble.

Nevertheless, I think all the proof is on Pitt and, if it does better than a tie after Southern California's superior preparation, I'll be surprised.

Michigan ought to have enough for Chicago. Still fighting its way out of a new system. As for Illinois, it's supposed to be good but Ohio State must be, considering its clean up of Indiana. You can call this one any way you want, but I'll take the Buckeye Notre Dame and Purdue. I think Notre Dame may have enough this time.

At the same time, Notre Dame's conqueror, Texas, is going to take that long train ride back home and then get ready for Oklahoma. In a case like that, I'll let Texas take

CHET WYNNE
By JACK SORDS

CHET WYNNE, new coach at the University of Kentucky, a native of Long Island, Kas., is a product of Notre Dame. While at Notre Dame, 1920-1922, he was a noted fullback.

He was known as Rockne's favorite pupil because, during the coaching schools which Rockne conducted, the Old Master always called on Wynne to demonstrate the correct manner of carrying the ball, stiff-arming, dodging, blocking and tackling. He was a member of the celebrated Notre Dame backfield which included George Gipp.

Since his graduation Wynne has developed most of his time to football coaching. His first job was with Midland college, Nebraska, later going to Creighton university as coach and athletic director. His Creighton team won the Missouri Valley conference championship. Wynne then went to Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Wynne improved the Plainsmen so rapidly that in his third year as coach he developed a team which won the co-championship of the Southeastern conference.

Wynne came to Kentucky last spring to succeed Harry Gamage as head coach. He also was elected athletic director.

Women Golfers Seeking Crown

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—With four of the nation's leading feminine golfers still in the running, the 22nd annual Berthellyn tournament today moved into its semi-final round at the Huntingdon Valley Country club.

In the opening match of the semi-finals, Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Jr., who before her marriage two years ago had worn the national women's crown five times, faces stern opposition in Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Herd, Merion.

Edith Quier, Huntingdon Valley, who was co-medalist with Mrs. Vare on Monday, meets Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, Wis., in the semi-final.

Success is easy. You just learn what the people will pay for and then learn how to do it.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Fights and wrestling bouts usually follow the world series and this season it is true of the Pittsburgh section. In the Northside arena, a battler who is known here will take on Johnny Durso. He is Mickie Duris, who boxed Phil Goldstein and Paris Cangey in this city. Another lad who strutted his wares here will oppose Dominic Mancini. He is Jimmy Dean of Erie. Next Thursday wrestling will be featured in Pittsburgh where the grapplers would like to obtain a firm hold. Sandor Szabo, Hungarian, will take on Frank Brunowicz, a Pole.

W. H. Scott, owned by E. C. Moon of Mercer and driven by Jesse Smith fell at the last turn and John Dean, owned and driven by Fred Killmeyer of Pittsburgh, was too close and was thrown, as was Guy Putney, driven by George Reynolds at Waynesburg track in a harness evnt yesterday. Smith suffered a broken shoulder and Killmeyer a broken collar bone. W. H. Scott, driven by Smith, sustained an injured leg and could not continue the race. In the first event Col Drew won the 2:23 pace by taking two heats in 2:10. Mountaineer Direct won the 2:17 pace in 2:07½, and in the 2:12 trot, Lulu W won the first two heats and race.

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 12—Forward pass defense, and a shifting of linemen to cope with the low-charging Edinboro forward wall have occupied the Westminster College gridders this week. Coaches Bill and Tom Gilbane will take the squad to Edinboro tomorrow morning for the contest.

Plans made for the trip include leaving here at 9:15 tomorrow morning, stopping at Meadville for lunch at 10:30, and leaving Meadville for Edinboro at 11:30. The game with the Teachers will take place at 2 o'clock.

A squad of 28 players will probably make the trip. Don Helmick will probably start at center, while Lou Franklin, regular center for three years, will see action at a tackle post. All members of the squad are available for the game, but Sweeney, Franklin and Mintz are all suffering bruises and injuries which may slow them up.

Following tomorrow's game with Edinboro, the Titans will be spending their energies toward perfecting a defense to stop Thiel in the home-coming day game here October 20. Jack Stoeber's Lutherans, after defeating Geneva, 12-7. look to be one of the strongest teams in the district.

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 12—Forward pass defense, and a shifting of linemen to cope with the low-charging Edinboro forward wall have occupied the Westminster College gridders this week. Coaches Bill and Tom Gilbane will take the squad to Edinboro tomorrow morning for the contest.

Plans made for the trip include leaving here at 9:15 tomorrow morning, stopping at Meadville for lunch at 10:30, and leaving Meadville for Edinboro at 11:30. The game with the Teachers will take place at 2 o'clock.

A squad of 28 players will probably make the trip. Don Helmick will probably start at center, while Lou Franklin, regular center for three years, will see action at a tackle post. All members of the squad are available for the game, but Sweeney, Franklin and Mintz are all suffering bruises and injuries which may slow them up.

Following tomorrow's game with Edinboro, the Titans will be spending their energies toward perfecting a defense to stop Thiel in the home-coming day game here October 20. Jack Stoeber's Lutherans, after defeating Geneva, 12-7, look to be one of the strongest teams in the district.

WANT WARMTH WITHOUT WEIGHT?

It's here in a KNIT-TEX TOPCOAT

America's favorite topcoat is actually a "ten-months-a-year" coat. So warm and fleecy that men find they are coat enough for any except the most severe winter days. Yet so light in weight that you see them everywhere in mild weather and on the cooler evenings in summer. Knit-tex topcoats are still—after 20 years—"light as a feather, warm as toast, soft as velvet". See them in this season's smartest styles, patterns and colors.

Utility Firms Are Asked For Data On Rates

If Companies Made More Than Six Per Cent Profit Rates Must Be Lowered

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12—The public service commission today began notifying utility companies which made more than a six per cent return last year to reduce rates or show cause for not reducing them.

The action was taken under the commission's decision of April 2 in which it set six per cent as the fair rate of return for utility concerns instead of seven per cent previously allowed.

Fifty companies, including telephone, electric, water, natural and manufactured gas, combination gas and electric and steam heat concerns, were among the first to be notified. November 15 was set as the deadline for filing replies.

Names Withheld.

Names of the companies affected were not made public, it being explained that the action taken today was informal rather than a formal citation to show cause.

All the notices were sent as a result of investigations by the commission of 1933 earning reports. In the letters to the various companies, the commission said it "has made a study of the rate of return earned by your company for the year 1933, based upon the annual report and data available to it, and finds that its earnings for that year appear to have been substantially in excess of six per cent."

Mystery Figure Enters Probe Of Assassinations

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Oct. 12.—A mysterious figure known only as "Little Hans" entered the sweeping invesigation into the Marseilles assassinations today as French police wrested admissions from two men held at Annemasse that they were members of the same organization as the murderer of King Alexander.

Ladislas Benes, arrested with Jaroslav Novak at Annemasse when they tried to cross the border into Switzerland, told of this shadowy figure in the course of searching examination by police with continued throughout the night.

This information gave authorities the first clue to the man who may prove to be responsible for the forging of passports which enabled Benes and Novak, as well as Petrus Kalemen, the assassin himself, to enter France.

Gradually breaking down the resistance of the two suspects, French police became satisfied that a definite plot had been formulated by Croatian emigres to assassinate Alexander while he was in France, and that Benes and Novak had some part to play.

Novak said he had obtained his passport in Zurich, Switzerland, from "Little Hans," and entered France by way of Lausanne and Evian-Lesbains in September 22. Police believe "Little Hans" is one of the chieftains of the Oustachi, Croatian extremist organization, and that Novak was scheduled to report to him.

Decision Will Be Appealed

In a decision handed down by the NRA on Thursday was one ordering the Blue Eagle of the Johnson Bronze company lifted for failure to comply with the rulings of the board. At the offices of the company today P. J. Flaherty, president, could not be reached as he is out of the city. Preston Flaherty, vice president of the company, said that the order would be appealed inasmuch as the company had complied with the previous decision of the board concerning collective bargaining and other features.

Pitt Is Favored To Take Measure Of Southern California Eleven Saturday

OTHER GAMES WILL DRAW ATTENTION

By WARREN (FATS) HELLER
All-American Halfback In 1932
International News Service Sports Writer
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12—Gridiron classics turn into the difficult stages this week end.

From now on football paths to glory and fame will be strewn with hard knocks that will test the mettle of the best. Weak teams will fall by the wayside with great rapidity.

But behind it all will be the splendor and color of the collegiate games. This autumnal display and the "do-or-die" spirit," always fascinating the spectators, has illuminated the horizon.

Pitt-Southern. Cal

Perhaps the best demonstration of it will be given Saturday in Pittsburgh when the Golden Panthers clash with the warring Gladistors of Southern California. Here is an international battle that should have all the pathos, drama and color one desires. Pitt, battling an opponent that has humbled it in former years, is out for revenge. The Trojans took a beating last week on the coast and will come back but not with sufficient punch and fire to stop the clawing Panthers.

Anxious to score its first major win of the season, Duquesne stacks up against a strong Bucknell team here tonight. The Dukes have been beaten once and Bucknell was held to a scoreless tie. It will be a close battle but I look for a Duquesne victory.

W & J At Detroit

The presidents of W. & J. parade into Detroit tonight for a tough battle. Detroit University is no setup and they receive my vote.

Grove City takes on Slippery Rock Teachers and it looks like Grove City will be slipping through the grove of players the teachers will put on the field in an attempt to win on their home field.

Saturday brings a feast of games complete with thrills.

Penn Vs Yale

Pennsylvania visits the Yale Bowl where the blue bulldogs are growling for a victim after losing to Columbia last Saturday. Penn also took a downfall in its initial start against little Ursinus. Harvey Harmon will have to let the cat out of the bag if he wants to take Ducky Pond's Yale squad.

The Franklin-Marshall-Lafayette tussle at Easton will be close and interesting. Despite the power they have shown in two victories I fear F. & M. will crumble under the pressure of Lafayette.

Opposing the battlefield boys Gettysburg at State College, Penn State will experience trouble but should carve out a victory.

The day will be gloomy for Carnegie Tech. Not convincing in the warm-up tussles, the Tartans trudge into the home field of Michigan State College. The Lansing boys upset dopesters last week by taking Michigan University and they should add another scalp to their belts in the Tech fray.

Temple Vs Indiana

Glenn S. (Pop) Warner sends his Temple charges against their most difficult foe so far—Indiana. Warner has an impressive team but it don't be strong enough to stop the Hoosiers when they start marching.

Proud of its first victory in two years, Allegheny College seeks and will find trouble on the campus at Alfred College in New York State. In Waynesburg's conflict with Bethany, W. Va., I am stringing along with the Virginians.

St. Vincent will have plenty to cheer about against Clarion teachers. Lock Haven should take Bloomsburg. Westminster will experience no trouble at Edinboro.

With the score tied . . . 3 minutes to play and only 10 yards to go . . . do you nonchalantly look at your watch and leave the field? Of course you don't!

Then you'll have a wild time down here among these Varsity-Town suits. You'll act differently than you've ever acted in a clothing store before . . . you'll have good reason to.

Other men have thrilled at this new styling . . . so will you. Other men have paid these prices with a smile and you'll follow suit . . . with the finest suit you ever owned.

The Suits from $25.00

The Topcoats $21.50

COAST COLLEGES

Football teams from the slopes of the Pacific will be in the limelight this Saturday with Stanford and Southern California playing major opponents. St. Mary's, Washington State, and Washington will also be in for their portion of attention.

After looking bad in victory over a small college and showing no improvement in being defeated by a good team we can't see much chance for a Southern California victory over Pitt. The reputation, peculiar system, and past records of the Trojans will not be sufficient if their players are inferior to the Panthers and that looks to be the case.

Stanford, in spite of having been tied by Santa Clara, is still a good football team and should fare better in their intersectional than Southern California since Stanford is better than the House of Troy and Northwestern isn't as good as Pitt.

St. Mary's and Washington State, after defeating California and the Trojans, respectively, must be regarded as major teams until further notice.

Jimmy Phelan's Washington outfit, expected to be the outstanding team in the Northwest, is still going strong. Their game tomorrow with the Oregon Webfoots will be their first of any importance, however.

the train ride and I'll take Oklahoma.

Dukes Vs Tech

Dukes, of course, figures against Georgia Tech, which won last year but just doesn't figure to repeat the miracle. Nebraska and Iowa? Ordinarily, Nebraska. But the huskers, I understand, are not quite what they'd like to be and the Hawkeyes are supposed to be loaded. Therefore and as venture, a tie. I'll naturally take Michigan State, winner against Michigan, over Carnegie Tech, especially at East Lansing where State doesn't lose many.

Ellwood High To Meet Braddock

Blue And White To Meet New Opponent At Lincoln Field At 2:30 Saturday

TUBERS PRIMED FOR HARD BATTLE

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 12.—Ellwood City sports fans will have an opportunity to see a new grid opponent against the Blue and White Saturday afternoon when they will be hosts to Braddock High of near Pittsburgh. The game is scheduled to begin at 2:30.

The locals are again primed for a real battle for Coach Ham Hudson's warriors are a deeply respected foe wherever they play. They are a marvelous defensive team featuring a strong and rugged forward wall, which mighty New Castle could not even penetrate and had to pass for both of their touchdowns to acquire a 13-0 victory. Braddock has held New Kensington High to a scoreless tie, but last Saturday were defeated by a fine Latrobe team 25-0.

Coach "Ganzy" Benedict and his assistant Mike Ferrare have been drilling their Ellwood High gridders in developing a scoring punch, during the past week. A lengthy scrimmage was held on Wednesday and Thursday. They have also been perfecting their aerial game, which of late has been entirely unsatisfactory. Bill Young seems to have difficulty in developing accuracy. This is the chief reason for the failure of the aerial game. Lately the locals have been missing and fumbling good heaves. It is hoped that all this will be taken out of their system by tomorrow afternoon. The coaches also spent considerable time in improving the running attack and especially the deception plays.

Ellwood came out of the Beaver Falls game in fine shape and will be able to present their strongest line-up against the invaders. The Tubers are anxious to start winning games after experiencing two scoreless battles. They thoroughly realize that they will have to be on their toes every minute of the game if they are to take over Braddock.

The probable line-up:

ELLWOOD		BRADDOCK
Jeannette	L E	Tate
Marcus	L T	Wuzzle
Kaufman	L G	Markowitz
Kraynak	C	Stirlen
Steckman	R G	Desniek
Rocco	R T	Davis

Council Fails To Sell Boro Property At Special Meeting

Other Matters Transacted At Meeting In City Building Thursday Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 12.—Borough council of Ellwood City failed to dispose of its property on Second street and Pittsburgh Circle and Second and Crescent avenue at a meeting held for this purpose in the city building last night.

Only one bid had been received which was unsatisfactory. Council decided to readvertise.

Other matters were transacted at this time. The street committee and borough manager were given power to act on the request of the Freedom Oil company in building a gas station at Fifth street and Spring avenue on the old site of the Harmony station. Approval was given for setting a curb back a few feet on the corner of Todd avenue and Wampum avenue in order to have a better driving condition. This is to be used in building a wider approach to the bridge coming from the direction of Wampum. The bridge at presnt is being repaired by the state highway department.

Eerie indeed were the strange characters that gathered in the correspondingly "spooky" club rooms. When the identity of everyone had been ascertained prizes were awarded to Mrs. Clifford Vinroe, Mrs. Laura Weller and Mrs. J. W. Kimpel.

Games and contests followed with prizes being awarded Mesdames Jacob Glasser, John Grant and Homer Ford and the door prize went to Mrs. Howard Wiley. A typical Hallowe'en luncheon was served by Mrs. Robert Hudson, Mrs. Clifford Vinroe and Mrs. Arthur Hazen.

Next regular meeting will be held on Thursday evening, November 15, in the club room at Ellport.

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 12.—The Building committee of the Board of Education, headed by Dr. H. E. Helling, reported that fine progress was being made on the new wing to the Lincoln high school, at the board's monthly meeting in the Lincoln high school.

Boilers in the various schools have been inspected and repaired. Fireproofing the West End building was authorized by the board at this time. Pitt Is Favored To Take Measure Of Southern California Eleven Saturday

OTHER GAMES WILL DRAW ATTENTION

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12—Gridiron classics turn into the difficult stages this week end.

From now on football paths to glory and fame will be strewn with hard knocks that will test the mettle of the best. Weak teams will fall by the wayside with great rapidity.

But behind it all will be the splendor and color of the collegiate games. This autumnal display and the "do-or-die" spirit," always fascinating the spectators, has illuminated the horizon.

Pitt-Southern Cal

Perhaps the best demonstration of it will be given Saturday in Pittsburgh when the Golden Panthers clash with the warring Gladistors of Southern California. Here is an international battle that should have all the pathos, drama and color one desires. Pitt, battling an opponent that has humbled it in former years, is out for revenge. The Trojans took a beating last week on the coast and will come back but not with sufficient punch and fire to stop the clawing Panthers.

Anxious to score its first major win of the season, Duquesne stacks up against a strong Bucknell team here tonight. The Dukes have been beaten once and Bucknell was held to a scoreless tie. It will be a close battle but I look for a Duquesne victory.

W & J At Detroit

The presidents of W. & J. parade into Detroit tonight for a tough battle. Detroit University is no setup and they receive my vote.

Grove City takes on Slippery Rock Teachers and it looks like Grove City will be slipping through the grove of players the teachers will put on the field in an attempt to win on their home field.

Saturday brings a feast of games complete with thrills.

Penn Vs Yale

Pennsylvania visits the Yale Bowl where the blue bulldogs are growling for a victim after losing to Columbia last Saturday. Penn also took a downfall in its initial start against little Ursinus. Harvey Harmon will have to let the cat out of the bag if he wants to take Ducky Pond's Yale squad.

The Franklin-Marshall-Lafayette tussle at Easton will be close and interesting. Despite the power they have shown in two victories I fear F. & M. will crumble under the pressure of Lafayette.

Opposing the battlefield boys Gettysburg at State College, Penn State will experience trouble but should carve out a victory.

The day will be gloomy for Carnegie Tech. Not convincing in the warm-up tussles, the Tartans trudge into the home field of Michigan State College. The Lansing boys upset dopesters last week by taking Michigan University and they should add another scalp to their belts in the Tech fray.

Temple Vs Indiana

Glenn S. (Pop) Warner sends his Temple charges against their most difficult foe so far—Indiana. Warner has an impressive team but it don't be strong enough to stop the Hoosiers when they start marching.

Proud of its first victory in two years, Allegheny College seeks and will find trouble on the campus at Alfred College in New York State. In Waynesburg's conflict with Bethany, W. Va., I am stringing along with the Virginians.

St. Vincent will have plenty to cheer about against Clarion teachers. Lock Haven should take Bloomsburg. Westminster will experience no trouble at Edinboro.

When the ball goes up the field do you look down the other way?

With the score tied . . . 3 minutes to play and only 10 yards to go . . . do you nonchalantly look at your watch and leave the field? Of course you don't!

You react to thrills the same as other men . . . right?

Then you'll have a wild time down here among these Varsity-Town suits. You'll act differently than you've ever acted in a clothing store before . . . you'll have good reason to.

Other men have thrilled at this new styling . . . so will you. Other men have paid these prices with a smile and you'll follow suit . . . with the finest suit you ever owned.

The Topcoats $21.50

COAST COLLEGES

Football teams from the slopes of the Pacific will be in the limelight this Saturday with Stanford and Southern California playing major opponents. St. Mary's, Washington State, and Washington will also be in for their portion of attention.

After looking bad in victory over a small college and showing no improvement in being defeated by a good team we can't see much chance for a Southern California victory over Pitt. The reputation, peculiar system, and past records of the Trojans will not be sufficient if their players are inferior to the Panthers and that looks to be the case.

Stanford, in spite of having been tied by Santa Clara, is still a good football team and should fare better in their intersectional than Southern California since Stanford is better than the House of Troy and Northwestern isn't as good as Pitt.

St. Mary's and Washington State, after defeating California and the Trojans, respectively, must be regarded as major teams until further notice.

Jimmy Phelan's Washington outfit, expected to be the outstanding team in the Northwest, is still going strong. Their game tomorrow with the Oregon Webfoots will be their first of any importance, however.

DeHarts To Open Grid Season Today

DeHarts A. C. football team will open the 1934 season today by meeting the Tolan A. C. at Sampson the street street field at 4:30 o'clock. This will be a warm-up game for the opening of the Independent league on Sunday, October 20.

Dukes, of course, figures against Georgia Tech, which won last year but just doesn't figure to repeat the miracle. Nebraska and Iowa? Ordinarily, Nebraska. But the huskers, I understand, are not quite what they'd like to be and the Hawkeyes are supposed to be loaded. Therefore and as venture, a tie. I'll naturally take Michigan State, winner against Michigan, over Carnegie Tech, especially at East Lansing where State doesn't lose many.

Ellwood High To Meet Braddock

Blue And White To Meet New Opponent At Lincoln Field At 2:30 Saturday

TUBERS PRIMED FOR HARD BATTLE

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 12.—Ellwood City sports fans will have an opportunity to see a new grid opponent against the Blue and White Saturday afternoon when they will be hosts to Braddock High of near Pittsburgh. The game is scheduled to begin at 2:30.

The locals are again primed for a real battle for Coach Ham Hudson's warriors are a deeply respected foe wherever they play. They are a marvelous defensive team featuring a strong and rugged forward wall, which mighty New Castle could not even penetrate and had to pass for both of their touchdowns to acquire a 13-0 victory. Braddock has held New Kensington High to a scoreless tie, but last Saturday were defeated by a fine Latrobe team 25-0.

Coach "Ganzy" Benedict and his assistant Mike Ferrare have been drilling their Ellwood High gridders in developing a scoring punch, during the past week. A lengthy scrimmage was held on Wednesday and Thursday. They have also been perfecting their aerial game which of late has been entirely unsatisfactory. Bill Young seems to have difficulty in developing accuracy. This is the chief reason for the failure of the aerial game. Lately the locals have been missing and fumbling good heaves. It is hoped that all this will be taken out of their system by tomorrow afternoon. The coaches also spent considerable time in improving the running attack and especially the deception plays.

Ellwood came out of the Beaver Falls game in fine shape and will be able to present their strongest line-up against the invaders. The Tubers are anxious to start winning games after experiencing two scoreless battles. They thoroughly realize that they will have to be on their toes every minute of the game if they are to take over Braddock.

The probable line-up:

ELLWOOD		BRADDOCK
Jeannette	L E	Tate
Marcus	L T	Wuzzie
Kaufman	L G	Markowitz
Kraynak	C	Stirlen
Steckman	R G	Desniek
Rocco	R T	Davis

Mother Of Ten Children Dies Suicide Victim

Woman Fashions Crude Gallows And Hangs Herself In Home Near Philadelphia

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Believed to have been driven to her act by prolonged illness, Mrs. Esther Gross, 49-year-old mother of ten children, strangled herself to death Thursday in an ingenious manner, according o police.

The woman's body, a crocheted cord and a Turkish towel wound tightly around her neck, was found by her husband, Abraham, at the foot of a staircase in their Overbrook home.

She had seated herself on the bottom stair, tied the cord about her neck and attached the towel to the newel post in such a fashion as to encircle her neck by the loop. Pulling the cord, she fell forward. The noose of the towel caught her and she was strangled to death, police said.

The woman's husband told detectives his wife had been ill for ten years and that recently a physician advised the family that her nerves were in such a distraught state that she should not be left alone at any moment.

Mr. and Mrs. Gross lived in the Overbrook home with six unmarried children.

Retirement Act Under Question

Railroad Retirement Act Is Questioned As To Constitutionality

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Constitutionality of the railroad retirement act was questioned again in the District of Columbia supreme court Thursday by a group of 150 railroads.

In a prior attack on the act, which the railroads say will cost them $60,000,000 a year for the first five years, with gradually increasing costs, Justice Letts held that because of the small amount of money that would be assessed against the individual carriers, there was not a sufficient showing of "irreparable" injury to entitle them to a preliminary injunction.

In the present case the railroads are seeking a temporary injunction which would have the effect of forestalling payment into the United States treasury of the amount of money each carrier is to be called upon to pay to insure payment of old age pensions to their employes.

Chief among the contentions of the carriers is their charge that 20 per cent of their employes who are covered by the "social legislation" are white-collar workers who are not engaged in interstate commerce work and are not therefore subject to national legislation.

Dieters Are Served Miniature Luncheon

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 12.—Mrs. C. L. Peirce, Jr., re-elected president of the Woman's City club, tells a story on some of her dieting friends—some who dieted verbally, but enjoyed their food pretty much, even so. One of the group who were bridge players and met weekly, in a joking mood, served them a bridge luncheon planned as she might have, had the dieting been done conscientiously.

She served it in her children's playroom, at the small table the youngsters used. The bullion was served in dolls' tea cups; the ices in liqueur glasses. The meat was the tiny center of a lamb chop, and the potatoes were potato balls. She selected the tiniest tomatoes possible, and stuffed them, and the biscuits were cut with a thimble.

Finds Worm Farm Is Way To Profit

(International News Service)

PRAGUE, Oct. 12—Czechoslovakia fishermen have found it hard to get worms for bait this year, owing to the drought. So an angler at Brno (Moravia) has provided himself with a profitable business by establishing a worm farm for his fellows of the rod and line.

Worms are supplied in tins containing their original earth. They are guaranteed to remain alive and wiggling for one month.

The breeder, Josef Hochenzug, converted a field into a large "bed" for the worms. They cannot escape, because a foot below the soil there is a thick layer of concrete.

NEW MANAGER FOR NEISNER'S

From Rochester, New York, today came the announcement that S. G. Lipkin, of Pittsburgh, will succeed Morris Carsman as manager of Neisner's store.

Mr. Lipkin, together with his wife, arrived here Thursday afternoon. Mr. Carsman will leave Sunday morning to assume his duties in Chicago, where he will manage a large Neisner store.

SENIOR HIGH PLANS WEEK'S ART EXHIBIT

A community art exhibit of almost 180 pictures, reproductions of the great paintings of all time, will be sponsored at Senior high school on the evenings of October 29, 30 and 31 and November 1 and 2, Principal F. L. Orth announced today.

Faculty committees have been named to handle arrangements.

John F. Beedell of Thorverton, England, refused to kiss the court Bible when called as a witness, declaring it was "indecently dirty from long use."

Orth Sees Smaller Post Graduate Roll As Favorable Sign

Only 78 This Year As Compared With 240 In 1932; Many In Colleges

The sharp drop in post graduate students at Senior high school this fall leads Principal F. L. Orth to believe that the economic horizon here is brighter.

Pointing out that only 78 "P. G's" are enrolled this term as compared to a peak of 240 in the spring of 1932, Principal Orth declares that "it must show that many have found jobs or else are in colleges."

Money—hard cash—is more plentiful among the students this year, Mr. Orth reports. He drew a contrast between today and a year ago. "Our cafeteria business is better, and when we ask students to set aside locker reservation money, they seem to have it. It was a different story a year ago," he commented.

Studying as post graduates this semester are 43 boys and 35 girls.

LIGHTNING BOLT WENT THROUGH CLOTHING

(International News Service)

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Captain A. V. West, of the motor tanker Stourgate, has probably the most watchful personal guardian angel in the world—at least he declares he has ample reason for that belief.

During a recent electrical storm, the skipper was standing in the doorway of an inn at Ramsgate when a flash of lightning struck him to the ground. He was picked up dazed, but absolutely unhurt, and it was discovered that the lightning had burned the celluloid back of his collar-button; burned a hole in his shirt; burned the elastic of his suspenders in two and melted the metal buckles of his suspenders.

The idea isn't new. The government has always seemed opposed to price-cutting when it bought anything.

Johnson Has Secret Plans

Resigned NRA Head Lays Plans For Continuing Of Recovery Program

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Resting at Walter Reed hospital today with his story of the NRA, in book form, almost completed, Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson has engaged an office suite here.

His friends say the general, who formally quits the new deal as national recovery administrator on Monday, plans to continue his efforts to promote industrial recovery and industrial harmony in a private capacity.

Although Johnson will not divulge his plans, his intimates say he is going to put out a shingle as the number one counsellor on NRA codes, available for hire by both industry and labor.

These friends of Johnson say he is the only private citizen available who can ably interpret the many voluminous and complicated codes since he either composed them or directed their composition. Already quite a few industrial enterprises have sought to employ him exclusively for their own organizations.

New Castle Set For Washington

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh Has New Castle Team Ready For Class AA Game

RED AND BLACK OUT FOR VICTORY

New Castle high school football team will go to Washington, Pa., Saturday morning to battle with the Cox coached Washington high eleven in the second class AA conference game on the 1934 program. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

The 1933 class AA champions were ready for a gruelling game tomorrow afternoon. Washington high is undefeated this year and sporting one of the toughest teams that they have had for quite a few years. Last week the Little Presidents defeated Clairton high 6 0 in a class AA game.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh will give the New Castles a final polishing this afternoon and be ready to board the big busses tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock bound for the fifth game on the current card.

Hope For Victory.

The setback suffered at the hands of the Johnstown team last Saturday has only whetted the local appetites all the more. New Castle will probably redeem itself Saturday against Washington with a fine exhibition.

All of the locals are in fine shape for the Washington game, with Raskowski, the hard working captain, back in the fold after being out a few days with a "charley-horse". Fleming has recovered from the Johnstown game and will be rarin' for action Saturday.

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner will be in charge of the New Castle high team on their trip to Washington. A squad of about 25 will be taken by Bridenbaugh.

Alec and Fred Shellogg, the veteran tackles of the New Castle high school football team, have been granted permission to rejoin the squad and will probably make the trip to Washington with the "Red Hurricane".

Slippery Rock All Set For Alumni Fete On Saturday

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., Oct. 12.—Thousands of prodigal pedagogues will feast on fatted calf at the big alumni home-coming at Slippery Rock State Teachers' college on Saturday.

At 2 p. m. Bill Amos' tide of Crimson warriors from Grove City College will endeavor to inundate the Slippery Rock Green and White eleven in a grid battle royal.

Then comes the ox roast on the college campus. During the ox munching the alumni diners will be entertained with dances, music, specialty numbers and tumbling by members of the present student body.

As the grand finale two orchestras will produce music for dancing in both college gymnasiums.

Events included coon and fox chases each day, clay pigeon and rifle shoots, old fiddlers' contests, fly-casting demonstrations, street fair and vaudeville features. An ox roast and street dance climaxed the program last evening.

Important Grid Games Saturday

Michigan Will Play Chicago, Duke Tangles With Georgia Tech, Penn-Yale Play

MORE UPSETS ARE LIKELY TO DEVELOP

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—With the echo of last Saturday's violent detonations still ringing in its outraged ears, intercollegiate football will go into another and bigger day tomorrow, the South and middle west absorbing the major impact. The far west hasn't too-much—Oregon versus Washington and Stanford versus Northwestern. The East has practically nothing at all except Pitt and Southern California, a Rose Bowl event that stepped on its own necktie when U. S. C. was beaten three touchdowns by Washington state.

But the other two sections are virtually out of control with in the words of the college correspondent, hallowed opponent playing traditional rival all over the greensward or, in fewer words, the joint.

Michigan Vs Chicago

There is, for example, the game between Michigan and Chicago in the mid west and the game between Duke and Georgia Tech in the South. Also Illinois versus Ohio state, Nebraska versus Iowa, Notre Dame versus Purdue and Michigan State versus Carnegie Tech in one section and Louisiana State versus Alabama Poly, Rice versus Southern Methodist Texas versus Oklahoma and A. & M. versus entenary in the other.

No two ways about it, these sections believe in immediate results. They don't spar around waiting for an opening. They collide first and find out about it afterward.

Trojans Favored

There will be quite a collision at Pittsburgh where the Pitt boys have assembled their usual share of good, Harry deckhands, prepared to repel the invasion from the coast. In ordinary times, this would be the game of the day, the month and perhaps the year but U. S. C. seems a little weak in the positions where it needs strength for the system it employs and it blew a ball game last Saturday to Washington State without the slightest vestige of trouble.

Nevertheless, I think all the proof is on Pitt and, if it does better than a tie after Southern California's superior preparation, I'll be surprised.

Michigan ought to have enough for Chicago. Still fighting its way out of a new system. As for Illinois, it's supposed to be good but Ohio State must be, considering its clean up of Indiana. You can call this one any way you want, but I'll take the Buckeye Notre Dame and Purdue. I think Notre Dame may have enough this time.

At the same time, Notre Dame's conqueror, Texas, is going to take that long train ride back home and then get ready for Oklahoma. In a case like that, I'll let Texas take

INTRODUCING
By JACK SORDS

CHET WYNNE, new coach at the University of Kentucky, a native of Long Island, Kas., is a product of Notre Dame. While at Notre Dame, 1920-1922, he was a noted fullback.

He was known as Rockne's favorite pupil because, during the coaching schools which Rockne conducted, the Old Master always called on Wynne to demonstrate the correct manner of carrying the ball, stiff-arming, dodging, blocking and tackling. He was a member of the celebrated Notre Dame backfield which included George Gipp.

Since his graduation Wynne has developed most of his time to football coaching. His first job was with Midland college, Nebraska, later going to Creighton university as coach and athletic director. His Creighton team won the Missouri Valley conference championship. Wynne then went to Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Wynne improved the Plainsmen so rapidly that in his third year as coach he developed a team which won the co-championship of the Southeastern conference.

Wynne came to Kentucky last spring to succeed Harry Gamage as head coach. He also was elected athletic director.

Bessemer Faces New Brighton Hi

Bessemer high's undefeated football team faces a tough battle tomorrow afternoon with the Roark coached New Brighton high team at the New Brighton field. Bessemer has taken the measure of Freedom, Zellenople and Scianceville this year and hopes to make it four in a row.

Coach Fredericks was confident of his team putting up a fine game tomorrow.

Junior Football Games On Sunday

The following schedule will be played by the Junior football league Sunday, October 14: Canaries vs. Williams, at Elders field; Croton vs. Catholics at B. &O. field; Miltons vs. West Side, at West Side field. Judging from the close scores of the opening games, the teams are all strong this year.

Geneva Is Beaten By Salem College

West Virginia School Upsets Genevians 25 To 7 In Night Battle

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 12.—Geneva college football team ran up against a tartar last night in the Salem college football team, losing 25 to 7 at Reeves stadium in a night engagement. Geneva tallied in the first period with Percelli going over for the touchdown.

Salem opened up with an attack in the second period and tied the score at the half, 7-7. In the third period the West Virginians opened up with another fast attack and shoved over two touchdowns, making the fourth and last one in the fourth period.

Krumenacker was the big star for the Salems, making three of the touchdowns on long passes well taken by the star Salem left end. Geneva had 10 first downs to seven for Salem.

Shenango-Union Are Away Today

Shenango High Playing At Mercer, And Union High Is At Grove City

Two of the Lawrence county high school football teams are playing on foreign soil this afternoon.

Coach Davey Boyd took his Union high school football team to Grove City early this afternoon for a tussle with the Joe Hartman coached Grove City high team. Union hopes for a victory today after four straight defeats.

Coach Ed Raney took his Shenango high team to Mercer today for a grid battle with "Bill" Cromwell's Mercer high eleven. Shenango was confident of taking the measure of the Mercers today, with all of the Shenango regulars back in shape for the battle.

Women Golfers Seeking Crown

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—With four of the nation's leading feminine golfers still in the running, the 22nd annual Berthellyn tournament today moved into its semi-final round at the Huntingdon Valley Country club.

In the opening match of the semi-finals, Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Jr., who before her marriage two years ago had worn the national women's crown five times, faces stern opposition in Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Herd, Merion.

Edith Quier, Huntingdon Valley, who was co-medalist with Mrs. Vare on Monday, meets Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, Wis., in the semi-final.

Success is easy. You just learn what the people will pay for and then learn how to do it.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Fights and wrestling bouts usually follow the world series and this season it is true of the Pittsburgh section. In the Northside arena, a battler who is known here will take on Johnny Durso. He is Mickie Duris, who boxed Phil Goldstein and Paris Cangey in this city. Another lad who strutted his wares here will oppose Dominic Mancini. He is Jimmy Dean of Erie. Next Thursday wrestling will be featured in Pittsburgh where the grapplers would like to obtain a firm hold. Sandor Szabo, Hungarian, will take on Frank Brunowicz, a Pole.

W. H. Scott, owned by E. C. Moon of Mercer and driven by Jesse Smith fell at the last turn and John Dean, owned and driven by Fred Killmeyer of Pittsburgh, was too close and was thrown, as was Guy Putney, driven by George Reynolds at Waynesburg track in a harness event yesterday. Smith suffered a broken shoulder and Killmeyer a broken collar bone. W. H. Scott, driven by Smith, sustained an injured leg and could not continue the race. In the first event Col Drew won the 2:23 pace by taking two heats in 2:10. Mountaineer Direct won the 2:17 pace in 2:07½, and in the 2:12 trot, Lulu W won the first two heats and race.

Cubs Give Herman To Brooklyn Team

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—The Chicago Cubs have traded Outfielder Babe Herman to the Brooklyn Dodgers in exchange for First Baseman Sam Leslie, it was rumored here Thursday.

Titans To Play At Edinboro

Game On Saturday Promises Lot Of Opposition For Westminster

THIEL WILL BE MET OCTOBER 20

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 12—Forward pass defense, and a shifting of linemen to cope with the low-charging Edinboro forward wall have occupied the Westminster College gridders this week. Coaches Bill and Tom Gilbone will take the squad to Edinboro tomorrow morning for the contest.

Plans made for the trip include leaving here at 9:30 tomorrow morning, stopping at Meadville for lunch at 10:30, and leaving Meadville for Edinboro at 11:30. The game with the Teachers will take place at 2 o'clock.

A squad of 28 players will probably make the trip. Don Heimick will probably start at center, while Lou Franklin, regular center for three years, will see action at a tackle post. All members of the squad are available for the game, but Sweeney, Franklin and Mintz are all suffering bruises and injuries which may slow them up.

Following tomorrow's game with Edinboro, the Titans will be spending their energies toward perfecting a defense to stop Thiel in the home-coming day game here October 20. Jack Stoeber's Lutherans, after defeating Geneva, 12-7, look to be one of the strongest teams in the district.

Panther-Trojan Game Headlines Football Card

Pitt Is Favored To Take Measure Of Southern California Eleven Saturday

OTHER GAMES WILL DRAW ATTENTION

By WARREN (FATS) HELLER
All-American Halfback In 1932
International News Service Sports Writer
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12—Gridiron classics turn into the difficult stages this week end.

From now on football paths to glory and fame will be strewn with hard knocks that will test the mettle of the best. Weak teams will fall by the wayside with great rapidity.

But behind it all will be the splendor and color of the collegiate games. This autumnal display and the "do-or-die" spirit," always fascinating the spectators, has illuminated the horizon.

Pitt-Southern. Cal

Perhaps the best demonstration of it will be given Saturday in Pittsburgh when the Golden Panthers clash with the warring Gladistors of Southern California. Here is an international battle that should have all the pathos, drama and color one desires. Pitt, battling an opponent that has humbled it in former years, is out for revenge. The Trojans took a beating last week on the coast and will come back but not with sufficient punch and fire to stop the clawing Panthers.

Anxious to score its first major win of the season, Duquesne stacks up against a strong Bucknell team here tonight. The Dukes have been beaten once and Bucknell was held to a scoreless tie. It will be a close battle but I look for a Duquesne victory.

W & J At Detroit

The presidents of W. & J. parade into Detroit tonight for a tough battle. Detroit University is no setup and they receive my vote.

Grove City takes on Slippery Rock Teachers and it looks like Grove City will be slipping through the grove of players the teachers will put on the field in an attempt to win on their home field.

Saturday brings a feast of games complete with thrills.

Penn Vs Yale

Pennsylvania visits the Yale Bowl where the blue bulldogs are growling for a victim after losing to Columbia last Saturday. Penn also took a downfall in its initial start against little Ursinus. Harvey Harmon will have to let the cat out of the bag if he wants to take Ducky Pond's Yale squad.

The Franklin-Marshall-Lafayette tussle at Easton will be close and interesting. Despite the power they have shown in two victories I fear F. & M. will crumble under the pressure of Lafayette.

Opposing the battlefield boys Gettysburg at State College, Penn State will experience trouble but should carve out a victory.

The day will be gloomy for Carnegie Tech. Not convincing in the warm-up tussles, the Tartans trudge into the home field of Michigan State College. The Lansing boys upset dopesters last week by taking Michigan University and they should add another scalp to their belts in the Tech fray.

Temple Vs Indiana

Glenn S. (Pop) Warner sends his Temple charges against their most difficult foe so far—Indiana. Warner has an impressive team but it don't be strong enough to stop the Hoosiers when they start marching.

Proud of its first victory in two years, Allegheny College seeks and will find trouble on the campus at Alfred College in New York State. In Waynesburg's conflict with Bethany, W. Va., I am stringing along with the Virginians.

St. Vincent will have plenty to cheer about against Clarion teachers. Lock Haven should take Bloomsburg. Westminster will experience no trouble at Edinboro.

When the ball goes up the field do you look down the other way?

With the score tied . . . 3 minutes to play and only 10 yards to go . . . do you nonchalantly look at your watch and leave the field? Of course you don't!

You react to thrills the same as other men . . . right?

COAST COLLEGES

Football teams from the slopes of the Pacific will be in the limelight this Saturday with Stanford and Southern California playing major opponents. St. Mary's, Washington State, and Washington will also be in for their portion of attention.

After looking bad in victory over a small college and showing no improvement in being defeated by a good team we can't see much chance for a Southern California victory over Pitt. The reputation, peculiar system, and past records of the Trojans will not be sufficient if their players are inferior to the Panthers and that looks to be the case.

Stanford, in spite of having been tied by Santa Clara, is still a good football team and should fare better in their intersectional than Southern California since Stanford is better than the House of Troy and Northwestern isn't as good as Pitt.

St. Mary's and Washington State, after defeating California and the Trojans, respectively, must be regarded as major teams until further notice.

Jimmy Phelan's Washington outfit, expected to be the outstanding team in the Northwest, is still going strong. Their game tomorrow with the Oregon Webfoots will be their first of any importance, however.

DeHarts To Open Grid Season Today

DeHarts A. C. football team will open the 1934 season today by meeting the Tolan A. C. at Sampson the street street field at 4:30 o'clock. This will be a warm-up game for the opening of the Independent league on Sunday, October 20.

the train ride and I'll take Oklahoma.

Dukes Vs Tech

Dukes, of course, figures against Georgia Tech, which won last year but just doesn't figure to repeat the miracle. Nebraska and Iowa? Ordinarily, Nebraska. But the huskers, I understand, are not quite what they'd like to be and the Hawkeyes are supposed to be loaded. Therefore and as venture, a tie. I'll naturally take Michigan State, winner against Michigan, over Carnegie Tech, especially at East Lansing where State doesn't lose many.

Mrs. C. S. Hart, president of the New Castle Council of Republican women, and a number of women from the city will go to Erie Saturday to attend an all day conference of the state council.

Ellwood High To Meet Braddock

Blue And White To Meet New Opponent At Lincoln Field At 2:30 Saturday

TUBERS PRIMED FOR HARD BATTLE

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 12.—Ellwood City sports fans will have an opportunity to see a new grid opponent against the Blue and White Saturday afternoon when they will be hosts to Braddock High of near Pittsburgh. The game is scheduled to begin at 2:30.

The locals are again primed for a real battle for Coach Ham Hudson's warriors are a deeply respected foe wherever they play. They are a marvelous defensive team featuring a strong and rugged forward wall, which mighty New Castle could not even penetrate and had to pass for both of their touchdowns to acquire a 13-0 victory. Braddock has held New Kensington High to a scoreless tie, but last Saturday were defeated by a fine Latrobe team 25-0.

Coach "Ganzy" Benedict and his assistant Mike Ferrare have been drilling their Ellwood High gridders in developing a scoring punch, during the past week. A lengthy scrimmage was held on Wednesday and Thursday. They have also been perfecting their aerial game, which of late has been entirely unsatisfactory. Bill Young seems to have difficulty in developing accuracy. This is the chief reason for the failure of the aerial game. Lately the locals have been missing and fumbling good heaves. It is hoped that all this will be taken out of their system by tomorrow afternoon. The coaches also spent considerable time in improving the running attack and especially the deception plays.

Ellwood came out of the Beaver Falls game in fine shape and will be able to present their strongest line-up against the invaders. The Tubers are anxious to start winning games after experiencing two scoreless battles. They thoroughly realize that they will have to be on their toes every minute of the game if they are to take over Braddock.

The probable line-up:

ELLWOOD		BRADDOCK
Jeannette	L E	Tate
Marcus	L T	Wuzzle
Kaufman	L G	Markowitz
Kraynak	C	Stirlen
Steckman	R G	Desniek
Rocco	R T	Davis

Council Fails To Sell Boro Property At Special Meeting

Other Matters Transacted At Meeting In City Building Thursday Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 12.—Borough council of Ellwood City failed to dispose of its property on Second street and Pittsburgh Circle and Second street and Crescent avenue at a meeting held for this purpose in the city building last night.

Only one bid had been received which was unsatisfactory. Council decided to readvertise.

Other matters were transacted at this time. The street committee and borough manager were given power to act on the request of the Freedom Oil company in building a gas station at Fifth street and Spring avenue on the old site of the Harmony station. This is to be used in building a wider approach to the bridge coming from the direction of Wampum. The bridge at presnt is being repaired by the state highway department.

Games and contests followed with prizes being awarded Mesdames Jacob Glasser, John Grant and Homer Ford and the door prize went to Mrs. Howard Wiley. A typical Hallowe'en luncheon was served by Mrs. Robert Hudson, Mrs. Clifford Vinroe and Mrs. Arthur Hazen.

Johnson Has Secret Plans

Resigned NRA Head Lays Plans For Continuing Of Recovery Program

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Resting at Walter Reed hospital today with his story of the NRA, in book form, almost completed, Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson has engaged an office suite here.

His friends say the general, who formally quits the new deal as national recovery administrator on Monday, plans to continue his efforts to promote industrial recovery and industrial harmony in a private capacity.

Although Johnson will not divulge his plans, his intimates say he is going to put out a shingle as the number one counsellor on NRA codes, available for hire by both industry and labor.

These friends of Johnson say he is the only private citizen available who can ably interpret the many voluminous and complicated codes since he either composed them or directed their composition. Already quite a few industrial enterprises have sought to employ him exclusively for their own organizations.

Palaeolithic, or Old Stone Age in Europe began in an unknown past: the Neolithic or New Stone Age dates from about 5,000 B. C.

OLD RUBE STILL HOLDS RECORD

Rube Marquard

Rube Marquard, who as a New York Giant in 1912, won 19 consecutive games, the record Schoolboy Rowe of Detroit hoped in vain to equal or beat, shows some jockey friends at the Narragansett race track, Pawtucket, R. I., how he did it. Rube is earning a living as a ticket seller at the track.

LONG, FLOATING PANELS RULE BOTH IN NIGHT AND EVENING GOWNS

You must have long, floating panels to be strictly in the mode, whether it's a luxurious evening gown you're getting or an equally luxurious nightgown. Kitty Carlisle, screen player, left, shows you the sort of thing in a mossy crepe gown of grayish blue, with circular capes over each shoulder and long, trailing panels behind. They're used again, center, in a white satin night slip with aquamarine chiffon robe which has circular cut flounces on its trailing draperies. A sophisticated formal gown worn by Peggy Fears, right, is of floral canton crepe with coral, emerald, sky blue and white flowers worked out in glistening sequins, and a sequin belt.
